U.S. Orders Naval Forces To Be Alert

Chiang's Airmen Report Downing Of Communist Planes

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The Chinese Communists today slacked off their attacks on the offshore Quemoy and Tan Islands after a weekend of massive bombardment and air and sea activity that aroused fears it was the curtain raiser for Red invasion.

The Nationalists reported turning back a seaborne Communist attempt to seize the island outpost of Tungting, 17 miles south of Quemoy, Sunday night.

Chaing Kai-Shek's forces also claimed their planes shot down two MIG17s in a dog fight over Quemoy Sunday night between 48 MIGs and an undisclosed number of Nationalist jets. It was the largest number of Communist planes so far reported in action at one time over the Formosa Strait.

After plastering the islands with nearly 80,000 artillery shells Saturday and Sunday in the heaviest barrage of the vest-pocket war, the guns on the adjacent Communist territory fired only 2,880 rounds during a four-hour bombardment this morning and another 22 shells in as many minutes during the afternoon.

The Nationalist Defense Ministry said the defenders' guns replied vigorously but did not disclose the volume of counterfire.

The U.S. Defense Department ordered the 7th Fleet and other American naval forces in the Far East to take normal precautionary defense measures "in light of the increased activity in the Taiwan (Formosa) Straits."

The U.S Navy also announced that combined U.S.-Nationalist Chinese naval exercises would be held early next month to promote "close working relations" between the two forces.

The United States is pledged by treaty to defend Formosa and the neighboring Pescadore Islands. As regards Quemoy and the other offshore islands, the Eisenhower administration has followed a policy designed to keep the Reds in doubt whether the 7th Fleet would also go into action if the Communists tried to take them.

Defense spokesmen said Nationalist warships beat back two Communist moves toward Tungting. First navy units clashed with four Red gunboats and six landing craft. An hour later the Nationalist encountered five Red gunboats and 30 armed motorized junks.

The Defense Ministry reported that several Communist torpedo boats attacked two Nationalist LST's carrying wounded soldiers from Quemoy. One LST was sunk but all aboard were taken off. The other LST was damaged and ministry said it was towed to safety.

The Nationalists said they sank two torpedo boats in a 15-minute

High Court Calls Thursday Session To Discuss Little Rock School Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today called a special session Thursday of this week to consider the Little Rock school segregation case.

The high court, convening in the extraordinary session at noon will deal with the application of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People for cancellation of the desegregation delay granted by the 8th Court of Appeals at St. Louis.

The announcement, issued by Chief Justice Warren after consultation with the other members of the high court, said:

"The petitioners have filed with Mr. Justice Whittaker an application for vacation of the order of the United States Court of Appeals for the 8th Circuit staying the issuance of its mandate, and for a stay of the order of the United States District Court for the eastern district of Arkansas of June 21, 1958.

"Mr. Justice Whittaker deeming it more appropriate for the full court to pass upon such a motion, the chief justice, after consultation with other members of the court, has called a special term of the court for Thursday, Aug. 28, at noon, to consider his application.

"The solicitor general of the United States is invited to file a brief and to participate in the oral arguments if he is so advised."

Special terms are a rarity.

The most recent one was called to pass on the appeal of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, later executed as Soviet spies.

Only an issue rated as tremendously important, or as presenting a question which must be settled before the expiration of a time limit, calls the Supreme Court back from summer vacation.

In the Little Rock case the time limit is the Sept. 2 opening date of the new school term.

As the session of the high tribunal was called, members of the Arkansas State Legislature streamed into Little Rock prepared to empower Gov. Orval E. Faubus to close Central High School if the federal government tries to integrate it for a second year.

The current litigation over integration at Central High stems from the action of the U.S. District Court in Little Rock in granting a 2½-year stay of a previous order for desegregation.

The 8th Circuit Court of Appeals threw out that order, and then on the application of the school board stayed the execution of its own ruling pending action by the Supreme Court.

Last week, Justice Whittaker, who has jurisdiction over appeals from 8th Circuit matters while the Supreme Court is in recess, voiced the opinion that one justice could pass on the NAACP application for cancellation of the integration delay.

Dulles' Words Point To Firm Stand By U.S.

American Action Indicated If Reds Try To Grab Isles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two House foreign affairs specialists today viewed Secretary of State Dulles' new warning to Red China as indicating probable U.S. action if the Communists try to seize Quemoy and Matsu.

Both Representatives Clement Zablocki (D-Wis) and Walter H. Judd (R-Minn) backed Dulles' stand as an aid to peace in the Far East.

Dulles said in a statement any Communist Chinese attempt to conquer the tiny Nationalist-held islands off the Chinese mainland would be regarded as a threat to peace in the region.

He did not spell out what, if anything, the United States would do in event of an all-out Communist attack on Quemoy and Matsu, which have been under intensive aerial and artillery bombardment for the past few days.

The Defense Department said Sunday night that in the light of the increased activity in the Formosa Straits the U.S. 7th Fleet and other naval forces in the Far East have been ordered to take normal precautionary defense measures. A department spokesman declined to say what such measures involve.

Two Injured In Barge Blast Near Weirton

WEIRTON (AP) — Pressure which built up in an oil-type barge loaded with glycol probably caused an explosion which injured two men Sunday on the Ohio River near the Weirton Steel Co.

The barge was among 12 towed by the Robert B. Bonnie, a boat owned by American Commercial Barge Line, Inc.

Capt. Phil Brown, pilot of the boat, was knocked unconscious by the blast and required treatment by a physician. Deckhand Harry J. Mins, 23, of Helena, Ark., was hospitalized with a wrenched back but was in good condition.

Capt. Louis Enlow of the Robert P. Bonnie said that the barge carrying glycol, which is used to make anti - freeze, was about 500 feet from the steel firm docks when the explosion occurred. There was no fire.

The blast knocked windows from the towboat's pilot house, smashed an awning and damaged about one-third of the barge. Enlow, who said the built-up pressure probably caused the blast, reported the two was en route to Pittsburgh.

The boat was moored at Brown's docks, pending Coast Guard authorization to proceed.

Crowd's Total Hits 31,000 At County's Fair

Former Paratrooper Replaces Oliver For Balloon Ascension

Columbiana County's 113th annual Fair, marked by almost perfect weather and good crowds, closed Saturday night at Lisbon with Bar M Rodeo repeating its Friday night show before a full grandstand.

Richard Stamp of Salem, Fair Board secretary, estimated the closing day crowd at nearly 7,000, bringing total attendance for the five days to 31,000. Attendance at the 1957 fair was estimated at 25,000.

Only change in the announced program was a substitute for John Oliver, 71-year-old Lisbon jeweler who was scheduled to make his fourth balloon ascension and parachute jump.

Oliver, whose last jump prior to Wednesday was made 42 years ago, injured an ankle Friday night.

The substitute for Saturday's act was Leonard L. Winland of Crestline, young discharged paratrooper who is traveling the fair circuit with horsemen.

Winland said he never had been up in a balloon and was "shaking in his boots" when the time came. The act went off without incident, Winland landing near the Robert

Whereabouts Of Explorer Still Mystery

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —What happened to Explorer V?

The fate of the latest potential American satellite still was an apparent mystery today despite another stellar performance by the Army's "old reliable" Jupiter-C rocket.

Explorer V—the heaviest U.S. moon launched at 37½ pounds — transmitted its signal only briefly after liftoff at 1:17 a.m. Sunday.

Army scientists studied telemetry data received from the spectacular flight in an effort to determine what happened.

They know that the launching ran smoothly. All four stages of the complex Jupiter-C functioned normally, boosting the satellite to the 18,000 m.p.h. velocity needed to plot it into orbit.

A clear Explorer signal was monitored for seven minutes at Ft. Monmouth, N.J. It gradually faded away. Six hours later, the Defense Department announced the satellite was not in orbit.

U.S. scientists hoped Explorer V would tell them more about a

Faubus Slated For Power To Close Doors Of School

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Arkansas lawmakers today laid plans to hand Gov. Orval Faubus power to shut the doors of Central High School should the federal government seek to integrate it a second straight year.

Early arrivals for Tuesday's emergency session of the Legislature pointed to Faubus' landslide renomination this summer as a mandate to follow his leadership.

"When all 75 counties voted for Faubus they meant for the representatives to vote with him too," Rep. John Bethell of Prairie County said.

Both Faubus and the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People raced against time in their struggle over integration at riot-torn Central High. School opens in nine days.

The NAACP looks to the U.S. Supreme Court to order the school integrated opening day. Faubus is depending on the Legslature to block mixing of white and Negro students.

An authoritative source said one bill, in effect, calls for closing Central High if the United States government tries to integrate it either by military force or court order.

The key bill probably will declare the school must be closed if violence looms. Faubus repeatedly has said all his actions involving the school have been aimed at preserving peace.

He also said last week that information he has received indicates any effort to integrate this fall will spark more violence than a year ago.

White demonstrators rioted last fall when nine Negroes entered classes. They battled police until the Negroes were removed. President Eisenhower sent in 1,000 paratroopers, who bayoneted one man and smashed another's face with a rifle butt while driving the demonstrators away.

The NAACP last week petitioned Justice Charles Whittaker of the U.S. Supreme Court to reverse lower court decisions and open the

Nautilus Gets Big Welcome In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—The atomic-powered submarine Nautilus, fresh from her historic passage under the North Pole ice, got a whistling, cheering but rainy welcome from New York today.

Police helicopters circled a flotilla of about 20 Navy destroyer escorts, Coast Guard cutters, tankers, tugs, police launches and fireboats. They escorted the Nautilus through the harbor, part way up the Hudson River, and then around the tip of Manhattan headed for the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

The windows of Manhattan's skyscrapers bordering the water were jammed with office workers who waved greetings to the Nautilus crew standing smartly at attention on deck in a driving rain.

Fireboats arched cascades of water and liners berthed along the river blew their hoarse whistles in the traditional harbor greeting.

The mighty underwater boat made her dress cruise along three miles of Manhattan's shore to give New Yorkers a better look at her.

Woman Killed, 5 Hurt In Car-Truck Crash

IRWIN, Pa. (AP) — An auto-truck collision Sunday night on Route 30 near Irwin killed a Westmoreland County woman and injured five other persons.

Killed was Mrs. Nell Barbish, 40, of Adamsburg.

Injured were her husband, Walter, 43, and two of the couple's daughters, Frances, 16, and Patricia, 4, and the driver of the Jeannette, and his sister, Mary Shinoski, 47.

All of the injured were admitted to Westmoreland Hospital in Greensburg in fairly good condition.

The truck driver, Carl Curtis, 32, of Weston, W. Va., escaped injury.

39 More Obtain Work Through OSES Office

A total of 39 were employed through the Ohio State Employment Service last week, Harry Dinsmore, manager of the branch office, reported today. The total included 23 claimants returned to work and 16 persons for whom jobs were found.

Dinsmore said the momentum of the "Hire Now" campaign is continuing, although the total employed is down from the 55 hired the previous week and 50 the week of Aug. 9. There were 38 employed the first week of the campaign he said.

Chosen By Teamsters' Hoffa

Won't Pull Any Punches, Bender Says Of Inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP)—The chairman of a citizens commission named by Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa to probe corruption charges against teamsters officials says he's not going to prejudge anyone.

"All I can say is that I do not pull punches," said George H. Bender Sunday in Cleveland. "Just wait and see."

Hoffa announced Saturday he was naming Bender, former Republican senator from Ohio, to head a three-man citizens commission. The other two are F. Joseph Donohue, Democratic former District of Columbia commissioner, and Ira W. Jayne, retired Wayne County (Detroit) judge and law professor at Wayne University. A teamsters lawyer said they would be paid $250 a day each while at work.

In announcing appointment of the group, Hoffa said the commissioners "shall guide us and assure the membership of our union a strong, honest leadership . . ."

The teamsters president, himself a target of corruption charges by the Senate Rackets Committee, said "I intend to meet squarely charges of corruption."

Bender, who planned to come here today, said he wants to help clean up the teamsters union because he said he is convinced Hoffa is sincere, adding: "If I didn't think so, I wouldn't accept the chairmanship of his commission."

But Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark), chairman of the Senate Rackets Committee, was skeptical.

"The test of the good faith and power of this Hoffa - appointed commission is: Can and will it move against Mr. Hoffa himself," McClellan said Saturday after Hoffa had notified him of plans to set up the commission.

Asked in Cleveland whether his investigation would include Hoffa, Bender said:

"We (the commission members) didn't elect Hoffa. He was elected by the union membership."

McClellan said his committee "will not be deterred in its course of duty. Its investigations will continue."

The rackets committee has charged Hoffa surrounded himself with hoodlums and worked with underworld elements in trying to extend his labor power. The committee's hearing on the teamsters and Hoffa resume tomorrow.

It was unclear what connection, if any, the new anti-racketeering commission would have with the monitors appointed by a federal court some months ago to watch over teamsters affairs.

Hoffa made no mention of the three monitors in announcing the new commission. And Martin F. O'Donoghue, monitors' chairman, said yesterday Hoffa didn't consult them. O'Donoghue said creation of the commission "has serious implications and until I get all the facts concerning its powers and duties, I have no comment."

Bender said that before accepting the commission appointment he had asked the advice of Federal District Judge F. Dickinson Letts of Washington.

Judge Letts named the monitors to supervise the teamsters union. He did so as part of the settlement of a suit in which dissident teamster members tried to upset Hoffa's election last year as president of the 1½ million member truck union.

"Letts encouraged me very strongly to undertake the work," Bender said. "He feels there is a need for a cleanup."

Bender, at one stage in his 14 years in the House of Representatives, served as chairman of an anti-racketeering committee.

As a special prosecutor for the Justice Department Donohue won a perjury conviction eight years ago against left wing labor leader Harry Bridges. The Supreme Court overturned the conviction in 1953.

Last June, Donohue was named head of a board to look into charges of teamster corruption in Philadelphia.

Hoffa did not specify what weight would be given the findings of his anti - racketeering commission. He said:

"I expect that this commission shall make impartial investigations of all charges made, and on the basis of its recommendations, we shall take all steps consistent with the union's constitution."

Meanwhile, Joseph M. Curran, president of the National Maritime Union, said yesterday he believes the teamsters should be reinstated in the AFL - CIO "whether or not Hoffa is president."

Curran, an AFL-CIO vice president and a member of its Ethical Practices Committee, said in a television interview (NBC-Meet the Press) that the NMU's recent alliance with the teamsters was as an integral part of mass transportation and not with Hoffa as an individual.

The AFL-CIO has ordered all its affiliated unions to stop doing business with Hoffa.

Ohio's Traffic Claims Only 7

4 Other Deaths Put Weekend Toll At 11

By The Associated Press

Traffic fatalities in Ohio were relatively light over the weekend —only seven being counted in an Associated Press tabulation from 6 p. m. Friday to midnight Sunday.

Four miscellaneous deaths brought the weekend toll to 10. The latter category included two persons who died in home fires, a drowning and a fatal fall.

The fatalities:

Friday night:

Howard E. Leasure Jr., 25, Fremont, when his car crashed into a culvert on a county road west of Fremont.

Saturday:

Mrs. Juanita Brown, 23, Cincinnati, after the auto in which she was riding collided with a truck at a Cincinnati intersection.

Miss Rosalie Friedman, 20, Tiffin, in a fall during a party at her home.

Harold Copeland, 19, Saybrook Twp., Ashtabula County, when his car hit a culvert after a tire blowout.

Albert Mills, 43, in a fire at his home east of Mansfield.

Joe Maddux, 23, Olive Hills, Ky., drowned in Paint Creek near Bainbridge, Ross County, while hunting frogs.

Sunday:

Nancy Pierce, 8, Warren, in a fire at her home.

Mary Alice Stewart, 7, Columbus, darted into the path of an auto there while chasing a dog.

Mrs. Alcinda McClain, 60, Akron, when the auto in which she was riding overturned on Ohio 7 south of Marietta.

Ernest Hamilton, 19, Rt. 2, Circleville, when the car in which he was riding collided with a truck at the intersection of Ohio 665 and U. S. 23 in Shadeville, south of Columbus.

Robert Norden, 29, Ridgeville Corners, in two-car collision on U.S. 24 two miles east of Napoleon.

"I concur with it," said Zablocki, adding that chaos would result if this policy were not extended to include Quemoy and Matsu.

Judd, senior Republican member of the Far East subcommittee, voiced a similar view.

He said in a separate interview that the Communists are continually probing for soft spots in one or another part of the world. Where the free world doesn't stand firm, he said, the Reds move in.

Present federal court orders do not require the school to integrate until well after school opening, and then only if the Supreme Court rules it must do so.

However, Justice Whittaker says he alone can issue an order for immediate integration. He indicated he did not plan to act before next Thursday afternoon, but could do so earlier.

Faubus said the Legislature could not wait for a last-minute ruling by the justice but must pass measures in advance to prevent violence.

There would be no doubt of one justice's authority to stay an affirmative order of a lower court.

But until Whittaker set forth his opinion there had been a question among Supreme Court observers as to whether one member of the court could cancel out a lower court's order delaying application of the lower court's own ruling.

The wording of Warren's announcement made it clear the matter had been taken up with the other justices and that the conclusion was that it was a proper matter for the full bench.

Vandals Damage Pump

LISBON — Vandals smashed the radiator of a strip mine pump motor at Torrence Coal Co.'s Dungannon pit over the weekend. Deputy Sheriff Howard Gray said intruders apparently used a big rock. They also broke windows in the office building and a tool shed. Emory Torrence of Lisbon, owner, told the deputy nothing was missing.

clash near Tungting. Three survivors were captured.

The Red air force, which now boasts Soviet MIG17 fighters, made its first assault on the island bastions at the height of the bombardment. They followed this up with an eight-plane strafing raid on the islands.

The Nationalists said 41,000 sheels hit the islands in Saturday's opening barrage, killing or wounding 200 Nationalist military personnel. Eleven civilians were killed and 17 wounded. The Defense Ministry said Red batteries lobbed in 36,500 shells yesterday.

The previous record bombardment was 9,395 rounds that hit Quemoy June 24, 1957.

It was recalled that heavy air attacks preceded the Red capture of a small island near the Tachen group off Chekiang province, north of Fukien, in 1955. The Nationalists later abandoned the Tachen group.

Foreign Minister Huang Shaoku lauded Secretary of State Dulles' warning to the Communists not to try to seize the Quemoys and Matsus.

Both Quemoy and Little Quemoy lie about 100 miles across the strait from Formosa and 10 to 15 miles east of Amoy. Little Quemoy has an area of 5.6 square miles; the bigger island is 50 square miles.

4 Other Deaths Put Weekend Toll At 11

By The Associated Press

Traffic fatalities in Ohio were relatively light over the weekend —only seven being counted in an Associated Press tabulation from 6 p. m. Friday to midnight Sunday.

Four miscellaneous deaths brought the weekend toll to 10. The latter category included two persons who died in home fires, a drowning and a fatal fall.

The fatalities:

Friday night:

Howard E. Leasure Jr., 25, Fremont, when his car crashed into a culvert on a county road west of Fremont.

Saturday:

Mrs. Juanita Brown, 23, Cincinnati, after the auto in which she was riding collided with a truck at a Cincinnati intersection.

Miss Rosalie Friedman, 20, Tiffin, in a fall during a party at her home.

Harold Copeland, 19, Saybrook Twp., Ashtabula County, when his car hit a culvert after a tire blowout.

Albert Mills, 43, in a fire at his home east of Mansfield.

Joe Maddux, 23, Olive Hills, Ky., drowned in Paint Creek near Bainbridge, Ross County, while hunting frogs.

Sunday:

Nancy Pierce, 8, Warren, in a fire at her home.

Mary Alice Stewart, 7, Columbus, darted into the path of an auto there while chasing a dog.

Mrs. Alcinda McClain, 60, Akron, when the auto in which she was riding overturned on Ohio 7 south of Marietta.

Ernest Hamilton, 19, Rt. 2, Circleville, when the car in which he was riding collided with a truck at the intersection of Ohio 665 and U. S. 23 in Shadeville, south of Columbus.

Robert Norden, 29, Ridgeville Corners, in two-car collision on U.S. 24 two miles east of Napoleon.

"I concur with it," said Zablocki, adding that chaos would result if this policy were not extended to include Quemoy and Matsu.

Judd, senior Republican member of the Far East subcommittee, voiced a similar view.

He said in a separate interview that the Communists are continually probing for soft spots in one or another part of the world. Where the free world doesn't stand firm, he said, the Reds move in.

Present federal court orders do not require the school to integrate until well after school opening, and then only if the Supreme Court rules it must do so.

However, Justice Whittaker says he alone can issue an order for immediate integration. He indicated he did not plan to act before next Thursday afternoon, but could do so earlier.

Faubus said the Legislature could not wait for a last-minute ruling by the justice but must pass measures in advance to prevent violence.

There would be no doubt of one justice's authority to stay an affirmative order of a lower court.

But until Whittaker set forth his opinion there had been a question among Supreme Court observers as to whether one member of the court could cancel out a lower court's order delaying application of the lower court's own ruling.

The wording of Warren's announcement made it clear the matter had been taken up with the other justices and that the conclusion was that it was a proper matter for the full bench.

Vandals Damage Pump

LISBON — Vandals smashed the radiator of a strip mine pump motor at Torrence Coal Co.'s Dungannon pit over the weekend. Deputy Sheriff Howard Gray said intruders apparently used a big rock. They also broke windows in the office building and a tool shed. Emory Torrence of Lisbon, owner, told the deputy nothing was missing.

clash near Tungting. Three survivors were captured.

The Red air force, which now boasts Soviet MIG17 fighters, made its first assault on the island bastions at the height of the bombardment. They followed this up with an eight-plane strafing raid on the islands.

The Nationalists said 41,000 sheels hit the islands in Saturday's opening barrage, killing or wounding 209 Nationalist military personnel. Eleven civilians were killed and 17 wounded. The Defense Ministry said Red batteries lobbed in 36,500 shells yesterday.

The previous record bombardment was 9,395 rounds that hit Quemoy June 24, 1957.

It was recalled that heavy air attacks preceded the Red capture of a small island near the Tachen group off Chekiang province, north of Fukien, in 1955. The Nationalists later abandoned the Tachen group.

Foreign Minister Huang Shaoku lauded Secretary of State Dulles' warning to the Communists not to try to seize the Quemoys and Matsus.

Both Quemoy and Little Quemoy lie about 100 miles across the strait from Formosa and 10 to 15 miles east of Amoy. Little Quemoy has an area of 5.6 square miles; the bigger island is 50 square miles.

The radiation band is being investigated by Explorer IV, which blazed into an Orbit July 26. Preliminary information shows that the intensity and energy of the rays are much more severe than was expected.

The equipment in Explorer V was changed slightly from its predecessor to take a closer look at this radiation phenomena at higher altitudes.

Scientists speculate that the radiation—type still unknown — could kill an unprotected man in from 4½ hours to a few weeks' time.

Everything We Need To Know

There are too many twistings and turnings on the way to Friday's White House announcement on a nuclear weapons test ban to be kept in mind, but one date needs to be recalled.

On last April 4, Nikita Khrushchev formally proposed a nuclear weapons test ban to the United States and Great Britain, and was slapped down diplomatically for a show of bad faith.

After he had been accused by spokesmen for both the United States and Britain of a propaganda move, he made one of his more penetrating observations on the dark subject of propaganda:

"If President Eisenhower and others think we have stopped tests for propaganda reasons," he said, "then why don't he and other Western statesmen conduct the same propaganda and stop the tests?"

The answer to that question was, of course, that the United States was looking forward to a series of tests this summer and Britain said it would need two more years to finish its tests, unless the United States shared more nuclear secrets with it than it had been sharing.

Actually, the United States had considered making the same proposal that Khrushchev made and had turned it down because it needed more time for testing. Furthermore, it knew the Soviet Union had been running a series of tests, concluded on March 31, which turned out to be the deadline for accepting Khrushchev's proposal. The oddity that the deadline came before the proposal was made public was one of the routine curiosities of Russia's upside-down diplomacy. No one made any note of it.

Two things must have been true last April:

1. Russia's atom scientists had found out everything they needed to know about nuclear weapons.

2. They knew there were some things the American-British scientists still wanted to learn.

Two things must be true this waning August:

1. U.S. and British scientists have found out everything they need to know.

2. They know there now are some things the Russian scientists would like to learn.

Therefore, it now is feasible for the United States to propose that nuclear weapons testing be banned starting Oct. 31, subject to the inevitable proviso that if Russia starts testing again the United States will start testing again, etc.

This is the great game of propaganda as it is played by high - stake contenders in the cold war.

The moral: He who is tired of shooting fireworks is always strongly in favor of a ban on fireworks for the peace and security of mankind.

The Soviet Union was tired last spring. The United States and Britain are tired this fall.

It Could Happen Sometime

Everybody seems to have come at the same time to the point of view that the only thing which could keep the United States from moving forward at this time would be inflation.

By inflation, they mean a continuation of money-cheapening that robs high wage rates of value. They mean a continuation of price-boosting that advertises the rate of inflation by admitting that worth $1 when inflation began now must sell for $2, in the struggle to get twice as many half-value dollars.

By inflation, they mean the fixed inclination of wage negotiators to confront management with higher-wage-rates-or-else demands that leave no choice but to raise prices willy-nilly to stay in business, though both the times and the circumstances demand that prices be held steady while purchasing power catches up.

They mean by inflation at this particular moment in the early period of recovery from the recession that hit its low point early this summer the possibility that the key automobile industry should not be forced to raise the price of its product on the eve of what needs to be a good year. The industry must go after customers in 1959 with everything in its favor. It must not be hobbled.

Everything is at stake, from the industry's capital structure to the livelihood of its workers. The automobile industry needs a high degree of cooperation to prove it can do what it alone is big enough to do—restore full employment in the United States.

This is as much the problem of Walter Reuther and the United Auto Workers as it is the problem of the manufacturers. Nothing in the mid-20th-century industrial complex is more absurd than the irony of high-wage-rate workers bargaining for higher rates when unemployed at the rates they already have gained. They are like hungry men bargaining for jelly to put on bread they cannot buy.

Imagine what might be possible if UAW bargainers were to go to management and say, "We want to help you help us to have a good year. Together, we can help everybody else, including our brother unionists in the metals industry. Instead of fighting each other, we propose to fight shoulder-to-shoulder with you against our common foe, which is inflation."

It could happen sometime. If it ever did happen, of course, the industrial revolution in America would have come to a peaceful and full fruition, which is the reason cooperation is blocked stubbornly by those who would have nothing to live for if industrialism in America quit furnishing fuel for ideological strife.

Historic Skirmish

With deep sympathy for those who guessed wrong, the people who fought the sack style that was scheduled to make dress-trade history this year are glad they won.

Dress-trade history was made, sure enough. But not the way it was supposed to be made. As well as replacing female wardrobes in a recession period and thereby stimulating business the dress trade learned it must not affront the sensibilities of the male in clothing designs for females.

Whether women dress to please men or to please other women is a moot question. Undoubtedly, they have both aims in mind. But the anguished cries of men when women began to lose their shape last spring made many a woman wary of following fashion at the cost of displeasing the man in her life.

Today, "sack" and "chemise" are words the dress trade would like to forget. It is not that the styles did not earn their way; they did that. It is the way they revealed the hazard of male resistance.

From now on, designers will have to please both the male and the female, whereas in years past they aimed to please only the female. The mate, they assumed, would follow along. It never crossed their minds before that he would not follow unless he could see what he was following.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

The amusing sentence, "This is neither an offer to sell nor a solicitation to buy these securities. The offer is made only in the prospectus." on top of advertisements of new stock issues baffles folks. It is required by an SEC ruling of years back, but is plain double-talk.

Copying its style we went to our broker about a stock today and announced, "My presence here is neither an indication of interest in securities nor a suggestion you might like to take an order."

The broker asked, "Would you mind repeating that?"

We replied: "No, but a repetition must not be regarded as in any hint I wish to discuss anything with you. Do you understand?"

"I don't, but please go on," he said. "This is a brokerage office and I am a fellow who sometimes buys a stock," I said, "but my visit must not be construed as a tendency to do business with you or have you show any inclination to do business with me."

HE FINALLY GOT the drift. We whispered furtively that we had a tip on National Beeswax Common. "Oh, yes," he said. "We have part of a 700,000-share issue but my saying so does not mean I am seeking orders."

"What's the price? And bear in mind I am not saying anything that can be construed as an interest in purchasing some," I said.

"It is $8 a share. Should I go so far as to solicit your order, which I am certainly not doing?" he replied.

"Let's be frank," I concluded. "You didn't want me to think you are selling this stock. I don't want you to think I am soliciting the right to invest. So let's both assume I am here to get a plate of frankfurters and beans."

"Fine," he said. Then everything went fine.

JOHN DAVID MERWIN, named as new governor of Virgin Islands, was skipper of our 33-foot cruiser during a summer school vacation, and a wonderful kid. Poise and courtesy were top qualities. We remember the day he slipped and fell overboard casting a rope at the Essex, Conn., dock and came up with a polite "Awfully sorry, sir."

"Civil Aeronautics Board is probing deeply into cause of Nantucket horror" — News item. It shouldn't take it more than a few hours to discover that Nantucket in a fog is one of the most hazardous landing places on earth, despite which its landing field lacks almost every modern safeguard against fog.

Canned socks and stockings are to be sold through supermarkets. Now for a "jar" of shoes and a can of pants.

Pensions of $25,000 are long overdue ex-presidents, but folks are wondering about free offices and $50,000 a year for office help. How can an ex-president retire and relax if he has a $50,000 office staff to worry him? Harry Truman doesn't need an office staff at government expense. He needs a federal supply of walking-shoes and a U.S. directory of pre-breakfast around-the-block walks.

We thought pocket-watches were obsolete, but more than three million are sold yearly. Who remembers away back when the "Waterbury" and "Ingersoll" heavy-duty watches were style, with chains and fobs? And when wrist watches were targets of comedians?

WE SALUTE WILLARD ROGERS, refusing in test case to pay toll on a Connecticut bridge, toll free for half a century. Bridge was paid for years ago with taxpayers' money, but state recently slapped toll-booths on it just the same.

Toll-gate business is something of a state racket all over country. Until the last few years there was a reasonable consideration for autoists but now tolls are being jacked up to absurd heights and toll-stations installed so close together a motorist seldom gets out of sight of one.

Connecticut is a bad example. On one stretch of new thruway there are three 25 cent toll stations covering a total distance of 23 miles.

Rogers will carry case to high courts in hope of an ultimate ruling that the autoist is not a legitimate target for harpooning.

Driver Or Just A Lucky Passenger?

Central Intelligence Agency Role Assessed

By William Hillman

Allen W. Dulles, director of the super-secret Central Intelligence Agency, never gives interviews, never authorizes quotes. Recently Mr. Dulles, without relaxing his "no quotes" rule, accorded NANA Correspondent William Hillman an hour-long off-the-record briefing. The following article is based on the meeting.

Allen W. Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency of the United States, believes that the business of intelligence is to get all the facts of international life and intrigue.

But what is equally important, Mr. Dulles insists, is the proper assessment of events in order to understand what is happening. To miss the significance of an event is as dangerous to national security as to overlook it.

To say that Mr. Dulles is America's master spy is to stress the dramatic and the cloak and dagger aspect of his work and that of the CIA. It ignores the gravely important job of putting together the facts so that the president and the National Security Council are informed of all eventualities.

Since no man or organization is gifted wit that superhuman sense of knowing what is in all men's minds, especially when they act on the spur of the moment, there is no guarantee that all specific events will be foreseen.

The pipe smoking, tirelessly working, Allen Welsh Dulles is a keenly analytical, professorial type who seldom makes public speeches. For the past four years he has never been quoted directly in an interview for fear that what he has to say may be misinterpreted as assumption by him of the role of policy-maker.

HE INSISTS he is not a policy maker but an informant and an evaluator. Policy, he reminds the visitor, is made by the president, with the advice of the secretary of state and the National Security Council.

I was able to see Director Dulles at his well-secured, map-adorned book-lined office in the nation's capital. He adhered strictly to his rule of "no quotes."

But as a result of my visit to Director Dulles and discussion which followed with experts I am able to state the following: Nothing that has happened in recent months — viewed against the background of carefully observed, reported and evaluated events — has caught the United States by surprise.

Several months before the events which led to American Marines and troops being landed in Lebanon, a careful analysis of the Middle East situation — prepared and written for CIA's "customers" — predicted attempts at revolt would be made in Jordan, Saudi Arabia and Iraq.

The exact hour and date of te revolt in Iraq was not foretold. It certainly caught the King of Iraq by surprise, and even the Russians and Nasser as well as the British.

As a matter of fact, a newly reorganized and re-equipped Iraq brigade headed by Brigadier Qasim who is now prime minister of the republic of Iraq, was instructed to leave for Jordan to bolster the regime of King Hussein.

Instead of obeying marching orders, Qasim seized power in Iraq. The events which flowed from that event were foresen by CIA and the other U.S. intelligence agencies, with all the elements of danger in the Middle East.

APPEAL TO ARAB nationalism is a potent force in the Middle East but Arab leaders, outside of the U.A.R. may well be reluctant to throw their resources willy-nilly to Nasser and thus assume subservient roles under the domination of the President of the United Arab Republic.

From what I have leanred from authoritative sources in Washington, a grouping of genuinely neutral Arab states would not be unwelcome to the West and would help maintain the peace in the Middle East.

The Arabs favoring neutrality do not wish to cut off the supply of their oil wells to Europe, for they depend on that flow for revenues to maintain and develop their own countries.

The assassination of the King of Iraq has brought about a new wave of anxiety to rulers in Tunisia, Libya and Morocco and wherever Pan-Arab nationalism is rampant. Internal security has been greatly increased by those rulers against any plots, whether palace or military or otherwise.

The Russians will continue to stir up trouble and inspire intrigue for one main reason. They are not in need of Arabian oil, having sufficient resources of their own.

What the Russian Communist leaders want is to keep the Middle East in turmoil, deny the oil to Western Europe and create such conditions that the West will find it difficult to maintain normal relations and stability that make for peace.

Many of the weapons which the Russians have sent to Syria and to Egypt are good but some are obsolete, enabling the Russians to make room for vastly improved ones of their own.

Militarily at this stage none of the Arab states would be in a position to fight the Israelies, if they were tempted to try, according to military circles in Washington. And te recent events in the Middle East occurred independent of the Arab-Israel conflict.

What is important to record is that the Arabs not under Nasser, though strong for Arab nationalism, may want to maintain a neutrality that would allow them to survive as independent states and not as subjects of any other country, not even Egypt.

They certainly do not want to be subservient to he Kremlin.

IN ONE OF his rare public speeches, Allen Dulles recently warned about the economic warfare which Russia is conducting and intends to expand.

Mr. Dulles, I learned, was not talking about economic warfare in the sense of massive competition, for Russia is not oversupplied with many things which she may sell on the market at prices below world prices.

The Kremlin aims, according to Mr. Dulles, to upset the regular routine of normal trade wherever it can do so.

For example, Mr. Dulles pointed out, Russian can go into a market where nations are shot of hard currency. By setting up arrangements by which Russia offers toods and machinery in return for the products of the nation it is dealing with, the Kremlin can make what seems like a favorable arrangement.

This arrangement can be carried on for a time until the recipient of Russia's favor is cut off from normal trade with other nations. Russia then can pull the rug and refuse to continue and the nation caught in this trap may face trouble.

The Russians can go out in the open market and offer high prices for scarce material, even paying with gold. Russia has plenty of gold.

Once the nation that is eager to get Russian gold and sell its products for higher prices becomes dependent upon Russia for its prosperity, the Kremlin will then be in a position to change the course, leaving its foolish trading partner in a lurch.

This is the kind of economic warfare the Russians are staging, and nations, especially in Latin America, where there are certain surplus goods that have to be disposed of, will be easily victimized.

This is one of the phases of the cold war and intrigue aiming at world conquest by Russia, which the CIA and its director, Allen Dulles are watching closely.

Mr. Dulles is the first to acknowledge that the public, without knowing all the facts, and even some inner official circles, believe that every ball hit by the CIA must be a home run and that a lusty three bagger or even a double may be regarded as a foul ball, although the final score is decided by all runs.

Mr. Dulles believes that the CIA can always do better and will continue to improve. But he maintains the 11-year-old CIA, headed for the first time by a nonmilitary man, is as efficient, as imaginative and as good as the intelligence service of any international power—including the Soviet Union.

In A State Of Bliss

By Martin R. Miller

While mathematicians and philosophers spend their time trying to measure and define such things as the infinite, the rest of us struggle with our own little problems. It would seem that if the heavy thinkers would put their brainpower to work on our daily worries they might soon banish them.

In his book "History of Western Philosophy," Bertrand Russell, the British thinker, puts down a row of figures and beneath each figure puts its double:

1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6,
2, 4, 6, 8, 10, 12,

He draws this conclusion: "The number of even numbers must be the same as the number of all whole numbers."

If the infinite is this easy to understand, we would like to suggest a few relatively simple everyday problems which ought to be duck-soup for Lord Russell. The best brains of the world should tackle the following crying needs:

Foolproof freeway signs.
Unbreakable shoelaces.
Silent water closets.
Jam-proof zippers.
Two-inch lawn grass.
Permanent house paint.
Remedy for baldness.
Prune-less shrubs.
Accident-free autos.
A dollar worth a dollar.
Self-cleaning wallpaper.
Bugless gardens.
Compatible alarm clocks.
Drip-free syrup bottles.
Automatic cobweb eradicators.
Non-jarring telephone ring.
Reliable postage stamps.
Harmless silencer for other people.
Painless taxes.

On second thought, maybe it would be just as well to let well enough alone. If all these and other cares were suddenly abolished, the change in our way of life would be more than most of us could stand.

If the philosophers will stick to probing the infinite, we'll be satisfied just to tie another knot in our busted shoelace and go our ignorant way in a state of bliss.

Odd Facts

The tragic story of Romeo and Juliet was not originated by Shakespeare in his famous play. The tale was very popular in Italy previously to Shakespeare's writing.

Approximately one-sixth of the average person's life is lived with a stopped heart. The heart takes a rest after every beat, standing still for about one-sixth of a second.

Was Macaulay Right?

By Frank Tripp

Warning Of U. S. Plundering Recalled

The United States will be fearfully plundered and laid waste in the 20th century, an eminent Briton once said. It has been a long time since notice has been taken of his dire prediction made a century ago.

The words were written May 23, 1857, by Thomas B. Macaulay, English historian and statesman, to Henry S. Randall, American author of the Life of Jefferson.

The prophecy was first printed in the New York Times March 24, 1860. Macaulay wrote of a republic then only 81 years old. He said:

"The time will come when new England will be as thickly peopled as old England; hundreds of thousands of artisans will assuredly be sometimes out of work. Then the institutions of America will fairly be brought to test.

"THE RICH will be robbed to feed the poor. Either some Caesar or Napoleon will seize the reins of government with a strong hand or your republic will be as fearfully plundered and laid waste by barbarians in the 20th Century as the Roman Empire was in the Fifth, with this difference:

"That the Huns and Vandals who ravaged the Roman Empire came from without and that your Huns and Vandals will have been engendered within your own country and by your own institutions."

How far have we gone down the road which the Englishman portrayed? Have strong hands seized the reins of government in his own country as well as ours — or are they still to appear? If Macaulay lived today would he say that the British Empire and the United States of America have fallen into strong hands? It will not take another century to find out.

As some people see it, the rich have been robbed, but not to feed the poor; rather to exploit them for political advantage. To these the new order represents Macaulay's vandals and barbarians who fearfully plunder from whithin.

To these the prediction has come true in all its ugly aspects; no strong hands have yet appeared.

Strangely, to those of directly opposite views, Macaulay also, stands as a true prophet. Our institutions did engender seeds of a revolution which would have laid waste, they say. Millions, not hundreds of thousands, were always out of work. But strong hands have seized the government; a Caesar or Napoleon has appeared; and everything is hunky dorey now — or will be they believe.

SO, YOU SEE Mr. Macaulay was a mighty wise man. He made a forecast which stands up after 101 years have passed; and with people whose philosophies are as far apart as the poles. He did it by the use of two little words, "either" and "or" as he looked amazingly well into the 20th century.

No matter which phase of his predictions one accepts, there still is time to prove Macaulay's basic thought wrong; that the free institutions which he reproached may prove to be our savior, and of England and the world.

The times demand national unity to that end; the preservation of those institutions; not their destruction by government interference, oppressive taxation, spiraling inflation, staggering debt, strikes and strangulation of the free enterprise incentive which brought them into being and made America great.

Surely not surrender to the vandals of the Kremlin!

A new type of naval warfare is being evolved by the United States, Britain and Canada to counter the deadly threat of Russian submarines armed with guided missiles.

It foresees underwater hunts and duels between deep-diving atomic submarines. "Killer" craft will search out and attack U-boats that serve as mobile launching bases for long-range atomic missiles.

There is a nightmarish quality about the battles envisaged in this new warfare — great nuclear-powered submarines stalking each other, perhaps for weeks, far below the surface, sometimes beneath polar icefields, then battling with atomic weapons while invisible to one another except by indicators on instrument panels.

Little has been said publicly about this tactical development. A brief reference to it was made in a statement by Canada's chief of naval staff, Vice Admiral H. G. de Wolf, a veteran of anti-submarine warfare on the vital North Atlantic convoy lanes during the height of Hitler's U-boat offensive.

He remarked that the atomic submarine would have a growing role in the job of destroying underseas marauders.

Here is the picture behind that terse prediction.

INCREASING NUMBERS of senior U.S. and Canadian officers—by now airmen and soldiers as well as sailors—believe Russian submarines are today a greater danger than Red aircraft.

North America's air defense and warning systems are the world's finest. The U.S. Strategic Air Command remains the most powerful of manned air forces.

But the Russians lead in submarine development, certainly in numbers, possibly in techniques. The Soviet Union is probably ahead of other powers in production of missile-carrying submarines.

A naval spokesman in Ottawa said: "To drive home the gravity of the danger the Canadian navy has for some time been telling both government and public that as of today a Russian submarine could surface 50 miles off New York and launch a guided missile with atomic warhead that would hit Toronto."

"The basic problem is detection—still extremely difficulty despite postwar improvements in the range and accuracy of sonar (a device for detecting submarines by use of sound-impulses).

BOTH DETECTION and destruction have been made infinitely more difficult with the introduction of nuclear-fueled submarines which can dive to great depths, stay submerged for very lengthy periods, remain at sea practically indefinitely without refuelling and travel at high underwater speeds.

"More and more we are becoming convinced it needs another atomic submarine to catch one."

Submarines of the future will be built and crews trained for specialized tasks. Short, medium and long-range raiders, transports to carry commandoes, valuable cargoes or highly placed refugees—"killers" to destroy enemy submarines.

The submarine in the past has been used extensively for raiding and as a transport. The new tactics being developed center around the "killer." During World War II there were a few underseas battles between submarines but these were more or less accidental encounters between raiders.

Special weapons are being produced for the "killers." This ultra-modern arsenal will include homing torpedoes with small atomic warheads so that even a near-miss would be fatal to the target.

Everything We Need To Know

There are too many twistings and turnings on the way to Friday's White House announcement on a nuclear weapons test ban to be kept in mind, but one date needs to be recalled.

On last April 4, Nikita Khrushchev formally proposed a nuclear weapons test ban to the United States and Great Britain, and was slapped down diplomatically for a show of bad faith.

After he had been accused by spokesmen for both the United States and Britain of a propaganda move, he made one of his more penetrating observations on the dark subject of propaganda:

"If President Eisenhower and others think we have stopped tests for propaganda reasons," he said, "then why don't he and other Western statesmen conduct the same propaganda and stop the tests?"

The answer to that question was, of course, that the United States was looking forward to a series of tests this summer and Britain said it would need two more years to finish its tests, unless the United States shared more nuclear secrets with it than it had been sharing.

Actually, the United States had considered making the same proposal that Khrushchev made and had turned it down because it needed more time for testing. Furthermore, it knew the Soviet Union had been running a series of tests, concluded on March 31, which turned out to be the deadline for accepting Khrushchev's proposal. The oddity that the deadline came before the proposal was made public was one of the routine curiosities of Russia's upside-down diplomacy. No one made any note of it.

Two things must have been true last April:

1. Russia's atom scientists had found out everything they needed to know about nuclear weapons.

2. They knew there were some things the American-British scientists still wanted to learn.

Two things must be true this waning August:

1. U.S. and British scientists have found out everything they need to know.

2. They know there now are some things the Russian scientists would like to learn.

Therefore, it now is feasible for the United States to propose that nuclear weapons testing be banned starting Oct. 31, subject to the inevitable proviso that if Russia starts testing again the United States will start testing again, etc.

This is the great game of propaganda as it is played by high - stake contenders in the cold war.

The moral: He who is tired of shooting fireworks is always strongly in favor of a ban on fireworks for the peace and security of mankind.

The Soviet Union was tired last spring. The United States and Britain are tired this fall.

It Could Happen Sometime

Everybody seems to have come at the same time to the point of view that the only thing which could keep the United States from moving forward at this time would be inflation.

By inflation, they mean a continuation of money-cheapening that robs high wage rates of value. They mean a continuation of price-boosting that advertises the rate of inflation by admitting that worth $1 when inflation began now must sell for $2, in the struggle to get twice as many half-value dollars.

By inflation, they mean the fixed inclination of wage negotiators to confront management with higher-wage-rates-or-else demands that leave no choice but to raise prices willy-nilly to stay in business, though both the times and the circumstances demand that prices be held steady while purchasing power catches up.

They mean by inflation at this particular moment in the early period of recovery from the recession that hit its low point early this summer the possibility that the key automobile industry should not be forced to raise the price of its product on the eve of what needs to be a good year. The industry must go after customers in 1959 with everything in its favor. It must not be hobbled.

Everything is at stake, from the industry's capital structure to the livelihood of its workers. The automobile industry needs a high degree of cooperation to prove it can do what it alone is big enough to do—restore full employment in the United States.

This is as much the problem of Walter Reuther and the United Auto Workers as it is the problem of the manufacturers. Nothing in the mid-20th-century industrial complex is more absurd than the irony of high-wage-rate workers bargaining for higher rates when unemployed at the rates they already have gained. They are like hungry men bargaining for jelly to put on bread they cannot buy.

Imagine what might be possible if UAW bargainers were to go to management and say, "We want to help you help us to have a good year. Together, we can help everybody else, including our brother unionists in the metals industry. Instead of fighting each other, we propose to fight shoulder-to-shoulder with you against our common foe, which is inflation."

It could happen sometime. If it ever did happen, of course, the industrial revolution in America would have come to a peaceful and full fruition, which is the reason cooperation is blocked stubbornly by those who would have nothing to live for if industrialism in America quit furnishing fuel for ideological strife.

Historic Skirmish

With deep sympathy for those who guessed wrong, the people who fought the sack style that was scheduled to make dress-trade history this year are glad they won.

Dress-trade history was made, sure enough. But not the way it was supposed to be made. As well as replacing female wardrobes in a recession period and thereby stimulating business the dress trade learned it must not affront the sensibilities of the male in clothing designs for females.

Whether women dress to please men or to please other women is a moot question. Undoubtedly, they have both aims in mind. But the anguished cries of men when women began to lose their shape last spring made many a woman wary of following fashion at the cost of displeasing the man in her life.

Today, "sack" and "chemise" are words the dress trade would like to forget. It is not that the styles did not earn their way; they did that. It is the way they revealed the hazard of male resistance.

From now on, designers will have to please both the male and the female, whereas in years past they aimed to please only the female. The mate, they assumed, would follow along. It never crossed their minds before that he would not follow unless he could see what he was following.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

The amusing sentence, "This is neither an offer to sell nor a solicitation to buy these securities. The offer is made only in the prospectus." on top of advertisements of new stock issues baffles folks. It is required by an SEC ruling of years back, but is plain double-talk.

Copying its style we went to our broker about a stock today and announced, "My presence here is neither an indication of interest in securities nor a suggestion you might like to take an order."

The broker asked, "Would you mind repeating that?"

We replied: "No, but a repetition must not be regarded as in any hint I wish to discuss anything with you. Do you understand?"

"I don't, but please go on," he said. "This is a brokerage office and I am a fellow who sometimes buys a stock," I said, "but my visit must not be construed as a tendency to do business with you or have you show any inclination to do business with me."

HE FINALLY GOT the drift. We whispered furtively that we had a tip on National Beeswax Common. "Oh, yes," he said. "We have part of a 700,000-share issue but my saying so does not mean I am seeking orders."

"What's the price? And bear in mind I am not saying anything that can be construed as an interest in purchasing some," I said.

"It is $8 a share. Should I go so far as to solicit your order which I am certainly not doing?" he replied.

"Let's be frank," I concluded. "You didn't want me to think you are selling this stock. I don't want you to think I am soliciting the right to invest. So let's both assume I am here to get a plate of frankfurters and beans."

"Fine," he said. Then everything went fine.

JOHN DAVID MERWIN, named as new governor of Virgin Islands, was skipper of our 33-foot cruiser during a summer school vacation, and a wonderful kid. Poise and courtesy were top qualities. We remember the day he slipped and fell overboard casting a rope at the Essex, Conn., dock and came up with a polite "Awfully sorry, sir."

"Civil Aeronautics Board is probing deeply into cause of Nantucket horror" — News item. It shouldn't take it more than a few hours to discover that Nantucket in a fog is one of the most hazardous landing places on earth, despite which its landing field lacks almost every modern safeguard against fog.

Canned socks and stockings are to be sold through supermarkets. Now for a "jar" of shoes and a can of pants.

Pensions of $25,000 are long overdue ex-presidents, but folks are wondering about free offices and $50,000 a year for office help. How can an ex-president retire and relax if he has a $50,000 office staff to worry him? Harry Truman doesn't need an office staff at government expense. He needs a federal supply of walking-shoes and a U.S. directory of pre-breakfast around-the-block walks.

We thought pocket-watches were obsolete, but more than three million are sold yearly. Who remembers away back when the "Waterbury" and "Ingersoll" heavy-duty watches were style, with chains and fobs? And when wrist watches were targets of comedians?

WE SALUTE WILLARD ROGERS, refusing in test case to pay toll on a Connecticut bridge, toll free for half a century. Bridge was paid for years ago with taxpayers' money, but state recently slapped toll-booths on it just the same.

Toll-gate business is something of a state racket all over country. Until the last few years there was a reasonable consideration for autoists but now tolls are being jacked up to absurd heights and toll-stations installed so close together a motorist seldom gets out of sight of one.

Connecticut is a bad example. On one stretch of new thruway there are three 25 cent toll stations covering a total distance of 23 miles.

Rogers will carry case to high courts in hope of an ultimate ruling that the autoist is not a legitimate target for harpooning.

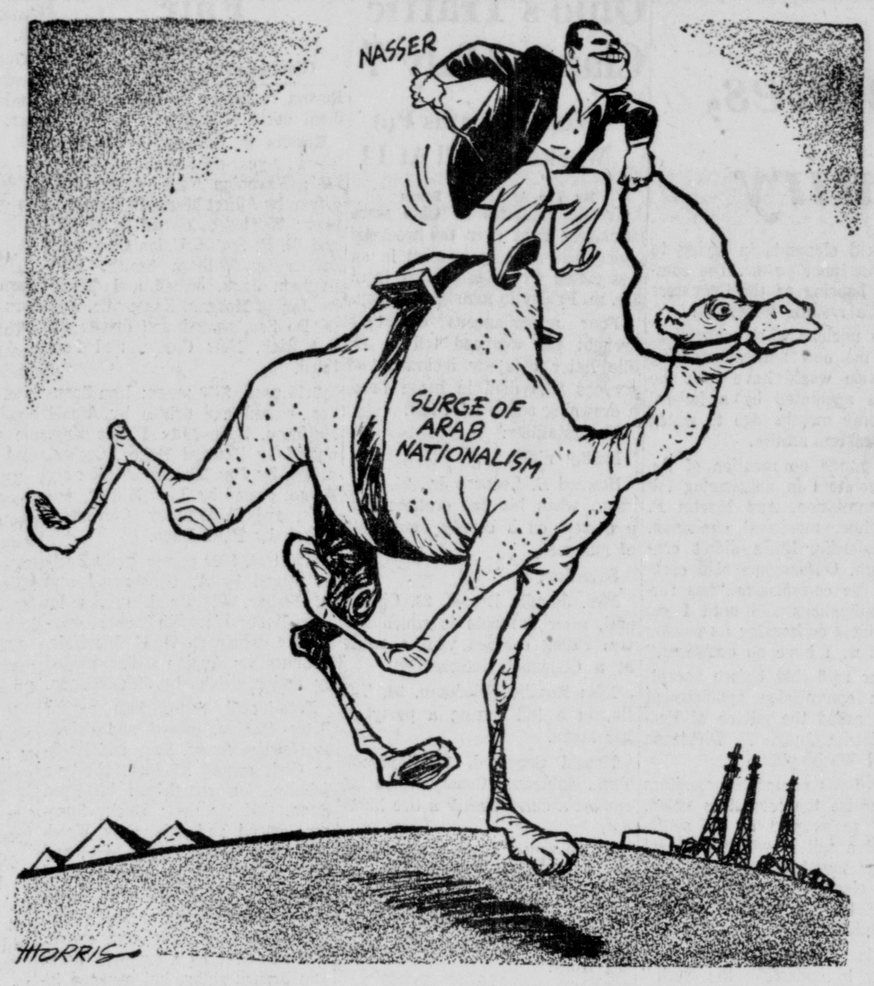
Driver Or Just A Lucky Passenger?



Central Intelligence Agency Role Assessed

By William Hillman

Allen W. Dulles, director of the super-secret Central Intelligence Agency, never gives interviews, never authorizes quotes. Recently Mr. Dulles, without relaxing his "no quotes" rule, accorded NANA Correspondent William Hillman an hour-long off-the-record briefing. The following article is based on the meeting.

Allen W. Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency of the United States, believes that the business of intelligence is to get all the facts of international life and intrigue.

But what is equally important, Mr. Dulles insists, is the proper assessment of events in order to understand what is happening. To miss the significance of an event is as dangerous to national security as to overlook it.

To say that Mr. Dulles is America's master spy is to stress the dramatic and the cloak and dagger aspect of his work and that of the CIA. It ignores the gravely important job of putting together the facts so that the president and the National Security Council are informed of all eventualities.

Since no man or organization is gifted wit that superhuman sense of knowing what is in all men's minds, especially when they act on the spur of the moment, there is no guarantee that all specific events will be foreseen.

The pipe smoking, tirelessly working, Allen Welsh Dulles is a keenly analytical, professorial type who seldom makes public speeches. For the past four years he has never been quoted directly in an interview for fear that what he has to say may be misinterpreted as assumption by him of the role of policy-maker.

HE INSISTS he is not a policy maker but an informant and an evaluator. Policy, he reminds the visitor, is made by the president, with the advice of the secretary of state and the National Security Council.

I was able to see Director Dulles at his well-secured, map-adorned book-lined office in the nation's capital. He adhered strictly to his rule of "no quotes."

But as a result of my visit to Director Dulles and discussion which followed with experts I am able to state the following: Nothing that has happened in recent months — viewed against the background of carefully observed, reported and evaluated events — has caught the United States by surprise.

Several months before the events which led to American Marines and troops being landed in Lebanon, a careful analysis of the Middle East situation — prepared and written for CIA's "customers" — predicted attempts at revolt would be made in Jordan, Saudi Arabia and Iraq.

The exact hour and date of te revolt in Iraq was not foretold. It certainly caught the King of Iraq by surprise, and even the Russians and Nasser as well as the British.

As a matter of fact, a newly reorganized and re-equipped Iraq brigade headed by Brigadier Qasim who is now prime minister of the republic of Iraq, was instructed to leave for Jordan to bolster the regime of King Hussein.

Instead of obeying marching orders, Qasim seized power in Iraq. The events which flowed from that event were foresen by CIA and the other U.S. intelligence agencies, with all the elements of danger in the Middle East.

APPEAL TO ARAB nationalism is a potent force in the Middle East but Arab leaders, outside of the U.A.R. may well be reluctant to throw their resources willy-nilly to Nasser and thus assume subservient roles under the domination of the President of the United Arab Republic.

From what I have leanred from authoritative sources in Washington, a grouping of genuinely neutral Arab states would not be unwelcome to the West and would help maintain the peace in the Middle East.

The Arabs favoring neutrality do not wish to cut off the supply of their oil wells to Europe, for they depend on that flow for revenues to maintain and develop their own countries.

The assassination of the King of Iraq has brought about a new wave of anxiety to rulers in Tunisia, Libya and Morocco and wherever Pan-Arab nationalism is rampant. Internal security has been greatly increased by those rulers against any plots, whether palace or military or otherwise.

The Russians will continue to stir up trouble and inspire intrigue for one main reason. They are not in need of Arabian oil, having sufficient resources of their own.

What the Russian Communist leaders want is to keep the Middle East in turmoil, deny the oil to Western Europe and create such conditions that the West will find it difficult to maintain normal relations and stability that make for peace.

Many of the weapons which the Russians have sent to Syria and to Egypt are good but some are obsolete, enabling the Russians to make room for vastly improved ones of their own.

Militarily at this stage none of the Arab states would be in a position to fight the Israelies, if they were tempted to try, according to military circles in Washington. And te recent events in the Middle East occurred independent of the Arab-Israel conflict.

What is important to record is that the Arabs not under Nasser, though strong for Arab nationalism, may want to maintain a neutrality that would allow them to survive as independent states and not as subjects of any other country, not even Egypt.

They certainly do not want to be subservient to he Kremlin.

IN ONE OF his rare public speeches, Allen Dulles recently warned about the economic warfare which Russia is conducting and intends to expand.

Mr. Dulles, I learned, was not talking about economic warfare in the sense of massive competition, for Russia is not oversupplied with many things which she may sell on the market at prices below world prices.

The Kremlin aims, according to Mr. Dulles, to upset the regular routine of normal trade wherever it can do so.

For example, Mr. Dulles pointed out, Russian can go into a market where nations are shot of hard currency. By setting up arrangements by which Russia offers toods and machinery in return for the products of the nation it is dealing with, the Kremlin can make what seems like a favorable arrangement.

This arrangement can be carried on for a time until the recipient of Russia's favor is cut off from normal trade with other nations. Russia then can pull the rug and refuse to continue and the nation caught in this trap may face trouble.

The Russians can go out in the open market and offer high prices for scarce material, even paying with gold. Russia has plenty of gold.

Once the nation that is eager to get Russian gold and sell its products for higher prices becomes dependent upon Russia for its prosperity, the Kremlin will then be in a position to change the course, leaving its foolish trading partner in a lurch.

This is the kind of economic warfare the Russians are staging, and nations, especially in Latin America, where there are certain surplus goods that have to be disposed of, will be easily victimized.

This is one of the phases of the cold war and intrigue aiming at world conquest by Russia, which the CIA and its director, Allen Dulles are watching closely.

Mr. Dulles is the first to acknowledge that the public, without knowing all the facts, and even some inner official circles, believe that every ball hit by the CIA must be a home run and that a lusty three bagger or even a double may be regarded as a foul ball, although the final score is decided by all runs.

Mr. Dulles believes that the CIA can always do better and will continue to improve. But he maintains the 11-year-old CIA, headed for the first time by a nonmilitary man, is as efficient, as imaginative and as good as the intelligence service of any international power—including the Soviet Union.

In A State Of Bliss

By Martin R. Miller

While mathematicians and philosophers spend their time trying to measure and define such things as the infinite, the rest of us struggle with our own little problems. It would seem that if the heavy thinkers would put their brainpower to work on our daily worries they might soon banish them.

In his book "History of Western Philosophy," Bertrand Russell, the British thinker, puts down a row of figures and beneath each figure puts its double:

1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6,
2, 4, 6, 8, 10, 12,

He draws this conclusion: "The number of even numbers must be the same as the number of all whole numbers."

If the infinite is this easy to understand, we would like to suggest a few relatively simple everyday problems which ought to be duck-soup for Lord Russell. The best brains of the world should tackle the following crying needs:

Foolproof freeway signs.
Unbreakable shoelaces.
Silent water closets.
Jam-proof zippers.
Two-inch lawn grass.
Permanent house paint.
Remedy for baldness.
Prune-less shrubs.
Accident-free autos.
A dollar worth a dollar.
Self-cleaning wallpaper.
Bugless gardens.
Compatible alarm clocks.
Drip-free syrup bottles.
Automatic cobweb eradicators.
Non-jarring telephone ring.
Reliable postage stamps.
Harmless silencer for other people.
Painless taxes.

On second thought, maybe it would be just as well to let well enough alone. If all these and other cares were suddenly abolished, the change in our way of life would be more than most of us could stand.

If the philosophers will stick to probing the infinite, we'll be satisfied just to tie another knot in our busted shoelace and go our ignorant way in a state of bliss.

Was Macaulay Right?

By Frank Tripp

Warning Of U. S. Plundering Recalled

The United States will be fearfully plundered and laid waste in the 20th century, an eminent Briton once said. It has been a long time since notice has been taken of his dire prediction made a century ago.

The words were written May 23, 1857, by Thomas B. Macaulay, English historian and statesman, to Henry S. Randall, American author of the Life of Jefferson.

The prophecy was first printed in the New York Times March 24, 1860. Macaulay wrote of a republic then only 81 years old. He said:

"The time will come when new England will be as thickly peopled as old England; hundreds of thousands of artisans will assuredly be sometimes out of work. Then the institutions of America will fairly be brought to test.

"THE RICH will be robbed to feed the poor. Either some Caesar or Napoleon will seize the reins of government with a strong hand or your republic will be as fearfully plundered and laid waste by barbarians in the 20th Century as the Roman Empire was in the Fifth, with this difference:

"That the Huns and Vandals who ravaged the Roman Empire came from without and that your Huns and Vandals will have been engendered within your own country and by your own institutions."

How far have we gone down the road which the Englishman portrayed? Have strong hands seized the reins of government in his own country as well as ours — or are they still to appear? If Macaulay lived today would he say that the British Empire and the United States of America have fallen into strong hands? It will not take another century to find out.

As some people see it, the rich have been robbed, but not to feed the poor; rather to exploit them for political advantage. To these the new order represents Macaulay's vandals and barbarians who fearfully plunder from whithin.

To these the prediction has come true in all its ugly aspects; no strong hands have yet appeared.

Strangely, to those of directly opposite views, Macaulay also, stands as a true prophet. Our institutions did engender seeds of a revolution which would have laid waste, they say. Millions, not hundreds of thousands, were always out of work. Fair Crowd Watches Champion Drill Unit

Making its first public appearance since winning the national championship, the drill team of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 66 performed before a crowd estimated at 25,000 at the closing day of the annual Hookstown Fair Saturday.

William Thompson, chairman of the 1958 Fair Board, termed the exhibit "the most successful fair ever held in Hookstown from the standpoint of attendance and the quality and number of exhibits and the splendid cooperation of exhibitors and community organizations."

The machinery and livestock parade was one of the highlights of the closing night, with all commercial and livestock exhibitors participating. Twenty-two teams in the light and heavyweight classes participated in a horsepulling contest Saturday.

In the light weight class, under 3,000 pounds, first place went to Robert Litman of Claysville, Pa. Second was Litman and Falkens of Avella, Pa. Third place went to Edwin Hays of Bridgeville.

In the heavyweight class, 3,000 to 4,000 pounds, first place went to William Eckles of Washington, Pa. Lawrence McCoy of Rogers was second and Morris Newman of East Sparta was third.

Farmers In Beaver Urged To Vote In ASC

G. M. Swick, chairman of the Beaver County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, appealed today to county farmers to vote in the election of ASC county and community committeemen to serve for the 12-month period beginning Oct. 1.

For each community committee three regular members will be chosen, with the person receiving the highest number of votes becoming chairman. Two alternates also will be elected in each community, to serve in the absence of a regular member. The elected chairman of the community committee will also serve as delegate to the county convention to elect the county committee.

Swick pointed out that all persons may vote if eligible to participate in any of the programs being administered by State and County ASC recorded in both names. Even those not of legal age may vote if they are in charge of the supervision and conduct of the farming operations of an entire farm. An eligible voter may be an individual, partnership, association, corporation, estate, trust, or other business enterprise, or legal entity. An eligible voter is only entitled to one vote.

Baliots were to be mailed today and must be returned to the county ASC office by Sept. 5.

Actress Janet Leigh Treated For Shock After Cars Wreck

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Janet Leigh, who expects her second child in November, was shaken up in a three-car traffic pileup.

Also jarred in the accident Sunday were her husband, actor Tony Curtis; singer Dean Martin and his wife Jean, and songwriter Sammy Cahn and his wife Gloria.

Following in another car were Frank Sinatra and comedian Ernie Kovacs and his wife, actress Edie Adams. The group was returning from a dinner party at the Santa Monica home of actor Peter Lawford.

Miss Leigh was treated for shock. She rested at home today.

Police said Robert Seddon, 39, Santa Monica, caused the mishap when he used his car as a battering ram against an auto in which he thought he saw his wife with another man. Seddon's car caromed into the Curtis convertible, officers said.

When police arrived, Sinatra was standing up in his convertible calling, "May day, may day," over his auto telephone. His friends said he was contacting UCLA Medical Center to arrange treatment for Miss Leigh.

"May Day" is the international voice radio distress.

Seddon was booked on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon—his car.

Chimpanzee Survives Test In Jet's Emergency Ejection

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A chimpanzee has survived a wind blast tougher than any jet pilot faces in an emergency ejection.

The word came last night from Col. John P. Stapp, chief of the Aeromedical Laboratory at Wright Air Development Center near here.

Stapp said the test took place at Holloman Air Force Base, N. M., early this month. A base spokesman confirmed it.

A special pressurized suit of dacron sailcloth, which enabled the chimp to survive, may help pilots escape safely from ultra-high speed aircraft, Stapp said.

Three other chimps which took the test died afterwards because the suits they wore blew apart, he added.

The Holloman spokesman said all the animals were anesthetized before the tests.

Stapp, who said he thinks humans could survive the same test, told of the fourth chimp surviving a wind blast of 4,000 pounds per square inch at speeds of 1,400 m.p.h.

Pilots ejecting from the fastest jet in use would experience a wind blast of about 3,500 pound per square inch, he said.

Stapp himself rode a sled-like apparatus at 632 m.p.h. at Holloman last year in a test of human's ability to withstand a sudden decrease in speed.

Eastern Star Unit Chooses Name At East End Meeting

The recently - organized administrative council past matrons and past patrons of the Prince Hall Affiliate of the Order of Eastern Star chose the name Batsheba Council 22 at a meeting Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Smith of Harker Ave.

Members include past officers of John Washington Chapter 68 of East Liverpool, Queen the South Chapter 22 of Steubenville and Bethlehem Chapter 52 of Bridgeport. Those currently serving as worthy matrons and patrons also are eligible for membership.

Officers elected at the initial meeting last month in Steubenville were Mrs. Elizabeth Reed of Steubenville, president; Mrs. Dorothy Peters of East Liverpool, vice president; Mrs. Jane Faithful of Bridgeport, secretary; Mrs. Wilanna Smith of East Liverpool, assistant secretary; Mrs. Zella Jackson of Bridgeport, treasurer, and Smith, chaplain.

Meetings are scheduled bi-monthly on a rotating basis. Twelve past officers formed the charter group. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Branson of Bridgeport were new members received at the meeting Sunday. Mrs. Reed conducted business. The by-laws were read and approved.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her husband and daughter, Miss Barbara Jean Smith. The next meeting is scheduled Sept. 27 in Bridgeport.

New Applications Due For School Guard Jobs

A total of 11 applicants for school crossing guard posts have been interviewed and additional applicants are expected to meet today and Tuesday with Safety-Service Director Dan Maggianetti.

Tomorrow is the deadline for filing applications for the jobs with the Ohio State Employment Service. The city is seeking about 15 women, between 21 and 50, for the guard positions.

Conscience Wins Day

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP)—His Sunday morning conscience gave him trouble, so a 17-year-old boy confessed the robbery of a grocery store in nearby Grants Lick. He led officers to a cache of cigarettes, candy, shirts, rifle shells and knives under the steps of the Grants Lick Baptist Church.

Man Fined And Jailed For Drunken Driving

A city man was fined and jailed for drunken driving at a hearing this morning before Mayor William J. Shoub of Wellsville.

Robert L. Wheeler, 43, of the Sunnyside Trailer Court was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to three days in jail. He was cited Saturday night at 8:45 after his car hit a brick culvert on Route 45 within the Wellsville city limits. He was treated at City Hospital for contusions of the left leg and chest and a laceration of the lip.

John J. Kokos of Struthers was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to three days in jail for drunken driving at a hearing Saturday before Shoub. He was arrested by Wellsville police early Saturday morning at 19th St. and Clark Ave.

Hancock Agent Gives Tip To Fight Bagworm

Oliver Johnson, Hancock County agricultural agent, said the bagworm is again feeding heavily on evergreens, especially arbor vitae. When they approach the size of maturity they are difficult to kill.

They weave around themselves a shroud of cut - up leaves of the plant on which they are feeding. This house they take with them wherever they go. For this reason they are hard to kill with contact insecticides.

One may try a mixture of three tablespoonsful 50 per cent DDT and two tablespoonsful of 50 per cent Malathion to a gallon of water. They are easy to kill with poison sprays after they have hatched in late June. One may have to resort to handpicking them now.

Former Resident Returns For Visit, First In 48 Years

A former local resident now living near Spokane, Wash., is visiting in East Liverpool today.

Mrs. Thomas E. Kelly of Veradale, a suburb of Spokane, came back to her home town after an absence of 48 years.

She is the former Henriette Agner, daughter of the late Edward and Mary Keffer Agner, and was a well - known artist when she left here in 1910. Mrs. Kelly and her father left after the death of Mrs. Agner. He died while living on the West coast.

Mrs. Kelly's father was associated with his father in operating the old Agner - Fouts Co., a pottery located at 2nd and Market Sts. Her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Henrietta Keffer, was a musician and organist and Harry Keffer, twin brother of Mrs. Kelly's mother, was associated with the old Dresden Pottery and later the old Sevres Pottery.

Before returning to Washington, Mrs. Kelly, who is president of the Spokane Diocesan Council of the National Council of Catholic Women, will attend the national NCCW national convention Sept. 20-24 in St. Louis, Mo.

She also planned to visit the Historical Museum at Carnegie Library. Mrs. Kelly gave some ware to the museum.

Actress Janet Leigh Treated For Shock After Cars Wreck

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Janet Leigh, who expects her second child in November, was shaken up in a three-car traffic pileup.

Also jarred in the accident Sunday were her husband, actor Tony Curtis; singer Dean Martin and his wife Jean, and songwriter Sammy Cahn and his wife Gloria.

Following in another car were Frank Sinatra and comedian Ernie Kovacs and his wife, actress Edie Adams. The group was returning from a dinner party at the Santa Monica home of actor Peter Lawford.

Miss Leigh was treated for shock. She rested at home today.

Police said Robert Seddon, 39, Santa Monica, caused the mishap when he used his car as a battering ram against an auto in which he thought he saw his wife with another man. Seddon's car caromed into the Curtis convertible, officers said.

When police arrived, Sinatra was standing up in his convertible calling, "May day, may day," over his auto telephone. His friends said he was contacting UCLA Medical Center to arrange treatment for Miss Leigh.

"May Day" is the international voice radio distress.

Seddon was booked on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon—his car.

Chimpanzee Survives Test In Jet's Emergency Ejection

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A chimpanzee has survived a wind blast tougher than any jet pilot faces in an emergency ejection.

The word came last night from Col. John P. Stapp, chief of the Aeromedical Laboratory at Wright Air Development Center near here.

Stapp said the test took place at Holloman Air Force Base, N. M., early this month. A base spokesman confirmed it.

A special pressurized suit of dacron sailcloth, which enabled the chimp to survive, may help pilots escape safely from ultra-high speed aircraft, Stapp said.

Three other chimps which took the test died afterwards because the suits they wore blew apart, he added.

The Holloman spokesman said all the animals were anesthetized before the tests.

Stapp, who said he thinks humans could survive the same test, told of the fourth chimp surviving a wind blast of 4,000 pounds per square inch at speeds of 1,400 m.p.h.

Pilots ejecting from the fastest jet in use would experience a wind blast of about 3,500 pound per square inch, he said.

Stapp himself rode a sled-like apparatus at 632 m.p.h. at Holloman last year in a test of human's ability to withstand a sudden decrease in speed.

Eastern Star Unit Chooses Name At East End Meeting

The recently - organized administrative council past matrons and past patrons of the Prince Hall Affiliate of the Order of Eastern Star chose the name Batsheba Council 22 at a meeting Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Smith of Harker Ave.

Members include past officers of John Washington Chapter 68 of East Liverpool, Queen the South Chapter 22 of Steubenville and Bethlehem Chapter 52 of Bridgeport. Those currently serving as worthy matrons and patrons also are eligible for membership.

Officers elected at the initial meeting last month in Steubenville were Mrs. Elizabeth Reed of Steubenville, president; Mrs. Dorothy Peters of East Liverpool, vice president; Mrs. Jane Faithful of Bridgeport, secretary; Mrs. Wilanna Smith of East Liverpool, assistant secretary; Mrs. Zella Jackson of Bridgeport, treasurer, and Smith, chaplain.

Meetings are scheduled bi-monthly on a rotating basis. Twelve past officers formed the charter group. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Branson of Bridgeport were new members received at the meeting Sunday. Mrs. Reed conducted business. The by-laws were read and approved.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her husband and daughter, Miss Barbara Jean Smith. The next meeting is scheduled Sept. 27 in Bridgeport.

Hancock Agent Gives Tip To Fight Bagworm

Oliver Johnson, Hancock County agricultural agent, said the bagworm is again feeding heavily on evergreens, especially arbor vitae. When they approach the size of maturity they are difficult to kill.

They weave around themselves a shroud of cut - up leaves of the plant on which they are feeding. This house they take with them wherever they go. For this reason they are hard to kill with contact insecticides.

One may try a mixture of three tablespoonsful 50 per cent DDT and two tablespoonsful of 50 per cent Malathion to a gallon of water. They are easy to kill with poison sprays after they have hatched in late June. One may have to resort to handpicking them now.

Former Resident Returns For Visit, First In 48 Years

A former local resident now living near Spokane, Wash., is visiting in East Liverpool today.

Mrs. Thomas E. Kelly of Veradale, a suburb of Spokane, came back to her home town after an absence of 48 years.

She is the former Henriette Agner, daughter of the late Edward and Mary Keffer Agner, and was a well - known artist when she left here in 1910. Mrs. Kelly and her father left after the death of Mrs. Agner. He died while living on the West coast.

Mrs. Kelly's father was associated with his father in operating the old Agner - Fouts Co., a pottery located at 2nd and Market Sts. Her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Henrietta Keffer, was a musician and organist and Harry Keffer, twin brother of Mrs. Kelly's mother, was associated with the old Dresden Pottery and later the old Sevres Pottery.

Before returning to Washington, Mrs. Kelly, who is president of the Spokane Diocesan Council of the National Council of Catholic Women, will attend the national NCCW national convention Sept. 20-24 in St. Louis, Mo.

She also planned to visit the Historical Museum at Carnegie Library. Mrs. Kelly gave some ware to the museum.

Congressmen Head Home As Session Ends

Congress Winds Up Its 85th Session Sunday Morning

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's up to the voters now to judge how good a job the 85th Congress did in coping with problems of the dawning space age, the recession and other issues.

This year's session ended in the predawn hours Sunday, sending senators and representatives homeward after nearly eight months of work on Capitol Hill.

Most of them will get little vacation. They'll be starting to campaign in earnest for the fall elections which will fill all 435 House seats and 34 of the Senate's 96 seats.

Unless some big emergency requires a special session, the House and Senate will not meet again until Jan. 7 for the opening of the 86th Congress.

One of the most important bills passed the last day was a compromise $3,298,092,500 foreign aid money measure. It also was one of the last.

The Senate took it up for the first time during the daylight hours and passed it after beating back efforts by Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La) to cut the Senate total of $3,518,092,500.

The bill then was rushed to conference with the House, which some time ago had passed a bill carrying $3,078,092,500. After nearly five hours of haggling, the conferees agreed on the compromise that just about split the difference.

The final product, passed after midnight, totaled 652 million dollars less than Eisenhower asked originally for economic and military aid to friendly nations in this fiscal year ending next June 30.

As generally happens, the last day of the session was a busy and a long one. The House adjourned at 2 a.m. The Senate followed at 4:11 a.m., ending an 18-hour session.

Interspersed with legislating, there were final bursts or oratory and exchanges of pleasantries between the usually contending Republicans and Democrats.

In the House, Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts offered a resolution praising Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) for the way he presided over the House. Rayburn returned the compliment.

A committee that notified President Eisenhower Congress had finished its business brought back the President's "best wishes to Mr. Sam," as Rayburn is called.

In the Senate, Republican Leader William F. Knowland of California got a warm sendoff. He is retiring from the Senate to run for governor of his home state.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas called Knowland "a man of integrity — one of my best personal friends." Knowland spoke of his "great personal affection" for Johnson.

In the final hours of the session, Congress finished work on two other big money bills.

One provided $6,090,156,900 for a variety of independent federal agencies. Eisenhower had vetoed an earlier version which contained 589 million dollars earmarked for the civil service retirement fund. Eisenhower said this was not needed, particularly in a year in which the government faces a heavy deficit.

or guard and a Navy band welcomed her.

The atomic-powered sub surfaced off Long Island Sunday night after a record 3,500-mile underwater cruise from England. She set a transatlantic speed record for submarines of 6 days, 11 hours and 55 minutes on the trip. That cut almost two days off the old record set by her sister sub Skate.

The Nautilus surfaced twice on its trip from Portland, England.

Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, a pioneer in the development of atomic submarines, boarded the Nautilus when she arrived this morning at the New York harbor mouth. Rickover was President Eisenhower's personal representative for the arrival ceremonies.

Rickover remained on the sub during its sail up the Hudson and return down the river to dockside ceremonies in Brooklyn.

Tuesday, sightseers will be able to get a look at the sub at the navy yard.

On Wednesday — officially "USS Nautilus Day" in New York City — Rickover and the 115 officers and men of the sub will be honored in a traditional ticker-tape parade up lower Broadway.

2 Men In One Car Face Drunk Driving Charge

A hearing was underway this morning in Municipal Court for a city man and his companion from Ashtabula, both of whom deny charges of driving the same car while intoxicated.

David Pedmore, 24, of Ashtabula and Herbert Fiets, 772 Woodlawn Ave., were arrested Sunday morning at 4:24 on Jackson St.

Officers said Fiets first was cited with driving while intoxicated, along with driving without a license and consuming intoxicants in a vehicle.

Later Fiets denied driving, and Pedmore was also charged with driving while intoxicated while the original charges remained against Fiets for hearing this morning. Fiets today pleaded guilty to drinking beer in the car, but he and Pedmore submitted innocent pleas to the other charges.

Congressmen Head Home As Session Ends

Congress Winds Up Its 85th Session Sunday Morning

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's up to the voters now to judge how good a job the 85th Congress did in coping with problems of the dawning space age, the recession and other issues.

This year's session ended in the predawn hours Sunday, sending senators and representatives homeward after nearly eight months of work on Capitol Hill.

Most of them will get little vacation. They'll be starting to campaign in earnest for the fall elections which will fill all 435 House seats and 34 of the Senate's 96 seats.

Unless some big emergency requires a special session, the House and Senate will not meet again until Jan. 7 for the opening of the 86th Congress.

One of the most important bills passed the last day was a compromise $3,298,092,500 foreign aid money measure. It also was one of the last.

The Senate took it up for the first time during the daylight hours and passed it after beating back efforts by Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La) to cut the Senate total of $3,518,092,500.

The bill then was rushed to conference with the House, which some time ago had passed a bill carrying $3,078,092,500. After nearly five hours of haggling, the conferees agreed on the compromise that just about split the difference.

The final product, passed after midnight, totaled 652 million dollars less than Eisenhower asked originally for economic and military aid to friendly nations in this fiscal year ending next June 30.

As generally happens, the last day of the session was a busy and a long one. The House adjourned at 2 a.m. The Senate followed at 4:11 a.m., ending an 18-hour session.

Interspersed with legislating, there were final bursts or oratory and exchanges of pleasantries between the usually contending Republicans and Democrats.

In the House, Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts offered a resolution praising Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) for the way he presided over the House. Rayburn returned the compliment.

A committee that notified President Eisenhower Congress had finished its business brought back the President's "best wishes to Mr. Sam," as Rayburn is called.

In the Senate, Republican Leader William F. Knowland of California got a warm sendoff. He is retiring from the Senate to run for governor of his home state.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas called Knowland "a man of integrity — one of my best personal friends." Knowland spoke of his "great personal affection" for Johnson.

In the final hours of the session, Congress finished work on two other big money bills.

One provided $6,090,156,900 for a variety of independent federal agencies. Eisenhower had vetoed an earlier version which contained 589 million dollars earmarked for the civil service retirement fund. Eisenhower said this was not needed, particularly in a year in which the government faces a heavy deficit.

2 Men In One Car Face Drunk Driving Charge

A hearing was underway this morning in Municipal Court for a city man and his companion from Ashtabula, both of whom deny charges of driving the same car while intoxicated.

David Pedmore, 24, of Ashtabula and Herbert Fiets, 772 Woodlawn Ave., were arrested Sunday morning at 4:24 on Jackson St.

Officers said Fiets first was cited with driving while intoxicated, along with driving without a license and consuming intoxicants in a vehicle.

Later Fiets denied driving, and Pedmore was also charged with driving while intoxicated while the original charges remained against Fiets for hearing this morning. Fiets today pleaded guilty to drinking beer in the car, but he and Pedmore submitted innocent pleas to the other charges.

Wallpaper Murals Help Brighten Problem Room

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

The popularity of wallpaper murals is mainly due to the fact that they can do so much for problem rooms, says designer James Seeman, one of the country's foremost authorities on wall decoration.

"But many people still feel a perfect room is required for mural decoration," he says. "A mural is more suited actually to the problem room than any other since the results are so dramatic."

WALLS interrupted by protrusions, for instance, are eye sores in a room. But it is possible to decorate around them with a scenic mural, he points out, and give the illusion of a flat wall.

Take the long narrow hall, for instance, found as often in swank residential apartments as in tenament homes. It may offer an illusion of depth just by choosing the right mural, one with a continuing scene such as a rolling country side or seascape.

"An illusion of height may be achieved with the right mural if that is the problem," Seeman says. "Use a mural with strong vertical lines, running it directly from the baseboard." He illustrates this idea by showing a series of stylized trees, extending the upper tree top over the ceiling for some distance.

Dining rooms are usually more troublesome than other units in the home, having more broken - up wall space for some reason or another.

Seeman advised following a mural directly around the room, skipping over the windows and doors as if they weren't there, and continuing the mural after each gap. "The eye will naturally follow the scenic mural, ignoring the blank spots," he says, and creating its own feeling of completeness and unity. In one dining room, furnished in early American style furniture, he used a rugged New England seacoast design.

A GAY French street scene could be just the thing for the wall of a room furnished in French provincial furniture. In a Victorian living room, Seeman used a gay nineties scene.

After you've established the best design for your own particular situation, take a plumb line on the wall for proper measurement. Don't depend on door frames or ceiling lines to be accurate. Check carefully before you are stuck with an uneven wall mural.

Even though you may believe your strips are measured accurately, it is best to leave six inches top and bottom on each strip to allow for any errors.

Murals should be marked for continuity by the manufacturer, and these should be sorted out, and the wall marked off before the first one goes up. If paste seeps out from between panels clean it off immediately with a damp cloth, before you go on the next strip.

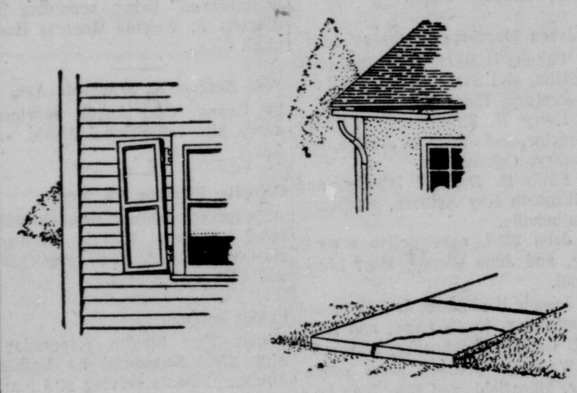
THIS AMERICAN FARM HOUSE has an expansion attic with space for an extra bedroom and bath plus additional storage space. The plan, HA52-Y, is by Architect Herman H. York, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica 32, N. Y. The overall size of the house is 33 by 60 feet. Excluding the garage and the attic, the house has 1,354 square feet.

Small Items May Mean Trouble For Your Home



When a house is becoming rundown, it is not because the roof has caved in or that glass is missing in some of the windows, but because of a number of small but very noticeable defects.

In general, these small items are neglected until the time arrives when, combined, they make the house a very undesirable piece of property.

The illustration above shows a few of the minor defects which you can readily see in one out of every four houses in the country, and which will soon put a house in the low-price field.

One illustration shows a shutter slightly askew. Perhaps the screws have pulled out of a hinge or the hinge has rusted through. To repair this unsightly defect would cost about 25 cents and take the average man about 15 minutes.

Another sketch shows a cement walk badly cracked and doomed to break up further with each frost and thaw. To repair it properly would require only a 50-cent bag of patching concrete and 10 minutes work. The third sketch illustrates a very common and often - seen hanging gutter, which got that way by having one of the supporting metal straps break.

Immediate action would take about a half-hour's labor, but failing that, the gutter will continue to sag as the other straps fail, and soon the entire length will be hanging down.

House defects never heal themselves. The longer they are allowed to go the greater the damage becomes and the more the expense of putting them to rights.

Constant survey of your house, particularly after storms, pays large dividends and usually results in keeping repair expenditures at a minimum.

Tips Offered On Right Way To Set Screw

The average person knows that nails or screws holds things together because they force the fibers of wood apart, and in so doing cause the fibers to exert pressure against the nail or screw, making them hard to pull out.

It is also well known that the harder woods have the closest grain or, in other words, the fibers are denser. All of this leads up to the fact that setting a screw into a piece of hard wood is a tough job.

The amateur craftsman frequently has great difficulty when using screws. Most of the time it is because he does not know the right method to use. And instead of having a neat assembly put together, he ends up with a sprained wrist and a bad piece of work.

All experienced carpenters and cabinet - makers can sink screws with little or no effort.

As a rule when small screws are being used, they first drive a nail part way into the wood, twist it a bit to enlarge the diameter of the hole, and then draw it out. This leaves both a start for the screws and a track to be followed. When larger screws are called for, use a larger nail for a starter, or a drill just a bit smaller than the diameter of the screw.

When very hard wood is involved, the experienced mechanic will run the threads of the screws over a bar of soap. It is most astonishing what a difference this makes in turning the screw home to a finish. Vaseline does quite well and so does any type of grease, but soap seems to be the ideal lubricant for this particular use.

There is no excuse for twisted-off heads or shanks when screwing things together. If the procedures above are carried out, any job can be done easily and neatly.

Ohio Realtors Encouraged By Advance Registrations

COLUMBUS — Advance registrations indicate that the 49th annual convention of the Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards here will be one of the best.

The convention, scheduled for the Deshler Hilton Hotel Sept. 28-Oct. 1, will play host to an estimated 1,200 Ohio realtors and their wives, according to Marvin C. Yerke, convention general chairman.

Known as a "working convention", the OAREB meeting will begin on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 28, with the opening of the Ohio Realtors Exposition and of meetings of the Ohio Women's Council of the Association and of the executive and nominating committees.

"Salesmen's Day" will be Monday, Sept. 29, with the entire program devoted to topics of special interest to salesmen. Irving Gilman, vice president of the Institute for Motivational Research, will discuss "Effective Selling For Today And Tomorrow."

Monday afternoon, Lloyd D. Hanford of San Francisco, president of the Institute of Real Estate Management, will talk on "Commissions Are Not Windfalls."

Following this talk, a panel will discuss "Cooperation Means More Income." The panel, composed of James J. Spatz of Chicago, Preston Cooke of Columbus and Ross Ellis of Cleveland, will be moderated by L. T. Chambers, executive secretary of the Columbus Board of Realtors.

Mrs. Ebby Halliday of Dallas, one of last year's most popular speakers, will join with H. Walter Graves of Philadelphia, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, and John J. Wagner of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, as speakers in Tuesday's general sessions.

Mrs. Halliday, who owns her own real estate business in Dallas, will discuss "Ten Million $elling." Wagner will pose the question "Are You Cheating Yourself by Listing Too High?"

Ohio Realtors Encouraged By Advance Registrations

COLUMBUS — Advance registrations indicate that the 49th annual convention of the Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards here will be one of the best.

The convention, scheduled for the Deshler Hilton Hotel Sept. 28-Oct. 1, will play host to an estimated 1,200 Ohio realtors and their wives, according to Marvin C. Yerke, convention general chairman.

Known as a "working convention", the OAREB meeting will begin on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 28, with the opening of the Ohio Realtors Exposition and of meetings of the Ohio Women's Council of the Association and of the executive and nominating committees.

"Salesmen's Day" will be Monday, Sept. 29, with the entire program devoted to topics of special interest to salesmen. Irving Gilman, vice president of the Institute for Motivational Research, will discuss "Effective Selling For Today And Tomorrow."

Monday afternoon, Lloyd D. Hanford of San Francisco, president of the Institute of Real Estate Management, will talk on "Commissions Are Not Windfalls."

Following this talk, a panel will discuss "Cooperation Means More Income." The panel, composed of James J. Spatz of Chicago, Preston Cooke of Columbus and Ross Ellis of Cleveland, will be moderated by L. T. Chambers, executive secretary of the Columbus Board of Realtors.

Mrs. Ebby Halliday of Dallas, one of last year's most popular speakers, will join with H. Walter Graves of Philadelphia, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, and John J. Wagner of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, as speakers in Tuesday's general sessions.

Mrs. Halliday, who owns her own real estate business in Dallas, will discuss "Ten Million Selling." Wagner will pose the question "Are You Cheating Yourself by Listing Too High?"

Family Room First Started In Early Rome

Ancient Atrium Has Exerted Influence Upon Architecture

By JOHN O. B. WALLACE

NEW YORK (AP) — "Family rooms" and "family living" have become virtual household words today.

No thoughtful architect would turn out a residential design now without a family room or its counterpart under another name.

Home builders speak knowingly of the "trend" toward more family living. The phrases pop up in the proud jargon of the owner of a modern ranch or split.

And nearly everyone associated in one way or another with family housing at one time or another has regarded the words perhaps as representing an exciting and wholly new way of American life.

The family room, however, is as old as the ancient Roman empire. It was known then as the "atrium."

IT FIRST appeared as the central room of an early Roman house, with a hole in the roof to let out the smoke.

As Roman houses developed in complexity and the kitchen and hearth were removed to other positions, the atrium remained as a court — serving as a formal reception room and as the official center of family life.

The atrium has exerted strong influence on architecture in many lands and through many eras. Its influence on modern American architecture cannot be minimized.

In some modern houses, the atrium has become merely a square hall from which other rooms open. In this case, the hall is used as a sitting room.

Its basic feature, however, is a central interior courtyard around which rooms are placed. In ancient times, the atrium had universally a marble basin known as the "impluvium" to collect rainwater. This was situated in the center under the roof opening which was called the "compluvium."

The "impluvium" in modern adaptations sometimes becomes only a small garden area or a shallow pool. The "compluvium" in somecases has become a covered skylight.

AN ATRIUM design lends itself especially to dwellings on small plots where there are no views and where exterior walls have few windows, if any at all.

By means of the atrium idea, living rooms are grouped around an interior courtyard with complete openness in toward the court.

Esthetically, the interior court provides an ever changing decorative effect because the different positions of the sun create a varying array of illumination and shadows.

Why today's trend back to the atrium or courtyard house?

One architect, who has adapted the atrium idea in home designs, believes the reason lies in an effort by people to achieve privacy. The architect, Samuel Paul of New York, says:

"There is a rebellion against the gold fish bowl type of house. Today, in an atmosphere of tensions, competition, fast - moving traffic, the desire to get away from it all is reflected in this new — or shall I say old philosophy of courtyard design.

"This new house is a haven where a family can, in a sense, shut themselves away from the outside world, a place where serene and quiet living can prevail.

"The inner sanctum of the interior court can be as simple or luxurious as the budget will allow. Gardens and pools can become integrated parts of the interior ensemble.

"The courtyard or atrium house, too, looms as a possible solution to congested areas. The change is not based on a whim or a style or a fad, but on a concept and philosophy. The desires of the family today for privacy, restfulness and beauty can be fulfilled by this age-old concept of the courtyard house."

Decorating Time Is At Hand With Arrival Of Fall Season

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Fall is house weeding time. Bureau drawers and closets are emptied of parapharnalia and every homemaker tries to give her home a touch of glamor as she gets set for the winter social season. Along come these questions seeking last minute advice:

Q. — Are draperies going out? I notice more people are using light curtain type window treatments, and valances and heavy draperies seem to be moth balled.

A. — We are definitely living in a use-what-you-like age. There are so many styles of architecture these days — with newer homes sporting picture and casement windows which are best flattered by light filmy draw string curtains— that no one window style seems to be apparent. People use shades, venetian blinds, shutters or whatever best suits their interior and exterior arrangements. Draperies are no longer the strong suit in the living room, but many people still use them.

A. — Have you ever known any one who is loaded with tables, all good, inherited from ancestors, but with no other outstanding furniture to balance off their table antiques?

My other furniture is late Grand Rapids and Chappaqua modern, and aside from the tables — a good primitive mahogany dining table, a spool - turned mahogany end table, a Queen Anne candlestand, a dark finished French mahogany piece with Chippendale carved legs and a good tip-top table — I haven't a good piece of furniture. I don't want to part with these heirlooms, but how can I integrate them into my home furnishings scheme?

A. — You could be surprised at the results achieved by changing wood tones of antique tables. All your tables are mahogany, so why not have them refinished to approximately the same wood tone and finish?

Then find uses for them. One of the dining size tables could be used in a bay-window area for displaying plants, perhaps in special containers. You'll find uses for the other tables when you get them in complatible wood tones.

Dramatic antique patterned and textured upholstery materials may put second rate furniture in the chic bracket so it will complement the antique pieces.

Q.—My husband and I are sharing a home with his parents. The furnishings are hopelessly antimicarssar, and I don't think it is bearable. Should I offer to do a decorating job on the house or lose my sanity?

A. — It is their house, and you will probably shock them by trying to reorganize it. You could ask them if you could redo your bedroom, and perhaps they will appreciate your efforts enough to invite you to use your talents on other rooms.

Townships Show $626,694 Income

State Auditor James A. Rhodes reported today at Columbus that Columbiana County's townships had receipts of $626,694 and expenditures of $598,836 last year, according to a tabulation of annual financial reports filed with him by township clerks.

Townships received $257,631 from property taxes, $33,464 from the local government fund, $136,479 from gasoline tax, $80,076 from auto licenses and $119,042 from miscellaneous sources.

Highways accounted for most of expenditures, which include, $76,446 for trustees and clerks, $9,348 for cemeteries, $55,647 for fire protection, $404,082 for highways, and $53,310 for miscellaneous purposes.

This year Rhodes is planning a new report on comparative statistics on townships and villages.

Cox Construction Ousted From Canton Tournament, 4-0

Local Entry Finds Halters Hurler Tough

East Liverpool's entry in the American Baseball Congress playoffs at Canton, the Floyd Cox Construction team, had to settle for the tournament runner-up spot after advancing to the finals as Halters Construction of Canton triumphed, 4-0, behind the three-hit pitching of Dave Freeman Saturday night at Hoover Stadium.

The construction nine had become eligible for the Canton double - elimination tourney by winning this year's City Baseball League Championship with an 11-2 record.

Freeman, who was named the most valuable player of the tournament, allowed only singles by Bob Campbell Sr., Bernie Allen and Lorin Howard in pitching his team to the championship. The righthander struck out nine in going the distance.

Dave Hornick started on the mound for Cox Construction, but got into trouble early because of wildness. He permitted four runs to score in two innings. He walked three during his two - inning stint.

Hornick was relieved by Dick Chamberlain, the kingpin of the Construction hurling staff, who permitted only two hits in seven innings. Chamberlain, who had only one earned run scored off him in 17 innings of tournament play, left in the eighth in favor of Stan Franczek, another righthander.

Franczek also blanked the winners in throwing no - hit ball in relief and struck out two in the final inning. Hornick was tagged with the defeat.

The winners plated one run in the first inning on a single by Zimmer, Wayner's sacrifice and an infield error.

Hornick walked three straight batters in the second inning and was lifted in favor of Chamberlain. The three batters walked by Hornick all scored and another walk by Chamberlain plus some footwork at home plate by Arnold led to another run. Arnold scored by kicking the ball out of Campbell Jr.'s glove after a perfect throw by Jim Doak.

Manager Campbell was presented a runner - up trophy, the third won this year by his squad.

The Cox team will be feted tonight at 6:30 at the Riverview Hotel in Wellsville when Glenn Barnett, president of the City League, will present a trophy for winning the league this year and another for capturing the playoff series.

Mayor Fred Lawrence and Safety - Service Director Dan Maggianetti are scheduled to attend.

Second Presbys Clip All-Stars, 6-3, In Benefit Game

Second Presbyterian, the Y-Church League softball champions, defeated a group of All-Stars, 6-3, in a benefit game Saturday night at Dopler Field on the strength of its pitching staff.

Gene Talbott and Don Black combined to limit the All-Stars to only three hits while striking out 17. Talbott received credit for the victory.

Talbott, who started, was relieved by Black with the bases loaded in the last of the fifth and only one man out. Black forced the first batter to hit into a force play, struck out the next to end the inning and proceeded to fan the next six men to face him.

Barton was the losing pitcher for the All-Star squad.

George Parfitt led the hitting attack of the Second Presbys with two singles and a triple in five times at bat, while Black chipped in with two singles and Al Dawson smashed a home run.

Barton, who gave up four hits, needed help from Smith and Clendenning in pitching duties.

Proceeds from the game were to be used to start a fund to provide medical care for any players injured during league competition.

Stanford Girl Wins 3 And 2

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

DARIEN, Conn. (AP) — Anne Quast won a well deserved victory in the 58th Women's National Amateur Golf Tournament. But the girl the players still are talking about is the one she beat in the semifinals — JoAnne Gunderson.

And the one with the highest praise for JoAnne is the new champion.

"JoAnne is the greatest, she's just wonderful," Miss Quast burst out seconds after she had been given the championship trophy, following Saturday's sensational 3 and 2 victory over Barbara Romack. "Do you know what she just said to me? 'Anne, the next shot is going to be the hardest you've ever had to make."

Miss Gunderson knew because she had won the championship last year, when she was only 18, and had to face the crowd at the ceremony. Most of those who have watched her play believe she'll be back on top soon. She has both the game and temperament to become a great champion.

Miss Quast, a 20-year-old Stanford senior, has a far above average game and temperament, too, but she doesn't plan to stick around tournament golf more than another year.

"Golf has been wonderful to me, but I'll never let it become a career," she says. "I don't intend to play in all the tournaments more than one more year."

Anne played in her first national championship in 1952, when the tournament ended the day before her 15th birthday. She has missed only one since then. In the three years before she finally won she made it to the quarter-finals or semifinals.

Coast Schools Organize New Conference

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Stanford holds an open invitation today to boost the new West Coast Big Four to a Big Five before the athletic conference starts official operations next July 1

California, Southern California, UCLA and Washington announced on Saturday that they have formed the Athletic Assn. of Western Universities effective July 1, 1959.

The new group, born from the dying Pacific Coast Conference, was expected to play a major role in the Rose Bowl setup of the future although the spokesman said no agreement was now in effect with the Tournament of Roses group.

Rose Bowl officials said there was no need to sign any contracts with anyone as the PCC still has two Rose Bowl games left.

Although officials of Stanford adopted a wait-and-see attitude, the school had representatives at formulative meetings of the new alignment.

New U.S. Doubles Team Presents Cup Problem

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Ham Richardson and Alex Olmedo, National Doubles champions, have dumped a problem in the U. S. Davis Cup selection committee's lap—and it's a dandy.

Although they hadn't played together prior to last Wednesday, Richardson and Olmedo completed a sweep to the crown Sunday by defeating Davis Cup team members Barry MacKay and Sam Giammalva 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

The nation's amateur tennis overlords were delighted at the first all-American doubles final since 1948. But the result left the selection committee a double-pronged dilemma for their early September meeting at Forest Hills, N. Y.

First, Richardson — playing at his peak—says he needs more financial help than the standard expenses to go to Australia for the Davis Cup Challenge Round. He still wants his wife to accompany him. In the past, the committee has said nix.

Second, Olmedo, though legally eligible for the U. S. cup team through three years of residence, is not a citizen. He is a Peruvian national.

The Richardson-Olmedo triumph was no fluke. They knocked off defending champions Ashley Cooper and Neale Fraser of Australia in a billiant semifinal display. In the quarter-finals they ousted the second of three Aussie tandems, Rod Laver and Bob Mark.

Veeck Bides Time On Deal For Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — Former Tribe owner Bill Veeck has decided not to make a bid for the Cleveland Indians at this time.

Veeck and his associates met here Sunday night. The former Cleveland president said he personally doubts the Tribe will move from Cleveland despite hints along that line from Chairman William R. Daley, who blames sagging attendance for a possible decision to shift to another city.

Veeck's syndicate has the money needed to make a bid, reportedly four million dollars, but will wait to see how things develop before making a move.

Daley has publicly stated the Indians are not for sale He turned down Veeck and his group last fall. The board chairman met with Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze Saturday and said he wants to keep the team in Cleveland - if the fans support it.

Cleveland home attendance has dropped from a major league high of 2,620,627 in 1948—when Veeck was president—to 722,256 last season. It is running even lower this season.

Canadian Golf Tourney Won By Young Texan

EDMONTON (AP) — A soft-spoken young Texan won the Canadian Open Golf tournament Saturday, standing up under pressure to win by a stroke in a stretch duel with a seasoned veteran.

Wes Ellis, 26-year-old native of San Antonio now playing out of Ridgewood, N.J., overcame early nervousness and last-hole jitters to score a four-under-par 66 in the final round and finish the 72-hole competition 13 strokes under par with 267.

This was one better than Jay Hebert, 35-year-old Frenchman from Sanford, Fla.

Ellis earned $3,500 and the Seagram Gold Cup. Hebert took $2,300 for his second place finish.

Grant Scores 10th Win As Senators Bow Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jim (Mudcat) Grant, Cleveland's rookie right-hander, loves those Washington Senators. Of his 10 victories, half have come against Washington, including a 9-1 triumph here Sunday. He also has lost 10.

Larry Doby paced Cleveland's 12-hit attack with a homer, double and single for three runs batted in. Minnie Minoso also collected three hits.

Grant limited the Senators to eight hits and lost his shutout bid in the sixth on Herb Plews' double, a single by Albie Pearson and an infield out. He held a 9-0 lead after four innings, at which time the Indians stopped hitting. They were held hitless the rest of the way by former Tribesman Jim Constable and John Romonosky.

Pedro Ramos and Tex Clevenger were the victims of Cleveland's early hitting burst. Ramos took his 13th defeat in 24 decisions.

The Indians scored two in the first inning, another pair in the third, and five in the fourth frame.

Singles by Bobby Avila and Minoso plus a double by Doby counted two in the initial inning. Doby hit his eighth homer in the third, a 400-foot shot into the center field bleachers, scoring Vic Power who had singled.

In the fourth, Randy Jackson singled, Billy Moran doubled and Grant sent them both home with a two-run pop double to right field. Avila sacrificed and Grant scored on a sacrifice fly by Power.

Doby beat out an infield hit and came across on a double by Rocky Colavito. Rocky went to third on the throw to the plate and scored the Tribe's final run on a single by Minoso.

Gary Bell (7-8) goes against Washington's Vito Valentinetti (3-2), a former Indian, in today's finale.

Lorain Wins Tourney

CLEVELAND (AP) — Lorain beat back a determined Youngstown team early today, 5-2, and won the regional National Amateur Baseball Federation title. The victory sends the winners to the national tourney at Flint, Mich., starting Friday. Youngstown had defeated Cleveland 12-2 and then beat Lorain 3-2 in 10 innings in the double elimination.

3 Pro Elevens Still Unbeaten

By The Associated Press

The Los Angeles Rams, Chicago Bears and Detroit Lions are the only undefeated teams in the National Football League's exhibition season today despite the fact that the pros have been going at it only two weeks.

The Rams and Bears show 2-0 records, while the Lions have won their only game.

The Bears chalked up their second triumph Sunday, a 3-0 decision over the Philadelphia Eagles in Columbus. It was the only game of the day. George Blanda kicked a 19-yard field goal in the second period for the only score.

The San Francisco 49ers edged the Washington Redskins, 20-19, at Portland, Ore., and the Baltimore Colts and Chicago Cardinals tied, 31-31 at Austin, Tex., Saturday night.

Quarterback John Brodie completed 19 out of 26 passes for the 49ers, but it was Gordie Soltan who pushed 'Frisco in front when he kicked a 32-yard field goal with a minute and a half remaining.

Larry Doby paced Cleveland's 12-hit attack with a homer, double and single for three runs batted in. Minnie Minoso also collected three hits.

Grant limited the Senators to eight hits and lost his shutout bid in the sixth on Herb Plews' double, a single by Albie Pearson and an infield out. He held a 9-0 lead after four innings, at which time the Indians stopped hitting. They were held hitless the rest of the way by former Tribesman Jim Constable and John Romonosky.

Pedro Ramos and Tex Clevenger were the victims of Cleveland's early hitting burst. Ramos took his 13th defeat in 24 decisions.

The Indians scored two in the first inning, another pair in the third, and five in the fourth frame.

Singles by Bobby Avila and Minoso plus a double by Doby counted two in the initial inning. Doby hit his eighth homer in the third, a 400-foot shot into the center field bleachers, scoring Vic Power who had singled.

In the fourth, Randy Jackson singled, Billy Moran doubled and Grant sent them both home with a two-run pop double to right field. Avila sacrificed and Grant scored on a sacrifice fly by Power.

Doby beat out an infield hit and came across on a double by Rocky Colavito. Rocky went to third on the throw to the plate and scored the Tribe's final run on a single by Minoso.

Gary Bell (7-8) goes against Washington's Vito Valentinetti (3-2), a former Indian, in today's finale.

Lorain Wins Tourney

CLEVELAND (AP) — Lorain beat back a determined Youngstown team early today, 5-2, and won the regional National Amateur Baseball Federation title. The victory sends the winners to the national tourney at Flint, Mich., starting Friday. Youngstown had defeated Cleveland 12-2 and then beat Lorain 3-2 in 10 innings in the double elimination.

3 Pro Elevens Still Unbeaten

By The Associated Press

The Los Angeles Rams, Chicago Bears and Detroit Lions are the only undefeated teams in the National Football League's exhibition season today despite the fact that the pros have been going at it only two weeks.

The Rams and Bears show 2-0 records, while the Lions have won their only game.

The Bears chalked up their second triumph Sunday, a 3-0 decision over the Philadelphia Eagles in Columbus. It was the only game of the day. George Blanda kicked a 19-yard field goal in the second period for the only score.

The San Francisco 49ers edged the Washington Redskins, 20-19, at Portland, Ore., and the Baltimore Colts and Chicago Cardinals tied, 31-31 at Austin, Tex., Saturday night.

Quarterback John Brodie completed 19 out of 26 passes for the 49ers, but it was Gordie Soltan who pushed 'Frisco in front when he kicked a 32-yard field goal with a minute and a half remaining.

Bob Friend Wins No. 17 As Pirates Split With Cardinals

Braves Boost Lead To 7 By Edging Giants

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pittsburgh's youth-minded Pirates, en route to their first finish in the first division in 10 years, are almost certain to have a 20-game pitcher this season. He is Bob Friend, the oldest Pirate in point of service.

The 27-year-old right-hander has 17 victories, more than any other National League hurler. He was credited with the Pirates' 8-4 first-game triumph over St. Louis Sunday although he gave way to Elroy Face after seven innings. St. Louis won the second game 12-8. The Pirates are one percentage point behind the second-place Giants.

A workhorse, Friend already has pitched 215 innings, second only to Milwaukee's Warren Spahn. Although he has lost 13 games, most in the league, he already has equaled his top winning mark (17-17 in 1956). In seven previous years, he has had only one winning season — 14-9 in 1955.

In other games, Milwaukee increased its first-place margin over San Francisco to seven games, defeating the Giants 8-5 in 10 innings. Cincinnati nipped Los Angeles 6-5 and Philadelphia swept a double-header from Chicago 13-8 and 5-3. The second game was called after eight innings because of darkness.

Bill Mazeroski and Hank Foiles drove in two runs each for Pittsburgh in the opener. In the nightcap, Stan Musial's pinch single in the eighth ignited a five-run inning and enabled the Cards to overcome an 8-7 deficit. Joe Cunningham and Irv Noren drove in runs with singles. Gene Green doubled in another and Frank Thomas' wild throw added two more for St. Louis. Ken Boyer hit a three-run homer earlier for the winners.

Hank Aaron smashed a two-run homer in the 10th as Milwaukee snapped a 5-5 tie. The Braves added another run off Red Worthington on Joe Adcock's double and singles by Andy Pafko and Johnny Logan. Leon Wagner hit his third homer in four days for the Giants.

Frank Robinson's two-out home run in the ninth, after Johnny Temple had led off with a double, gave Cincinnati a come-from-behind 6-5 victory over Los Angeles. Don Zimmer hit a three-run homer for the Dodgers.

Ed Bouchee slammed a home run in each game in Philadelphia's double triumph over the Cubs. His first came with the bases loaded to high-light a seven-run outburst in the seventh inning.

Pinch hitter Rip Repulski also homered in the opener with two on. Wally Post and Willie Jones batted in two runs apiece as the Phillies came from behind in the second game with four tallies in the eighth to give relief pitcher Jack Sanford his eighth triumph.

First baseman Jim Marshall, purchased from Baltimore Saturday, kept the Cubs alive in both games. He hit two homers and a single in the first game and came through with a home run and single in the second.

Lary Defeats Yanks Again

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Frank Lary laughs at the moaners who are constantly howling "Break up the Yankees."

Lary's only complaint is that he doesn't see enough of Casey Stengel's American League champions.

The stocky Detroit right-hander faced the Yankees Sunday for the seventh time this season and for the sixth time he beat them. The score was 8-3, enabling the Tigers to gain a split in their double-header as the Yankees won the nightcap 3-2.

Not since 1944 has a pitcher whipped the Yankees six times in one campaign. It was done by a pair of Detroit hurlers, Hal Newhouser and Dizzy Trout.

The split enabled the runaway Yankees to widen their lead to 12 games over Chicago, which was beaten 5-2 by Baltimore. Boston's third-place Red Sox swept a double-header from Kansas City 14-3 and 3-2 in 11 innings. Cleveland swamped Washington 9-1.

Detroit outhit the Yankees 12 to 6 in the opener. Charlie Maxwell led the Tiger attack with a pair of singles and a three-run homer. Art Ditmar was the loser.

Norm Siebern's ninth inning home run snapped a 2-2 tie for New York in the second game. Herb Moford, who had held the Yankees hitless after the first inning, was the victim. Winner Bobby Shantz went the distance for the first time since April 27.

Jackie Jensen's run-producing single in the 11th broke up a tight pitching duel between Boston's Murray Wall and Kansas City's Ray Herbert in the second game of their twin bill. The Red Sox bombed four Athletics pitchers for 16 hits in the opener, with Don Buddin and Pete Daley driving in three runs each on as many hits. Wall, coming to the relief of starter Ted Bowsfield in the fourth inning of the nightcap, allowed only one hit in 7 2-3 innings.

Billy Gardner drove in three runs with a pair of doubles in Baltimore's triumph over Chicago. Two other Billies—pitchers O'Dell and Loes—held the White Sox to three hits with O'Dell posting his 12th victory.

Jim (Mudcat) Grant hurled his fifth victory over Washington as Cleveland belabored four Senator pitchers for a dozen hits. Larry Dobby drove in three runs for the winners with a single, double and his eighth home run.

Bears Edge Eagles 3-0 In Mud At Fairgrounds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A pregame rain that turned the Ohio State Fairgrounds stadium into a quagmire stalled the running and passing attacks of the Chicago Bears and Philadelphia Eagles but didn't hurt the toe of Bears quarterback George Blanda.

Blanda booted a 19-yard, second period goal to provide the only score of the game and the Bears made it two straight in exhibition play Sunday with a 3-0 triumph over the Eagles.

Blanda's field goal—his only one in four tries—was protected in the closing minutes in a great goalline stand by the Bears who stalled a 79-yard Eagles march on the six-inch line.

VFW Team Captures Crown At Wellsville

The Veterans of Foreign Wars team won the playoff championship of the Wellsville Little League Friday night by defeating the Elks, 10-5.

Dave Ewing pitched the VFW team, winners of the first half, to the championship in the best of three series. The Elks won the first half.

Mark Leyda smacked a home run for the losers.

Reds' Rookie Picks Up Win

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Rookie pitcher Orlando Pena, who says—in Spanish, of course—that he gets sick when a team hits him hard, was feeling especially healthy Sunday. Cincinnati's Redlegs got all the benefit.

In his first major league assignment, Pena took over in the eighth inning with the Redlegs one run behind and checked Los Angeles' Dodgers on one hit. Teammate Frankie Robinson banged a two-run homer in the ninth for a 6-5 Redleg victory.

Pena, a gabby Cuban, had only arrived in Los Angeles Sunday morning after the Reds brought him up from Havana of the International League.

Gino Cimoli tagged him for a leadoff single, but Pena bore down, and faced only six more men. In the ninth he easily disposed of the Dodgers' big sluggers, fanning Charlie Neal and Steve Bilko and getting Duke Snider to pop out.

Robinson's homer, his 26th, came in the ninth inning after Johnny Temple had led off with his third double and fourth hit of the game.

Gil Hodges' leadoff double, a hit batsman and Snider's pinch single that caromed off the shin of reliever Brooks Lawrence had given the Dodgers a one-run lead in the seventh inning.

The Reds showed little signs of life until the fourth inning when five hits and three runs tied up the game, 4-4.

Duckie Boy Captures Pigeon Race In Rain

Birds from the loft of Bob Glynn finished first and third in the East Liverpool Homing Club's weekly race.

Duckie Boy came in first in the 75-mile race from Coshocton, during a heavy rain, in the time of 3 hours, 44 minutes, 38 seconds.

Charles Papendry's Marie was second in 4 hours, 27 minutes, 58 seconds and Glynn's Dew Drop third in 4 hours, 45 minutes, 14 seconds.

Another race will be held next Sunday, a 100-mile event from Newark.

Ray Mueller, former major league catcher, is managing the Pueblo Bruins in the Class A Western League. The team is in the Chicago Cub chain.

Trapshooting Honors Won By Salesman

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP) — Ned Lilly, a Stanton, Mich., lumber salesman, wears this year's crown as over-all champion of the 59th Grand American Trapshoot.

Lilly, 42, won the laurels Saturday by taking the two finishing events in trapshooting's biggest competition. He broke 98 to tie for the national doubles, then won the Vandalia Handicap with 99 of 100 from 26 yards to establish a new 26-yard record.

In all, Lilly broke 977 of 1,000 championship targets during the week-long shoot.

The all - around championship went to Jim McCole, 30, a Gering, Neb., game warden, who tied Friday for the Grand American Handicap championship, but lost in a shootoff. The all-around championship is based on the North American clay target race, 200 targets at 16 yards; the 100-target Grand American Handicap and the 100-target doubles race. McCole broke 389 of 400 targets, two more than Lilly.

Mrs. Helen Urban of Mentor, Ohio, broke 932 of 1,000 targets to win the women's over-all crown.

Trotting Record May Fall During Racing In Illinois

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP) — The Hambletonian mile record of 2:00, which has stood since 1947, could be matched or broken Wednesday in the 33rd renewal of trotting's big show for 3-year-olds.

The field is fast and so is the resurfaced clay mile oval of the DuQuoin Fairgrounds, where Hickory Smoke won last year with a best heat of 2:00 1-5.

If Fred Egan-trained Emily's Pride becomes the 10th filly to win the Hambletonian, sulky followers believe she has the speed to lower the two-minute mark set by Hoot Mon in Goshen, N.Y.

Owned by Walnut Hall and Castleton Farms in Lexington, Ky., Emily's Pride has stepped 2:00 2-5 this season, best time of any candidate. This was on a three-quarter mile oval in Vernon Downs, N.Y., a month ago — a track considered slower than DuQuoin.

"Luck plays the biggest part in the Hambletonian," says the 78-year-old Egan, who piloted Miss Tilly to a filly record in the event of 2:01 2-5 in 1949.

"I'm real fond of Emily's Pride, and think more of her than I did Miss Tilly She can get away like lightening. She's so fast she can make her own breaks.

"The field is well balanced, but with luck when it's needed, this filly can step it in two flat here.

"Flick Nipe will drive Emily's Pride, like he's been doing all year," Egan continued. "And I'm certainly not going to tell him what to do, even though he's only 64 years old."

Fay Crocker Wins In Iowa

WATERLOO, Iowa (AP) — Fay Crocker, Montevideo, Uruguay, professional, today ranked as the leading money winner in the Ladies PGA circuit.

The South American miss pocketed $1,313 following her victory in the Waterloo Open Sunday to bring her total circuit winnings for the year to $10,314.70.

Just behind her is Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., who has won $10,207.60 on the links this year, including the $1,012 second place share she won Sunday.

Miss Crocker fashioned a three over par final round 75 for a 72-hole total of 287 and wound up nine strokes ahead of the runner-up Miss Hanson.

Her 287 was the lowest of the 1958 circuit and only one stroke off the best score in her five-year pro career

Phyllis Germain of Atlantic, Iowa, coming out of circuit tournament retirement on a part-time basis after 12 years, missed a two-foot putt on the 18th green which cost her approximately $200 and a second-place tie with Miss Hanson.

Phyllis finished with a six over par 78 and had to share third place with Marlene Hagge of Delray Beach, Fla. They had 297s.

Lary's only complaint is that he doesn't see enough of Casey Stengel's American League champions.

The stocky Detroit right-hander faced the Yankees Sunday for the seventh time this season and for the sixth time he beat them. The score was 8-3, enabling the Tigers to gain a split in their double-header as the Yankees won the nightcap 3-2.

Not since 1944 has a pitcher whipped the Yankees six times in one campaign. It was done by a pair of Detroit hurlers, Hal Newhouser and Dizzy Trout.

The split enabled the runaway Yankees to widen their lead to 12 games over Chicago, which was beaten 5-2 by Baltimore. Boston's third-place Red Sox swept a double-header from Kansas City 14-3 and 3-2 in 11 innings. Cleveland swamped Washington 9-1.

Detroit outhit the Yankees 12 to 6 in the opener. Charlie Maxwell led the Tiger attack with a pair of singles and a three-run homer. Art Ditmar was the loser.

Norm Siebern's ninth inning home run snapped a 2-2 tie for New York in the second game. Herb Moford, who had held the Yankees hitless after the first inning, was the victim. Winner Bobby Shantz went the distance for the first time since April 27.

Jackie Jensen's run-producing single in the 11th broke up a tight pitching duel between Boston's Murray Wall and Kansas City's Ray Herbert in the second game of their twin bill. The Red Sox bombed four Athletics pitchers for 16 hits in the opener, with Don Buddin and Pete Daley driving in three runs each on as many hits. Wall, coming to the relief of starter Ted Bowsfield in the fourth inning of the nightcap, allowed only one hit in 7 2-3 innings.

Billy Gardner drove in three runs with a pair of doubles in Baltimore's triumph over Chicago. Two other Billies—pitchers O'Dell and Loes—held the White Sox to three hits with O'Dell posting his 12th victory.

Jim (Mudcat) Grant hurled his fifth victory over Washington as Cleveland belabored four Senator pitchers for a dozen hits. Larry Dobby drove in three runs for the winners with a single, double and his eighth home run.

Bears Edge Eagles 3-0 In Mud At Fairgrounds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A pregame rain that turned the Ohio State Fairgrounds stadium into a quagmire stalled the running and passing attacks of the Chicago Bears and Philadelphia Eagles but didn't hurt the toe of Bears quarterback George Blanda.

Blanda booted a 19-yard, second period goal to provide the only score of the game and the Bears made it two straight in exhibition play Sunday with a 3-0 triumph over the Eagles.

Blanda's field goal—his only one in four tries—was protected in the closing minutes in a great goal-line stand by the Bears who stalled a 79-yard Eagles march on the six-inch line.

VFW Team Captures Crown At Wellsville

The Veterans of Foreign Wars team won the playoff championship of the Wellsville Little League Friday night by defeating the Elks, 10-5.

Dave Ewing pitched the VFW team, winners of the first half, to the championship in the best of three series. The Elks won the first half.

Mark Leyda smacked a home run for the losers.

Reds' Rookie Picks Up Win

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Rookie pitcher Orlando Pena, who says—in Spanish, of course—that he gets sick when a team hits him hard, was feeling especially healthy Sunday. Cincinnati's Redlegs got all the benefit.

In his first major league assignment, Pena took over in the eighth inning with the Redlegs one run behind and checked Los Angeles' Dodgers on one hit. Teammate Frankie Robinson banged a two-run homer in the ninth for a 6-5 Redleg victory.

Pena, a gabby Cuban, had only arrived in Los Angeles Sunday morning after the Reds brought him up from Havana of the International League.

Gino Cimoli tagged him for a leadoff single, but Pena bore down, and faced only six more men. In the ninth he easily disposed of the Dodgers' big sluggers, fanning Charlie Neal and Steve Bilko and getting Duke Snider to pop out.

Robinson's homer, his 26th, came in the ninth inning after Johnny Temple had led off with his third double and fourth hit of the game.

Gil Hodges' leadoff double, a hit batsman and Snider's pinch single that caromed off the shin of reliever Brooks Lawrence had given the Dodgers a one-run lead in the seventh inning.

The Reds showed little signs of life until the fourth inning when five hits and three runs tied up the game, 4-4.

Duckie Boy Captures Pigeon Race In Rain

Birds from the loft of Bob Glynn finished first and third in the East Liverpool Homing Club's weekly race.

Duckie Boy came in first in the 75-mile race from Coshocton, during a heavy rain, in the time of 3 hours, 44 minutes, 38 seconds.

Charles Papendry's Marie was second in 4 hours, 27 minutes, 58 seconds and Glynn's Dew Drop third in 4 hours, 45 minutes, 14 seconds.

Another race will be held next Sunday, a 100-mile event from Newark.

Ray Mueller, former major league catcher, is managing the Pueblo Bruins in the Class A Western League. The team is in the Chicago Cub chain.

Trapshooting Honors Won By Salesman

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP) — Ned Lilly, a Stanton, Mich., lumber salesman, wears this year's crown as over-all champion of the 59th Grand American Trapshoot.

Lilly, 42, won the laurels Saturday by taking the two finishing events in trapshooting's biggest competition. He broke 98 to tie for the national doubles, then won the Vandalia Handicap with 99 of 100 from 26 yards to establish a new 26-yard record.

In all, Lilly broke 977 of 1,000 championship targets during the week-long shoot.

The all - around championship went to Jim McCole, 30, a Gering, Neb., game warden, who tied Friday for the Grand American Handicap championship, but lost in a shootoff. The all-around championship is based on the North American clay target race, 200 targets at 16 yards; the 100-target Grand American Handicap and the 100-target doubles race. McCole broke 389 of 400 targets, two more than Lilly.

Mrs. Helen Urban of Mentor, Ohio, broke 932 of 1,000 targets to win the women's over-all crown.

Trotting Record May Fall During Racing In Illinois

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP) — The Hambletonian mile record of 2:00, which has stood since 1947, could be matched or broken Wednesday in the 33rd renewal of trotting's big show for 3-year-olds.

The field is fast and so is the resurfaced clay mile oval of the DuQuoin Fairgrounds, where Hickory Smoke won last year with a best heat of 2:00 1-5.

If Fred Egan-trained Emily's Pride becomes the 10th filly to win the Hambletonian, sulky followers believe she has the speed to lower the two-minute mark set by Hoot Mon in Goshen, N.Y.

Owned by Walnut Hall and Castleton Farms in Lexington, Ky., Emily's Pride has stepped 2:00 2-5 this season, best time of any candidate. This was on a three-quarter mile oval in Vernon Downs, N.Y., a month ago — a track considered slower than DuQuoin.

"Luck plays the biggest part in the Hambletonian," says the 78-year-old Egan, who piloted Miss Tilly to a filly record in the event of 2:01 2-5 in 1949.

"I'm real fond of Emily's Pride, and think more of her than I did Miss Tilly She can get away like lightening. She's so fast she can make her own breaks.

"The field is well balanced, but with luck when it's needed, this filly can step it in two flat here.

"Flick Nipe will drive Emily's Pride, like he's been doing all year," Egan continued. "And I'm certainly not going to tell him what to do, even though he's only 64 years old."

Yesterday's STARS

By The Associated Press

Batting — Hank Aaron, Braves, two-run homer in the 10th inning snapped a 5-5 tie with San Francisco and led to Milwaukee's 8-5 triumph. Aaron singled in the tying run in the fifth.

Pitching — Frank Lary, Tigers, allowed New York six hits in Detroit's 8-3 first game victory for his sixth triumph over the Yankees this season. The Yankees came back to win the second game 3-2.

Fay Crocker Wins In Iowa

WATERLOO, Iowa (AP) — Fay Crocker, Montevideo, Uruguay, professional, today ranked as the leading money winner in the Ladies PGA circuit.

The South American miss pocketed $1,313 following her victory in the Waterloo Open Sunday to bring her total circuit winnings for the year to $10,314.70.

Just behind her is Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., who has won $10,207.60 on the links this year, including the $1,012 second place share she won Sunday.

Miss Crocker fashioned a three over par final round 75 for a 72-hole total of 287 and wound up nine strokes ahead of the runner-up Miss Hanson.

Her 287 was the lowest of the 1958 circuit and only one stroke off the best score in her five-year pro career

Phyllis Germain of Atlantic, Iowa, coming out of circuit tournament retirement on a part-time basis after 12 years, missed a two-foot putt on the 18th green which cost her approximately $200 and a second-place tie with Miss Hanson.

Phyllis finished with a six over par 78 and had to share third place with Marlene Hagge of Delray Beach, Fla. They had 297s.

Plants Struck In Firing Rift

Union Spurs Fight To Reinstate Aide

CLEVELAND (AP) — United Automobile Workers Local 1250 has struck three Ford Motor Co. plants in suburban Brook Park to back up demands the company reinstate a fired union committeeman. About 2,100 workers are involved.

Pickets turned back first-shift workers scheduled to report at 11 p. m. Sunday. Few workers appeared at the plants, having been informed earlier of the strike action.

No trouble was reported as the strike closed down the two engine plants and the foundry works.

A union spokesman said the strike would continue until the company reinstated Tex Leonard, the fired committeeman

A strike vote was approved at a mass meeting Sunday afternoon. Members rejected a motion from the executive board and bargaining committee, which recommended that no action be taken while grievance proceedings were in progress.

Union members held a 24-hour strike at the plants last Tuesday to protest Leonard's firing.

Plant operations have been at a reduced force preceding production of 1959 models. Last week, only 2,100 of a normal complement of 6,000 workers were employed. Some 4,000 laid off a week ago were scheduled to return to their jobs Sept. 2.

Program Slated On Mental Health

LISBON — Columbiana County's 1958 program on the mental health in the classroom series will be held Tuesday night, Oct. 7, in Salem's new Senior High School.

Plans are in full swing, according to Atty. Bryce W. Kendall of Salem, president of the Columbiana County Mental Health Association, the sponsor in cooperation with all teachers' associations of the county.

The program committee has selected speakers — a psychiatrist, psychologist, guidance counselor and a therapist in special education — to develop the topic, "Pupil Personnel Services," and hopes to secure a popular television commentator as moderator.

Teacher association presidents assisting with plans are John Lewis, Lisbon; Leroy Hoskins, Leetonia; Waldo Ward, Columbiana; Emma Lewis, Wellsville; Frank Hoopes, Salem, and Paul Burrows, East Liverpool.

Mrs. Paul Hum of Salem is general chairman. She will be assisted by Cornell Monda, Lisbon, program; E. S. Kerr, Salem, hospitality; Hoopes, publicity; Doris Cope, Salem, arrangements, and Mary Doyle, Salem, registration.

Hancock PTA Officials Will Select President

Selection of a president will be the main business for the executive committee of the Hancock County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations when it meets at the New Cumberland school at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Anthony DiBart, first vice president, will preside and a calendar and budget will be planned. Mrs. Matthew Javersak, third vice president, is in charge of preparing the calendar and George E. Vanniere, treasurer, the budget.

Chairmen will present plans for approval in preparation for a school of instruction set tentatively for Thursday, Sept. 4.

The executive committee is composed of the officers and chairmen of the county council, which promotes conference and co-operation in matters of child welfare among the 14 local associations throughout the county.

The elm is a loose barked tree, therefore more readily open than other trees to fungus infections.

BEES—Y. These two area men got the "beesness" over the week-end when they removed this swarm from a roof of a Broadway building. Harold Bailey, left, and Willis Stewart, 263 Haywood St., who have eight hives heard about the swarm and donned protective nets and gloves to capture them. The bees began gathering Friday morning on the roof of the Patrick building and swarmed on the vent when the queen settled.

Firemen To Stage Benefit Carnival At Glenmoor Site

The annual benefit carnival of the Glenmoor volunteer fire department will open Tuesday night at the Glenmoor athletic field on State Route 267, continuing through Labor Day.

Six amusement rides will be furnished by Heck's Amusements, operated by Frank Hackathorn of Substation. Concessions will be operated by firemen and members of a Civil Defense unit that has headquarters in Glenmoor.

Matinees are scheduled Saturday afternoon and Monday afternoon.

The celebration's highlight will be a parade Friday night at 7:30, in which 55 to 60 tri-state area units are expected to compete for prizes. The parade will follow the Y. & O. Rd. and Route 267, disbanding at the athletic field.

Trucker Waits Hearing After Gallipolis Crash

Charles Gardner Jr., 31, of Pittsburgh was to receive a preliminary hearing today in Gallia County Court at Gallipolis on a charge of manslaughter as the result of a car - truck accident Friday afternoon on Route 7 below Gallipolis in which a Belmont man an his wife were killed.

Gardner has relatives in the Lisbon area. He was the driver of a tractor-trailer truck which collided headon with the car, killing Mr. and Mrs. William Pursglove of Belmont. The Gallipolis State Highway Patrol said Gardner's rig was on the wrong side of the road when the crash occurred. He is being held in the county jail at Gallipolis.

Hancock To Distribute Foodstuffs This Week

Surplus food distribution in Hancock County will be held today through Thursday from 1 to 6 p. m. at various towns, the Rev. Allen Fields, director, said today.

Chester residents can pick up their allotment Thursday at the City Hall. The distribution in Newell will be Tuesday at the home of American Legion Post 114.

Those at New Cumberland will get their food at the sheriff's garage Wednesday. The distribution will begin this afternoon in Weirton at the Christian Center.

Club To Hear O'Hanlon

LISBON — Frank R. O'Hanlon of East Liverpool, clerk of the Columbiana County Election Board, will speak at the Rotary Club dinner meeting at 6:15 p.m. Tuesday in the Wick Hotel. William McKenna is program chairman.

Post Office Stamp Sale To Start Earlier

Effective Thursday, the stamp window at the main Post Office, will open at 7:45 a. m. instead of 8, Postmaster Sam Brown announced.

He said he has been granted permission to do this by the Department division that regulates the hours of the windows.

Brown cited the fact that many furniture and hardware stores open at 8, and that bus patrons making connections at 8 were not able to transact business under the old opening hour. School teachers also were not able to mail in the forenoon due to their tight schedule.

However, with the additional 15 minutes earlier opening, businesses and patrons will be able to stop at the window and purchase stamps and send packages and still make their own 8 a. m. deadlines, he said.

All other window services will remain unchanged.

No Passing Zone Asked On Highway In LaCroft

Liverpool Township trustees Friday night voted to request the State Highway Department to create a "no passing" zone on a section of Route 267 through LaCroft.

The trustees said they have been receiving complaints of speeding in the area. They will ask that the section in the area of LaCroft School be made a "no passing" zone.

The meeting was held at City Hall. The trustees also voted to ask for bids on repair to the roofs of the township garage and fire houses. The next meeting will be Sept. 5.

60,000 Attend Rites

CLEVELAND (AP)—Despite a sprinkling of rain, about 60,000 persons flocked to Cleveland's Municipal Stadium Sunday to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the appearance of the Blessed Mother to Bernadette at Lourdes, France.

Testimony Slated In Hillcrest Case

LISBON — The Columbiana County Board of Education's motion for a new trial in the Hillcrest school transfer case will be heard Tuesday morning by Judge Raymond S. Buzzard in Common Pleas Court.

The county board contends it has newly - discovered evidence which was not used in March when the court ruled in favor of the petition of Paul Talbott of Hillcrest in a mandamus action. Petitioners seek release of the Hillcrest (Fairview School) area of Yellow Creek District, now part of the new Southern District, to join Wellsville city schools.

The petition was declared null and void by the county board last Nov. 26, when opponents filed a counter - petition. Talbott's group contends the county board's action was conditional upon a check of counter - petition wording and signatures and that final action on rejection never was taken.

Judge Buzzard's ruling in the Mandamus action held that the petition is valid since the county board had not taken final action. He directed the county board to grant the request or forward it to the State Board of Education for decision.

Parties Meet In New York

Nominees Sought For U.S. Senate

By The Associated Press

Republicans and Democrats had trouble choosing nominees for the U.S. Senate at New York state conventions opening today, but their problems were of different kinds.

The Democrats had too many candidates; the Republicans too few.

Former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey moved onto the Republican convention scene at Rochester and threw his still-powerful influence behind the effort to find a nominee. He squashed any speculation, however, that he might run himself.

At Buffalo, 80 miles away, former Air Force Secretary Thomas K. Finletter apparently held a slim, shaky lead over Dist. Atty. Frank S. Jogan of Manhattan in a field of six declared candidates, with New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner a seventh possibility.

Both parties still had a day to make up their minds. On opening day, the two-day conventions were devoted to speeches and other formalities with the nominations for governor set for tonight.

Gov. Averell Harriman, for the Democrats, and Nelson Rockefeller, for the Republicans, are unopposed for the top spots on the tickets, thus assuring a battle of millionaires.

Burglar Frustrated

LISBON — Police received a report at 10:35 p. m. Saturday that two men were trying to break into the rear of Hanna's Beauty Shop on S. Market St. officers found a broken window, but Mrs. Edith Hanna, proprietor, said nothing was missing. Mrs. Ed Blythe of R. D. 2, Salem, reported to police Saturady that four hubcaps were stolen from her 1953 auto sometime Friday night at the Fair Grounds.

Firemen At Glenmoor Make Carnival Plans

Plans for a carnival were completed at a meeting of the Glenmoor Volunteer Fire Department Association Thursday night in the firehall.

The carnival will open Tuesday and continue through Labor Day. A parade of bands, marching units and fire fighting equipment will be featured Friday at 7:30 p. m.

Auxiliary members who attended the meeting, made plans to serve home - baked foods at the carnival. Persons wishing to donate are to report to the food booth on the carnival grounds or to any member of the department.

Original paintings of any date are duty free if brought into the United States.

Plants Struck In Firing Rift

Union Spurs Fight To Reinstate Aide

CLEVELAND (AP) — United Automobile Workers Local 1250 has struck three Ford Motor Co. plants in suburban Brook Park to back up demands the company reinstate a fired union committeeman. About 2,100 workers are involved.

Pickets turned back first-shift workers scheduled to report at 11 p. m. Sunday. Few workers appeared at the plants, having been informed earlier of the strike action.

No trouble was reported as the strike closed down the two engine plants and the foundry works.

A union spokesman said the strike would continue until the company reinstated Tex Leonard, the fired committeeman

A strike vote was approved at a mass meeting Sunday afternoon. Members rejected a motion from the executive board and bargaining committee, which recommended that no action be taken while grievance proceedings were in progress.

Union members held a 24-hour strike at the plants last Tuesday to protest Leonard's firing.

Plant operations have been at a reduced force preceding production of 1959 models. Last week, only 2,100 of a normal complement of 6,000 workers were employed. Some 4,000 laid off a week ago were scheduled to return to their jobs Sept. 2.

Program Slated On Mental Health

LISBON — Columbiana County's 1958 program on the mental health in the classroom series will be held Tuesday night, Oct. 7, in Salem's new Senior High School.

Plans are in full swing, according to Atty. Bryce W. Kendall of Salem, president of the Columbiana County Mental Health Association, the sponsor in cooperation with all teachers' associations of the county.

The program committee has selected speakers — a psychiatrist, psychologist, guidance counselor and a therapist in special education — to develop the topic, "Pupil Personnel Services," and hopes to secure a popular television commentator as moderator.

Teacher association presidents assisting with plans are John Lewis, Lisbon; Leroy Hoskins, Leetonia; Waldo Ward, Columbiana; Emma Lewis, Wellsville; Frank Hoopes, Salem, and Paul Burrows, East Liverpool.

Mrs. Paul Hum of Salem is general chairman. She will be assisted by Cornell Monda, Lisbon, program; E. S. Kerr, Salem, hospitality; Hoopes, publicity; Doris Cope, Salem, arrangements, and Mary Doyle, Salem, registration.

Hancock PTA Officials Will Select President

Selection of a president will be the main business for the executive committee of the Hancock County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations when it meets at the New Cumberland school at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Anthony DiBart, first vice president, will preside and a calendar and budget will be planned. Mrs. Matthew Javersak, third vice president, is in charge of preparing the calendar and George E. Vanniere, treasurer, the budget.

Chairmen will present plans for approval in preparation for a school of instruction set tentatively for Thursday, Sept. 4.

The executive committee is composed of the officers and chairmen of the county council, which promotes conference and co-operation in matters of child welfare among the 14 local associations throughout the county.

The elm is a loose barked tree, therefore more readily open than other trees to fungus infections.

Firemen To Stage Benefit Carnival At Glenmoor Site

The annual benefit carnival of the Glenmoor volunteer fire department will open Tuesday night at the Glenmoor athletic field on State Route 267, continuing through Labor Day.

Six amusement rides will be furnished by Heck's Amusements, operated by Frank Hackathorn of Substation. Concessions will be operated by firemen and members of a Civil Defense unit that has headquarters in Glenmoor.

Matinees are scheduled Saturday afternoon and Monday afternoon.

The celebration's highlight will be a parade Friday night at 7:30, in which 55 to 60 tri-state area units are expected to compete for prizes. The parade will follow the Y. & O. Rd. and Route 267, disbanding at the athletic field.

Trucker Waits Hearing After Gallipolis Crash

Charles Gardner Jr., 31, of Pittsburgh was to receive a preliminary hearing today in Gallia County Court at Gallipolis on a charge of manslaughter as the result of a car - truck accident Friday afternoon on Route 7 below Gallipolis in which a Belmont man an his wife were killed.

Gardner has relatives in the Lisbon area. He was the driver of a tractor-trailer truck which collided headon with the car, killing Mr. and Mrs. William Pursglove of Belmont. The Gallipolis State Highway Patrol said Gardner's rig was on the wrong side of the road when the crash occurred. He is being held in the county jail at Gallipolis.

Hancock To Distribute Foodstuffs This Week

Surplus food distribution in Hancock County will be held today through Thursday from 1 to 6 p. m. at various towns, the Rev. Allen Fields, director, said today.

Chester residents can pick up their allotment Thursday at the City Hall. The distribution in Newell will be Tuesday at the home of American Legion Post 114.

Those at New Cumberland will get their food at the sheriff's garage Wednesday. The distribution will begin this afternoon in Weirton at the Christian Center.

Club To Hear O'Hanlon

LISBON — Frank R. O'Hanlon of East Liverpool, clerk of the Columbiana County Election Board, will speak at the Rotary Club dinner meeting at 6:15 p.m. Tuesday in the Wick Hotel. William McKenna is program chairman.

Post Office Stamp Sale To Start Earlier

Effective Thursday, the stamp window at the main Post Office, will open at 7:45 a. m. instead of 8, Postmaster Sam Brown announced.

He said he has been granted permission to do this by the Department division that regulates the hours of the windows.

Brown cited the fact that many furniture and hardware stores open at 8, and that bus patrons making connections at 8 were not able to transact business under the old opening hour. School teachers also were not able to mail in the forenoon due to their tight schedule.

However, with the additional 15 minutes earlier opening, businesses and patrons will be able to stop at the window and purchase stamps and send packages and still make their own 8 a. m. deadlines, he said.

All other window services will remain unchanged.

No Passing Zone Asked On Highway In LaCroft

Liverpool Township trustees Friday night voted to request the State Highway Department to create a "no passing" zone on a section of Route 267 through LaCroft.

The trustees said they have been receiving complaints of speeding in the area. They will ask that the section in the area of LaCroft School be made a "no passing" zone.

The meeting was held at City Hall. The trustees also voted to ask for bids on repair to the roofs of the township garage and fire houses. The next meeting will be Sept. 5.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Despite a sprinkling of rain, about 60,000 persons flocked to Cleveland's Municipal Stadium Sunday to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the appearance of the Blessed Mother to Bernadette at Lourdes, France.

Testimony Slated In Hillcrest Case

LISBON — The Columbiana County Board of Education's motion for a new trial in the Hillcrest school transfer case will be heard Tuesday morning by Judge Raymond S. Buzzard in Common Pleas Court.

The county board contends it has newly - discovered evidence which was not used in March when the court ruled in favor of the petition of Paul Talbott of Hillcrest in a mandamus action. Petitioners seek release of the Hillcrest (Fairview School) area of Yellow Creek District, now part of the new Southern District, to join Wellsville city schools.

The petition was declared null and void by the county board last Nov. 26, when opponents filed a counter - petition. Talbott's group contends the county board's action was conditional upon a check of counter - petition wording and signatures and that final action on rejection never was taken.

Judge Buzzard's ruling in the Mandamus action held that the petition is valid since the county board had not taken final action. He directed the county board to grant the request or forward it to the State Board of Education for decision.

Parties Meet In New York

Nominees Sought For U.S. Senate

By The Associated Press

Republicans and Democrats had trouble choosing nominees for the U.S. Senate at New York state conventions opening today, but their problems were of different kinds.

The Democrats had too many candidates; the Republicans too few.

Former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey moved onto the Republican convention scene at Rochester and threw his still-powerful influence behind the effort to find a nominee. He squashed any speculation, however, that he might run himself.

At Buffalo, 80 miles away, former Air Force Secretary Thomas K. Finletter apparently held a slim, shaky lead over Dist. Atty. Frank S. Jogan of Manhattan in a field of six declared candidates, with New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner a seventh possibility.

Both parties still had a day to make up their minds. On opening day, the two-day conventions were devoted to speeches and other formalities with the nominations for governor set for tonight.

Gov. Averell Harriman, for the Democrats, and Nelson Rockefeller, for the Republicans, are unopposed for the top spots on the tickets, thus assuring a battle of millionaires.

Burglar Frustrated

LISBON — Police received a report at 10:35 p. m. Saturday that two men were trying to break into the rear of Hanna's Beauty Shop on S. Market St. officers found a broken window, but Mrs. Edith Hanna, proprietor, said nothing was missing. Mrs. Ed Blythe of R. D. 2, Salem, reported to police Saturady that four hubcaps were stolen from her 1953 auto sometime Friday night at the Fair Grounds.

Firemen At Glenmoor Make Carnival Plans

Plans for a carnival were completed at a meeting of the Glenmoor Volunteer Fire Department Association Thursday night in the firehall.

The carnival will open Tuesday and continue through Labor Day. A parade of bands, marching units and fire fighting equipment will be featured Friday at 7:30 p. m.

Auxiliary members who attended the meeting, made plans to serve home - baked foods at the carnival. Persons wishing to donate are to report to the food booth on the carnival grounds or to any member of the department.

Original paintings of any date are duty free if brought into the United States.

Southern Students Hit Segregation

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — A group of southern delegates at the National Student Congress has issued a declaration condemning school segregation.

"Though we are proud of the southern community's way of life," the declaration said, "we do not feel that a system that denies equal opportunity to some southern citizens is either necessary or desirable as a part of that way of life."

The declaration was approved last night, 33-1, by delegates from the Carolinas-Virginia region and unanimously by Mason-Dixon region delegates. The latter region includes Maryland, West Virginia and the District of Columbia.

The student congress is the policy-making body of the National Student Assn. (NSA), which has 360 member colleges broken down into 19 geographical regions.

The colleges represent one million students.

The "declaration by southern student leadership on desegregation" is scheduled to go before three other southern regions for a vote sometime this week, possibly tonight.

The 10-day student congress will be in session through Friday at Ohio Wesleyan University here. About 1,000 delegates are attending.

The declaration approved by two of the five southern regions states that delegates are in complete agreement with an NSA resolution on desegregation. The latter says that segregation and education by race is incompatible with human equality.

"We also realize that segregation in education is now unconstitutional and is at cross-purposes with the American way of life and body of law," the declaration continued.

"We further declare that until this system of enforced inequality of opportunity is finally dissolved, the true qualities of dynamic regional progress, which are the true keynotes of the southern way of life, cannot come to fruition.

"We are personally opposed and will work to defeat all actions, legislative or otherwise, which in effect frustrate and prevent the obligation and right of local communities to progress toward compliance with the decision of the supreme court.

"We do also stand unalterably opposed to any demagoguery or attempts to use the highly emotional issue of desegregation for personal, social, financial or political gain."

The lone dissenter in the Carolinas - Virginia region delegation was not identified.

Here's How Ohio Legislators Cast Votes During Roll Calls

WASHINGTON (AP)—How Ohio members of Congress were recorded on recent roll call votes:

Senate

On Yarborough (D-Tex) amendment, rejected 32-53, to increase social security benefits by 10 per cent instead of by 7 per cent (bill providing for a 7 per cent increase subsequently was passed by unanimous vote): Against amendment - Lausche (D); not voting-Bricker (R).

On confirmation, 56-20, of nomination of W. Wilson White of Philadelphia to be an assistant attorney general in charge of Justice Department's new civil rights division: For - Lausche; not voting-Bricker.

On Hennings (D-Mo.) motion, adopted 49-41, to table modified Jenner (R-Ind.) amendment to curb Supreme Court's review powers (thus killing the amendment): For motion - Lausche; against-Bricker.

On Hennings (D-Mo.) motion, rejected 39-46, to table (or kill) bill designed to safeguard state laws against nullification by federal laws in same field: Against motion - Bricker, Lausche.

On Carroll (D-Colo.) motion, adopted 41-40, to send same bill back to committee (thus shelving it): For motion - Lausche; not voting - Bricker.

House

On motion, rejected by vote of 251 for, 134 against (two - thirds majority required), to pass omnibus housing bill under suspension of rules: For motion - Ashley (D), Ayres (R), Feighan (D), Hays (D), Kirwan (D), Polk (D); against motion - Betts (R), Brown (R), Bolton (R), Bow (R), Clevenger (R), Dennison (R), Henderson (R), Hess (R), McCulloch (R), McGregor (R), Minshall (R), Schenck (R), Scherer (R), Vorys (R); not voting - Baumhart (R), Jenkins (R), Vanik (D).

On motion, rejected by vote of 190 for, 198 against (two - thirds majority required), to pass labor reform bill under suspension of rules: For motion - Ashley, Feighan, Hays, Kirwan, Polk; against motion - Ayres, Betts, Bow, Brown, Bolton, Clevenger, Dennison, Henderson, Hess, McCulloch, McGregor, Minshall, Schenck, Scherer, Vorys; not voting-Baumhart, Jenkins, Vanik.

On bill, rejected 159-182, to provide for a minerals stabilization program; Ayres and Vorys were only Ohioans voting for the bill. All others voted against it except those who were recorded as not voting: Ashley, Baumhart, Clevenger, Henderson, Jenkins, McCulloch, Mc Gregor, Minshall, Scherer, Vanik.

2 Drivers Forfeit In Traffic Cases

A Farrell (Pa.) driver, cited on two traffic charges after he forced two cars off the traffic lane, and a Midland motorist, charged with driving without a license, forfeited bonds totaling $118 when they failed to appear for hearings this morning in Municipal Court.

Jack Johnson, 45 of Farrell was cited for driving without a license and reckless operation Sunday morning about 4:20 on Pennsylvania Ave.

Officers said Johnson, traveling at a high rate of speed on Pennsylvania Ave., passed two autos at the intersection of E. 4th St. and forced the cars toward the curb. He forfeited $31 bond for the license citation and $56 for reckless operation.

Richard Pennington, 18, of 636 Midland Ave., arrested Sunday morning on Dresden Ave. for driving without a license, forfeited $31 bond today.

Lebanon's New Leader Eyes Talk With Nasser

CAIRO (AP)—The Cairo press reported today Lebanon's President-elect Fuad Chehab, wants to begin his administration Sept. 23 with personal talks with President Nasser and Iraqi leader Abdul Karim Kassem.

This report, distributed by Egypt's Middle East News Agency, was unconfirmed officially. But it strengthened indications that rapproachments are planned between the United Arab Republic and Lebanon and Jordan in meetings of the Arab League in September.

Fourth Tropical Storm Kicks Up Off Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The fourth tropical storm of the year—Daisy—churned Atlantic waters 275 miles off the Florida coast today. The Weather Bureau said it likely will not endanger land areas.

The storm had winds up to 55 miles an hour and was tending to move in a northerly direction. A gradual increase in size and intensity is expected.

If it keeps its present course, the storm would hit the North Carolina coast but Miami hurricane forecaster Paul Moore emphasized no such prediction has been made.

"On the contrary," he said, "we do not think there is much likelihood of it hitting any land area. You know, these storms don't travel on a straight line. They meander and follow a circular course."

Townsend Will Leave On Round-World Trip

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Group Capt. Peter Townsend, former suitor of Princess Margaret of Britain, will leave Brussels tonight for another round-the-world trip on which he will make a feature color film.

Jean Dalrymple, coordinator of the performing arts program at the U. S. pavilion at the World Fair, said Townsend returned to Britain Sunday night after a holiday in Belgium.

Alcohol Gave Us Lift, Russian Soldier Says

HOF, Germany (AP)—Morale of Soviet troops who quelled the Hungarian uprising in 1956 was extremely low, a Soviet army veteran told newsmen here.

"Alcohol was the only thing which gave us some comfort," Gerhard Lepa, 25, an ex-private, said.

Lepa, of German extraction, arrived here with his mother and sister last week after the Soviets handed them an exit visa.

Worst Race Riot In Years Sweeps British Districts

LONDON (AP) — Emergency squads of policemen patroled sections of London and Nottingham today in the wake of Britain's worst race violence in years.

With trained police dogs at their sides, police moved to head off the stabbings, slashings of beatings that terrorized two communities over the weekend.

Newspaper headlines mirrored how the savagery between the races staggered the British public.

More than 200 white men and women and West Indians, Africans and Pakistanis battled for 90 minutes Saturday night in Robin Hood's city of Nottingham.

The trouble spread Sunday to London's Notting Hill section. A carload of white youths toured the area, attacking West Indians. Three Negroes were hospitalized. Eight whites were arrested.

In Nottingham, an industrial city of 300,000, eight Englishmen were taken to a hospital, six of them with stab wounds. Dozens of others were cut and beaten.

Eight of the West Indians, Africans and Pakistanis were jailed — "for their own safety," the police said.

"Trouble has been going on for months," said Eileen Byatt, an Englishwoman who narrowly escaped injury, "but we've never had such a night as this one."

She said a Pakistani hit an English woman in the back as she came out of a bar with her husband. Then fighting seemed to break out for a hundred yards up and down a street.

Britain may be in for serious trouble between the races.

Lisbon Driver Unhurt In Rogers Area Crash

A Lisbon motorist escaped injury when his auto was demolished on Route 7 about eight miles south of Rogers Sunday at 5 p. m. One other accident was reported over the weekend by the Lisbon State Highway Patrol.

Wilbert Shook, 31, of Lisbon lost control of his car, went off the right side of the road, smashed into some guardrails and then crashed into a culvert, officers said. He was cited for reckless operation. His 1953 sedan was demolished.

Hayward Steir, 19, of Summitville was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way after a collision with the car of Jennu Criss, 18, of Hanoverton Saturday at 4:15 p. m. on Rt. 644 near Salineville.

Palestine Streets Hit

EAST PALESTINE — Streets and cellars of homes around town were flooded Sunday during a heavy rain fall but no damage was reported. The steady rain fell all day.

Man Forfeits After Mishap

Driver Falls Asleep; Parked Car Struck

A Pennsylvania motorist, who fell asleep at the steering wheel of his car, was cited early today after the auto struck a parked car on Dresden Ave., one of three mishaps reported over the weekend by police.

John Salmon, 22, of McDonald R. D. 1 forfeited a $31 bond in Municipal Court today on a charge of reckless operation. He was arrested at 2:42 a. m. at Dresden Ave. and W. 8th St. when his coupe veered into a parked sedan owned by Wayne C. Banks of East Liverpool.

Salmon, who was headed south, told officers he fell asleep while driving.

A car driven by Kathryn E. Wilson, 22, of 318 W. 3rd St., was damaged Sunday at 11:50 a. m. on the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd." when it skidded on wet pavement and hit a guardrail, officers said.

A parked car of Israel J. Howard, 345 E. 9th St., drifted downhill at 12:31 a. m. today and hit a stone wall at the home of William O'Neill, 330 E. 9th St. Howard told police he parked the 1951 sedan at 10:30 p. m. close to the curb with the brakes on.

Court Delays Draw Attack From Warren

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Chief Justice Earl Warren said today that interminable and unjustifiable court delays are compromising the basic legal rights of thousands of Americans.

These delays, he said, are corroding the very foundations of constitutional government in the United States.

The chief justice, delivering the keynote address at the American Bar Assn.'s 81st annual convention, said that realization of legal remedies is painfully slow for many people.

"And to the extent that this is so, there is created a disrespect for law at a time when everyone should be continually conscious of the fundamental principle that it is primarily the law and its adequate enforcement which makes liberty possible," he said.

"Therefore, I urge that we make the improvement of justice the great central cause of our profession. . . ."

The former California governor said lawyers and judges must relate their responsibilities to the orderly and effective administration of justice in its broadest terms.

Salem Proposes Levy For Storm Sewer Job

Salem City Council today submitted to the Columbiana County Election Board a two mill levy for a storm sewer project to be placed on the Nov. 4 general election ballot, Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk, said.

The five year measure, designed to provide additional funds for current expenses, will require 60 per cent approval for passage, O'Hanlon said.

Newspaperman Dies

CINCINNATI (AP) — Services are planned next Wednesday in Madisonville, Ky., for Clarence Givens, 65, longtime newsman and advertising executive. Givens, former state editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal and more recently a copyreader for the Cincinnati Enquirer, died Saturday at General Hospital after a long illness.

Rain Delays Finals

CINCINNATI (AP) — Officials plan to try next Sunday to finish the championship finals of the ninth annual National Knothole Baseball Tournament. Heavy rains forced postponement Sunday. Teams from Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee and West Virginia took part in the event.

Dayton Ruled Winner

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Unbeaten Dayton was declared winner of the double elimination National American Baseball Federation senior sectional tournament when the championship game with once-beaten Fort Wayne was rained out Sunday.

Marshall Smacks Three Homers In Debut With Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Jim Marshall walked into the Chicago Cubs dressing room Sunday and Manager Bob Scheffing asked:

"Are you ready to play?"

Marshall's answer to the surprise question was "Yes sir."

Then the 26-year-old first baseman, purchased from Baltimore Saturday, went out and proved it. He socked three home runs and a pair of singles to celebrate his greatest day in the major leagues.

Twice he put the Cubs ahead with his lusty hitting only to have the Philadelphia Phils come back with late inning rallies and win both games, 13-8 and 5-3.

"At Baltimore," said Marshall, "I was just a sub. I went in to pinch hit once in a while but seldom had the opportunity to play regularly."

Marshall, a left-handed hitting first baseman, crashed a pair of homers and a single in the first game and then hit a homer and a single in the nightcap.

He came to the Cubs with a .215 average and five homers with 19 runs batted in. He cost the Cubs "a little more than the waiver price."

Alaskans Will Vote Tuesday On Statehood

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—A generation of debate on the merits of statehood for Alaska will be settled Tuesday at the polls.

A "yes" vote — on three separate referendum propositions — would mean creation of the new state probably in late December or early January. Actual admission will come with the issuance of a presidential proclamation after the results are in from a general election in November.

Most forecasts were that statehood would carry by at least a 2-1 majority of the more than 35,000 ballots that are expected to be cast. For the first time in Alaska, 19 and 20 year old residents will be among those voting.

Opposition to the end of territorial status has come largely from residents who fear new and higher taxes to support a state government.

Many federal employes in the territory also have expressed fears that statehood would bring an end to a 25 per cent cost of living allowance they now receive for working in Alaska.

For the first time, Alaskans will be voting for officials seeking elective offices of governor and secretary of state. In addition, candidates will be nominated for two U.S. Senate seats and one seat in the U.S. House.

If statehood carries in the referendum, a general election to name the first state officials will be held Nov. 25.

Worst Race Riot In Years Sweeps British Districts

LONDON (AP) — Emergency squads of policemen patroled sections of London and Nottingham today in the wake of Britain's worst race violence in years.

With trained police dogs at their sides, police moved to head off the stabbings, slashings of beatings that terrorized two communities over the weekend.

Newspaper headlines mirrored how the savagery between the races staggered the British public.

More than 200 white men and women and West Indians, Africans and Pakistanis battled for 90 minutes Saturday night in Robin Hood's city of Nottingham.

The trouble spread Sunday to London's Notting Hill section. A carload of white youths toured the area, attacking West Indians. Three Negroes were hospitalized. Eight whites were arrested.

In Nottingham, an industrial city of 300,000, eight Englishmen were taken to a hospital, six of them with stab wounds. Dozens of others were cut and beaten.

Eight of the West Indians, Africans and Pakistanis were jailed — "for their own safety," the police said.

"Trouble has been going on for months," said Eileen Byatt, an Englishwoman who narrowly escaped injury, "but we've never had such a night as this one."

She said a Pakistani hit an English woman in the back as she came out of a bar with her husband. Then fighting seemed to break out for a hundred yards up and down a street.

Britain may be in for serious trouble between the races.

Lisbon Driver Unhurt In Rogers Area Crash

A Lisbon motorist escaped injury when his auto was demolished on Route 7 about eight miles south of Rogers Sunday at 5 p. m. One other accident was reported over the weekend by the Lisbon State Highway Patrol.

Wilbert Shook, 31, of Lisbon lost control of his car, went off the right side of the road, smashed into some guardrails and then crashed into a culvert, officers said. He was cited for reckless operation. His 1953 sedan was demolished.

Hayward Steir, 19, of Summitville was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way after a collision with the car of Jonnu Criss, 18, of Hanoverton Saturday at 4:15 p. m. on Rt. 644 near Salineville.

Palestine Streets Hit

EAST PALESTINE — Streets and cellars of homes around town were flooded Sunday during a heavy rain fall but no damage was reported. The steady rain fell all day.

Man Forfeits After Mishap

Driver Falls Asleep; Parked Car Struck

A Pennsylvania motorist, who fell asleep at the steering wheel of his car, was cited early today after the auto struck a parked car on Dresden Ave., one of three mishaps reported over the weekend by police.

John Salmon, 22, of McDonald R. D. 1 forfeited a $31 bond in Municipal Court today on a charge of reckless operation. He was arrested at 2:42 a. m. at Dresden Ave. and W. 8th St. when his coupe veered into a parked sedan owned by Wayne C. Banks of East Liverpool.

Salmon, who was headed south, told officers he fell asleep while driving.

A car driven by Kathryn E. Wilson, 22, of 318 W. 3rd St., was damaged Sunday at 11:50 a. m. on the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd." when it skidded on wet pavement and hit a guardrail, officers said.

A parked car of Israel J. Howard, 345 E. 9th St., drifted downhill at 12:31 a. m. today and hit a stone wall at the home of William O'Neill, 330 E. 9th St. Howard told police he parked the 1951 sedan at 10:30 p. m. close to the curb with the brakes on.

Court Delays Draw Attack From Warren

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Chief Justice Earl Warren said today that interminable and unjustifiable court delays are compromising the basic legal rights of thousands of Americans.

These delays, he said, are corroding the very foundations of constitutional government in the United States.

The chief justice, delivering the keynote address at the American Bar Assn.'s 81st annual convention, said that realization of legal remedies is painfully slow for many people.

"And to the extent that this is so, there is created a disrespect for law at a time when everyone should be continually conscious of the fundamental principle that it is primarily the law and its adequate enforcement which makes liberty possible," he said.

"Therefore, I urge that we make the improvement of justice the great central cause of our profession. . . ."

The former California governor said lawyers and judges must relate their responsibilities to the orderly and effective administration of justice in its broadest terms.

Salem Proposes Levy For Storm Sewer Job

Salem City Council today submitted to the Columbiana County Election Board a two mill levy for a storm sewer project to be placed on the Nov. 4 general election ballot, Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk, said.

The five year measure, designed to provide additional funds for current expenses, will require 60 per cent approval for passage, O'Hanlon said.

Newspaperman Dies

CINCINNATI (AP) — Services are planned next Wednesday in Madisonville, Ky., for Clarence Givens, 65, longtime newsman and advertising executive. Givens, former state editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal and more recently a copyreader for the Cincinnati Enquirer, died Saturday at General Hospital after a long illness.

Rain Delays Finals

CINCINNATI (AP) — Officials plan to try next Sunday to finish the championship finals of the ninth annual National Knothole Baseball Tournament. Heavy rains forced postponement Sunday. Teams from Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee and West Virginia took part in the event.

Dayton Ruled Winner

Marshall Smacks Three Homers In Debut With Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Jim Marshall walked into the Chicago Cubs dressing room Sunday and Manager Bob Scheffing asked:

"Are you ready to play?"

Marshall's answer to the surprise question was "Yes sir."

Then the 26-year-old first baseman, purchased from Baltimore Saturday, went out and proved it. He socked three home runs and a pair of singles to celebrate his greatest day in the major leagues.

Twice he put the Cubs ahead with his lusty hitting only to have the Philadelphia Phils come back with late inning rallies and win both games, 13-8 and 5-3.

"At Baltimore," said Marshall, "I was just a sub. I went in to pinch hit once in a while but seldom had the opportunity to play regularly."

Marshall, a left-handed hitting first baseman, crashed a pair of homers and a single in the first game and then hit a homer and a single in the nightcap.

He came to the Cubs with a .215 average and five homers with 19 runs batted in. He cost the Cubs "a little more than the waiver price."

Alaskans Will Vote Tuesday On Statehood

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—A generation of debate on the merits of statehood for Alaska will be settled Tuesday at the polls.

A "yes" vote — on three separate referendum propositions — would mean creation of the new state probably in late December or early January. Actual admission will come with the issuance of a presidential proclamation after the results are in from a general election in November.

Most forecasts were that statehood would carry by at least a 2-1 majority of the more than 35,000 ballots that are expected to be cast. For the first time in Alaska, 19 and 20 year old residents will be among those voting.

Opposition to the end of territorial status has come largely from residents who fear new and higher taxes to support a state government.

Many federal employes in the territory also have expressed fears that statehood would bring an end to a 25 per cent cost of living allowance they now receive for working in Alaska.

For the first time, Alaskans will be voting for officials seeking elective offices of governor and secretary of state. In addition, candidates will be nominated for two U.S. Senate seats and one seat in the U.S. House.

If statehood carries in the referendum, a general election to name the first state officials will be held Nov. 25.

Because of Mrs. Swift's ill health, she is moving to be with her daughter, so price is only $12,000. Sell your too small home and raise your family in this home, which is near the schools, and is in perfect condition and has a nearly new furnace. Lot is very large. Price is only $12,000.

Four rooms, well, electricity, garage, 3 acres and only a 5 minute walk to bus line at 25th St. Wellsville. Price only $2500; Terms $500 cash and $20 a month. Renting for $25 which will pay for home, taxes and insurance and the total cost to you is only $500. Why pay rent.

On 18th Street near school—corner 18th and Danbury. Now arranged as a duplex with 2 down and 2 up, each with bath. Furnace, garage. Appraised by three bankers at $7,500 which is the sales price. Renting for $100 a month, which pays for everything.

Candidates Hit At Incumbents In Party Rally

Heavy rain Sunday forced postponement of a Democratic picnic scheduled at Valley Park, but the downpour did not dampen the oratory of three party candidates, who attacked the Republican incumbents in addresses as the party's headquarters in East Palestine.

Kenneth Bell of Wellsville, Democratic candidate for county auditor, hit at the incumbent, I. J. Vorndran, for failure to publish an annual county financial statement in the newspapers. Bell asserted "it has been years" since a financial report has been published. He declared he will publish the statements if he is elected "so that the citizens will know how much money is in the county funds for the projects to urgently needed."

He also hit at Vorndran for the expenditure of $180,000 for a current reappraisal of county real estate. He declared the auditor "should handle his own reappraisals and not hire an outside firm." Bell said he will handle the program personally if he is elected and "will save the county about $100,000."

R. Max Gard of near Lisbon and Frank C. Wilson of Wellsville, candidates for county commissioner, hit at the incumbent commissioners for what they termed a "shameful lag" in setting up a program for distribution of surplus food.

"All the present incumbents have done so far is talk about it and yet not one pound has been received and handed out to the needy," Gard said.

They originally were to have spoken at a picnic of the East Liverpool Democratic Club. Rain forced postponement of the outing until next Sunday. The committee is selecting a site.

Smouse Receives Master's Degree

Francis J. Smouse of Ravenna, former East Liverpool High School football player and coach, received a master's degree in physical education Saturday at Kent State University.

Smouse is a son of Mrs. Reba Davis of St. George St. and husband of the former Miss Patricia Greene, daughter of Mrs. John W. Greene, 331 Blakeley St.

Graduated from East Liverpool High School in 1942, he captained the grid team here for two years under former Coach Joe Morbito.

Smouse was line coach here under Coach Bob Gibson, then went to Ravenna High School as head coach for two years. From Ravenna, he went to Kent State, where he is line coach and physical education instructor. He received his bachelor's degree in 1949 at Youngstown College.

Mrs. Smouse and her three children, Jeff, Margaret Lynne and Barbara Ann, are visiting Mrs. Greene.

Eastern Star Groups Plan Minstrel Show

Several area members will participate in a minstrel show to be given Sept. 6 at 8 p. m. in Salem High School auditorium by District 13 of the Order of Eastern Star.

The performance will feature a full chorus chosen from the 22 chapters of the district, as well as solo and specialty numbers by assisting talent.

The production will be directed by Mrs. LaVern Hahlen and Robert Crouse of Minerva will be accompanist. Tickets are available from Mrs. Homer Hoffman, FU 5-5203.

Painting Bids Asked

LISBON — The State Highway Department at Columbus will open bids Tuesday, Sept. 16, for painting of three bridges in Columbiana County. They are: A span on Route 154 in Middleton Township over the North Fork of Little Beaver Creek; a bridge on Route 45 in Madison Township, over the North Fork of the same creek, and a span on Route 30 in Madison Township over the West Fork of the Little Beaver.

Hand Injury In Spotlight At Crowley Trial

TOKYO (AP)—A Japanese surgeon testified today that an injury on the left hand of Joseph P. Crowley, charged with the fatal beating of Connecticut businessman T. A. D. Jones Jr., was caused by the "rather strong action of a blunt object."

Dr. Eisuke Hamaguchi said at Crowley's manslaughter trial that he examined Crowley's hand June 6 at the Metropolitan Police Board. He said he found on the back of the left hand a slight reddening, swelling and fever He said it was not a case of sprained fingers.

Jones died of a cerebral hermorrhage on the afternoon of May 8 at the hotel suite he and Crowley shared. The prosecution charges he got his fatal injuries in a fight with Crowley following an all-night drinking spree.

Crowley has pleaded innocent to the charge and claims he hurt his hand earlier in a fall in the bathtub.

Dr. Hamaguchi said he estimated the hand injury occurred one to two months previous to his examination. He said it seemed most likely it occurred one month before - which would correspond to the time of Jones' death. Under cross - examination, however, he said he could not say for certain whether it occurred a month or a month and a half before.

The doctor said he based his time estimate on the amount of swelling, fever and reddening on the back of the hand.

City Mechanic Injured When Oil Truck Drifts

A city truck mechanic escaped serious injury Sunday when a large oil truck on which he was working moved forward and crossed his arm.

Ralph Lee, 48, of 1829 Smithfield St. was treated at City Hospital at 6:30 p. m. yesterday for bruises of the left arm suffered when the wheels of the truck rolled against him.

Lee, a mechanic for the DeBolt Co., was working on the rig at the firm's parking area along Routes 30 and 7 when another employe accidentally turned the ignition key and the vehicle started to move. The rig was halted before it could cross over Lee's body.

Candidates Hit At Incumbents In Party Rally

Heavy rain Sunday forced postponement of a Democratic picnic scheduled at Valley Park, but the downpour did not dampen the oratory of three party candidates, who attacked the Republican incumbents in addresses as the party's headquarters in East Palestine.

Kenneth Bell of Wellsville, Democratic candidate for county auditor, hit at the incumbent, I. J. Vorndran, for failure to publish an annual county financial statement in the newspapers. Bell asserted "it has been years" since a financial report has been published. He declared he will publish the statements if he is elected "so that the citizens will know how much money is in the county funds for the projects to urgently needed."

He also hit at Vorndran for the expenditure of $180,000 for a current reappraisal of county real estate. He declared the auditor "should handle his own reappraisals and not hire an outside firm." Bell said he will handle the program personally if he is elected and "will save the county about $100,000."

R. Max Gard of near Lisbon and Frank C. Wilson of Wellsville, candidates for county commissioner, hit at the incumbent commissioners for what they termed a "shameful lag" in setting up a program for distribution of surplus food.

"All the present incumbents have done so far is talk about it and yet not one pound has been received and handed out to the needy," Gard said.

They originally were to have spoken at a picnic of the East Liverpool Democratic Club. Rain forced postponement of the outing until next Sunday. The committee is selecting a site.

Smouse Receives Master's Degree

Francis J. Smouse of Ravenna, former East Liverpool High School football player and coach, received a master's degree in physical education Saturday at Kent State University.

Smouse is a son of Mrs. Reba Davis of St. George St. and husband of the former Miss Patricia Greene, daughter of Mrs. John W. Greene, 331 Blakeley St.

Graduated from East Liverpool High School in 1942, he captained the grid team here for two years under former Coach Joe Morbito.

Smouse was line coach here under Coach Bob Gibson, then went to Ravenna High School as head coach for two years. From Ravenna, he went to Kent State, where he is line coach and physical education instructor. He received his bachelor's degree in 1949 at Youngstown College.

Mrs. Smouse and her three children, Jeff, Margaret Lynne and Barbara Ann, are visiting Mrs. Greene.

Eastern Star Groups Plan Minstrel Show

Several area members will participate in a minstrel show to be given Sept. 6 at 8 p. m. in Salem High School auditorium by District 13 of the Order of Eastern Star.

The performance will feature a full chorus chosen from the 22 chapters of the district, as well as solo and specialty numbers by assisting talent.

The production will be directed by Mrs. LaVern Hahlen and Robert Crouse of Minerva will be accompanist. Tickets are available from Mrs. Homer Hoffman, FU 5-5203.

Painting Bids Asked

LISBON — The State Highway Department at Columbus will open bids Tuesday, Sept. 16, for painting of three bridges in Columbiana County. They are: A span on Route 154 in Middleton Township over the North Fork of Little Beaver Creek; a bridge on Route 45 in Madison Township, over the North Fork of the same creek, and a span on Route 30 in Madison Township over the West Fork of the Little Beaver.

Hand Injury In Spotlight At Crowley Trial

TOKYO (AP)—A Japanese surgeon testified today that an injury on the left hand of Joseph P. Crowley, charged with the fatal beating of Connecticut businessman T. A. D. Jones Jr., was caused by the "rather strong action of a blunt object."

Dr. Eisuke Hamaguchi said at Crowley's manslaughter trial that he examined Crowley's hand June 6 at the Metropolitan Police Board. He said he found on the back of the left hand a slight reddening, swelling and fever He said it was not a case of sprained fingers.

Jones died of a cerebral hermorrhage on the afternoon of May 8 at the hotel suite he and Crowley shared. The prosecution charges he got his fatal injuries in a fight with Crowley following an all-night drinking spree.

Crowley has pleaded innocent to the charge and claims he hurt his hand earlier in a fall in the bathtub.

Dr. Hamaguchi said he estimated the hand injury occurred one to two months previous to his examination. He said it seemed most likely it occurred one month before - which would correspond to the time of Jones' death. Under cross - examination, however, he said he could not say for certain whether it occurred a month or a month and a half before.

The doctor said he based his time estimate on the amount of swelling, fever and reddening on the back of the hand.

City Mechanic Injured When Oil Truck Drifts

A city truck mechanic escaped serious injury Sunday when a large oil truck on which he was working moved forward and crossed his arm.

Ralph Lee, 48, of 1829 Smithfield St. was treated at City Hospital at 6:30 p. m. yesterday for bruises of the left arm suffered when the wheels of the truck rolled against him.

Lee, a mechanic for the DeBolt Co., was working on the rig at the firm's parking area along Routes 30 and 7 when another employe accidentally turned the ignition key and the vehicle started to move. The rig was halted before it could cross over Lee's body.

Candidates Hit At Incumbents In Party Rally

Heavy rain Sunday forced postponement of a Democratic picnic scheduled at Valley Park, but the downpour did not dampen the oratory of three party candidates, who attacked the Republican incumbents in addresses as the party's headquarters in East Palestine.

Kenneth Bell of Wellsville, Democratic candidate for county auditor, hit at the incumbent, I. J. Vorndran, for failure to publish an annual county financial statement in the newspapers. Bell asserted "it has been years" since a financial report has been published. He declared he will publish the statements if he is elected "so that the citizens will know how much money is in the county funds for the projects to urgently needed."

He also hit at Vorndran for the expenditure of $180,000 for a current reappraisal of county real estate. He declared the auditor "should handle his own reappraisals and not hire an outside firm." Bell said he will handle the program personally if he is elected and "will save the county about $100,000."

R. Max Gard of near Lisbon and Frank C. Wilson of Wellsville, candidates for county commissioner, hit at the incumbent commissioners for what they termed a "shameful lag" in setting up a program for distribution of surplus food.

"All the present incumbents have done so far is talk about it and yet not one pound has been received and handed out to the needy," Gard said.

They originally were to have spoken at a picnic of the East Liverpool Democratic Club. Rain forced postponement of the outing until next Sunday. The committee is selecting a site.

Smouse Receives Master's Degree

Francis J. Smouse of Ravenna, former East Liverpool High School football player and coach, received a master's degree in physical education Saturday at Kent State University.

Smouse is a son of Mrs. Reba Davis of St. George St. and husband of the former Miss Patricia Greene, daughter of Mrs. John W. Greene, 331 Blakeley St.

Graduated from East Liverpool High School in 1942, he captained the grid team here for two years under former Coach Joe Morbito.

Smouse was line coach here under Coach Bob Gibson, then went to Ravenna High School as head coach for two years. From Ravenna, he went to Kent State, where he is line coach and physical education instructor. He received his bachelor's degree in 1949 at Youngstown College.

Mrs. Smouse and her three children, Jeff, Margaret Lynne and Barbara Ann, are visiting Mrs. Greene.

Eastern Star Groups Plan Minstrel Show

Several area members will participate in a minstrel show to be given Sept. 6 at 8 p. m. in Salem High School auditorium by District 13 of the Order of Eastern Star.

The performance will feature a full chorus chosen from the 22 chapters of the district, as well as solo and specialty numbers by assisting talent.

The production will be directed by Mrs. LaVern Hahlen and Robert Crouse of Minerva will be accompanist. Tickets are available from Mrs. Homer Hoffman, FU 5-5203.

Painting Bids Asked

LISBON — The State Highway Department at Columbus will open bids Tuesday, Sept. 16, for painting of three bridges in Columbiana County. They are: A span on Route 154 in Middleton Township over the North Fork of Little Beaver Creek; a bridge on Route 45 in Madison Township, over the North Fork of the same creek, and a span on Route 30 in Madison Township over the West Fork of the Little Beaver.

Hand Injury In Spotlight At Crowley Trial

TOKYO (AP)—A Japanese surgeon testified today that an injury on the left hand of Joseph P. Crowley, charged with the fatal beating of Connecticut businessman T. A. D. Jones Jr., was caused by the "rather strong action of a blunt object."

Dr. Eisuke Hamaguchi said at Crowley's manslaughter trial that he examined Crowley's hand June 6 at the Metropolitan Police Board. He said he found on the back of the left hand a slight reddening, swelling and fever He said it was not a case of sprained fingers.

Jones died of a cerebral hermorrhage on the afternoon of May 8 at the hotel suite he and Crowley shared. The prosecution charges he got his fatal injuries in a fight with Crowley following an all-night drinking spree.

Crowley has pleaded innocent to the charge and claims he hurt his hand earlier in a fall in the bathtub.

Dr. Hamaguchi said he estimated the hand injury occurred one to two months previous to his examination. He said it seemed most likely it occurred one month before - which would correspond to the time of Jones' death. Under cross - examination, however, he said he could not say for certain whether it occurred a month or a month and a half before.

The doctor said he based his time estimate on the amount of swelling, fever and reddening on the back of the hand.

City Mechanic Injured When Oil Truck Drifts

A city truck mechanic escaped serious injury Sunday when a large oil truck on which he was working moved forward and crossed his arm.

Ralph Lee, 48, of 1829 Smithfield St. was treated at City Hospital at 6:30 p. m. yesterday for bruises of the left arm suffered when the wheels of the truck rolled against him.

Lee, a mechanic for the DeBolt Co., was working on the rig at the firm's parking area along Routes 30 and 7 when another employe accidentally turned the ignition key and the vehicle started to move. The rig was halted before it could cross over Lee's body.

Education Conference Near Carrollton Closes

Three delegates from the East Liverpool Teachers Association returned Saturday afternoon from a leadership conference of the Ohio Education Association held last week at Camp Muskingum, near Carrollton.

They are Austen Moore, president of the local association, Miss Dorothy Sloan and Miss Dolores Hughes.

An address on "Six Ways for a Better Teachers Association" was given by Dr. Andrew D. Holt, vice president of the University of Tennessee. Another principal speaker was Dr. Ivan Booker, chairman of the membership division of the NEA. Over 250 teachers attended.

Former City Girl's Essay Places Third

Miss Judith Richardson, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester H. Richardson of Staunton, Va., formerly of East Liverpool, won third prize in the 23rd annual national high school essay contest sponsored by the auxiliary of Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Winners were selected from finalists in the 48 states and territories last week in New York at the 45th annual convention. There were 33,000 entries.

Miss Richardson will receive a prize of $250.

Will Student Marriage Work Out?

By KATHERINE A. TOWLE
President, Women Deans, Councilors

A new phenomenon, at least in numbers, confronting co-educational institutions especially, is the increasing percentage of undergraduate married students.

Often both husband and wife are students. Pregnancy may cause the wife's temporary withdrawal from academic pursuits. If money runs short and financial difficulties persist, it is the wife who withdraws to take a job in order that her husband may complete his academic objective.

The awarding of the degree P. H.T. (Putting Hubby Through) to loyal and hard - working wives is one of the annual ceremonies of the Dames Club on my campus, composed of wives of students, when their husbands finally achieve their goals and presumably are then ready to assume the role of breadwinner.

DISCUSSION IS rampant on the pros and cons of these so called "early marriages." Are they sound? Do young people get the most out of life, especially college life, when they assume marital responsibilities so early? Does marriage interfere with academic progress?

Do these marriages work out happily and successfully in the long run? Should, or can, anything be done to discourage them?

The queries are endless. The answers are equally varied and debatable. I submit that there is no clear - cut answer to any of the questions raised.

Is it reasonable to assume, for instance, that one known failure of an early marriage is indicative of a general pattern; or that because one partner of a college marriage makes a poor academic record this is true of others?

Actually, the security of marriage often reacts favorably on scholastic achievement, but here again we must not jump to conclusions. There are too many imponderables in this whole question about which too many of us know too little.

I am not sure that even marriage counselors know the answers; I am certain that deans of women do not. Until adequate research has been done in this whole area, none of us can do more than guess.

The one certainty is that early marriages are part and parcel of young America today; they are here to stay.

ON MY OWN campus — a large coeducational one — a recent survey revealed that approximately 15 per cent of our undergraduates are married and that within this group, 48 per cent had one child or more.

The percentage of those married where both husband and wife attend college is approximately 17 per cent. A few years ago we would have found it hard to believe that this social phenomenon could happen.

Possibly the best way to approach these early marriages is with faith: a basic faith in young people, married or unmarried, to go their own ways and work out their own problems with that spirit of independence and adventure so characteristic of young America.

Those of us who have been around a lot longer can stand by, ready to give help and encouragement, providing the kind of wise counseling, understanding, and leadership that helps solve many a student problem.

One of my young assistants, who is herself married to a student, has given, possibly, the only sensible answer to the pros and cons of early marriages: "It all depends on the people."

GETTING READY. When this little girl goes to school for the first time she'll be on familiar ground—thanks to trips like this one when she only was on the outside looking in.

Religion Assumes A Greater Role

By The Associated Press

Religion is assuming a larger place today in the American educational process.

When schools open this fall, millions of pupils will not only resume study of geography and math — but also of faith in God.

"There's been a growing trend to provide such courses by some means," said Mrs. Alice Goddard, an authority in the field.

"It has resulted from the strong feeling in the churches that religion is as much a part of knowledge as history or science."

At the grade school level, as well as in institutions of higher learning, the subject has become an increasing part of regular study.

Altogether, about nine million youths — almost a fourth of the school population — are expected to have such classes on their schedule when the new term opens.

The method and means of instruction takes various forms — depending on the circumstances.

BUT THE big modern development in this country for restoring religion to the educational realm — where it was firmly established until the mid-1800s—has been through weekday "released time" classes.

"It's the answer to a need that a vast majority of people have felt for a long time," said Mrs. Goddard, director of weekday religion education for the National Council of Churches.

"Public schools can't teach religion as such, but the weekday program can fill that niche. It's a way, at last, by which religion can be given the place it should have in any whole, rounded education."

An estimated 3,500 community school systems, with about 3½ million pupils, have launched such programs, and the number has been rising steadily.

Three years ago, the total was about a third what it is now.

Under the formula, local Protestant, Jewish and Roman Catholic organizations each provide teachers for separate classes, which are held in facilities off school premises.

Usually one hour a week is aloted from school time, during which children of all parents who authorize it are excused to go to their respective religion classes.

"This allows for diversity and respect for all," Mrs. Goddard said. "It is essential to safeguard these relationships."

DEVELOPMENT of the procedure has not been without friction, in and out of the courts, the opposition based on claims that the system encroaches on the traditional separation of church and state.

However, the U. S. Supreme Court has upheld the formula as legal, so long as school faciliites are not used for the religion classes. This decision came in 1952, after lengthy litigation and readjustments.

Much of the program's growth has come since then, with its greatest expansion in the New England states, New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia and Virginia.

It also is spreading through many other states, including the plains region and far West. But it has found little usage so far in the deep South.

The program, however, is only one part of the increasing attention to religion in academic circles. Hundreds of colleges and universities have added religion courses in the last decade.

"Colleges are taking more seriously the matter of the religious life of students and the religious program of the college," said Dr. S. Gould Wickery, of Washington, D. C., head of the United Lutheran Church's board of higher education.

In addition, parochial schools at the elementary and secondary school level have been growing rapidly, both among Roman Catholics and some Protestants.

Catholics now have 12,157 schools with an enrollment of about 4½ million. Protestant parochial schools, rising in number, now total an estimated 2,500, with perhaps a half million pupils.

There are about 250 Hebrew day schools, with more than 40,000 pupils, three times as many as 10 years ago.

Friction and debate over the proper setting for religious education, and proper government policy toward it, are likely to continue.

But few citizens — whatever their faith — deny religion's relevance to a realistic interpretation of civilization, past and present.

Says the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, administrator of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., and an ardent defender of the public school system:

"There are only three dynamics powerful enough to be in the 20th Century the controlling center of American education: God, American fascism or international communism."

Says the Most Rev. Edwin Vincent O'Hara, Catholic bishop of Kansas City: "Education that doesn't introduce children to God as their creator, their judge and their redeemer is no education."

Should You Start Boys And Girls At The Same Time?

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Should boys and girls start to school at the same age?

Definitely not, says Dr. Frank R. Pauly, veteran Tulsa educator who has explored the question in years of research into the progress of the sexes in grades up to high school.

If Jack is to keep up with Jill in the classroom, Pauly maintains, he should be from five to six months older.

Pauly's studies show boys are outmatched by girls of the same age in learning capacity from the start of their schooling through the eighth grade. After that, he says the girls' supremacy declines and boys finally catch up at college level.

Pauly says his findings call for a more realistic approach to the matter of entrance ages for the nation's schools.

"The fact that ages 5 and 6 are traditional for entrance to kindergarten and the first grades does not make it correct," Pauly declares.

He contends the starting age for boys should be raised, or perhaps that for girls lowered.

"If the entering age for boys were raised six months throughout the country," he says, "it would almost certainly give the boys a better break with respect to school failures during all later years and particularly lessen 'drop outs' in high school."

Sounds are heard much easier in damp air than in dry air.

Good Grooming Standards Seen Easy To Establish

It's easy to maintain good grooming standards if a routine of cleanliness is developed. Here are some ideas:

Never let a button lie. Make sure it is put back on your jacket, trousers or shirt. You may become used to its absence, but other people will mark you as careless.

Be sure you wear fresh underwear, clean socks, a pressed handkerchief. There's no worse sight than a young adult with dirty linen showing, and that goes for slip straps, slips that hang below the hemline and shirt and blouse collars.

Young men and women should be aware of the importance of shined shoes. No girl wants to date a boy who wears scuffed shoes or dirty white oxfords, no matter what the fashion in studied carelessness may be. Worn down heels also may spoil a good impression.

There is an excuse for people who are color blind to adopt willy-nilly dress schemes. But others should take the trouble to get the feel of colors and patterns that go together.

To look presentable at all times you must take good care of your clothes. Learn to hang up your clothes when you come home from school. Put on your after - school duds, and store you school clothes neatly for the next day.

Brush your clothes regularly, removing stains as soon as they occur and cut down on cleaning costs and laundry chores.

Check your fingernails, skin and hair. Cleanliness is absolutely essential when it comes to these obvious first - impression points that stand out like beacon lights.

Clean teeth and good breath are other requirements of chick students.

Grasshopper Show

FORT MORGAN, Colo. (AP) — The grasshoppers got so bad in Colorado a local theater decided to have a grasshopper matinee. The theater admitted every youngster bringing a pint jar of grasshoppers free for a whole week.

Mother Wren Builds Herself Mobile Nest

CADIZ, Ky. (AP) — A mother wren perches on a fence here and chirps loudly as her nest goes by every day.

The wren built the nest under the dashboard of Sam Dawson's car. And everday Dawson drives his car to work.

The wren is always waiting when the car returns. The nest has two baby wrens in it.

Stick To Ice Cream

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Beer and ice cream don't mix. That's the word from Director of Public Safety Meredith B. Kerstetter. Kerstetter told beach ice cream venders that they must maintain proper decorum if they wish to see their products. Consequently, he added, the custom of carrying beer with dry ice packs for the peddler's personal use, must cease.

The Tidy Type

HOLLIS, Okla. (AP) — Miss Etta Ginn, a cafe operator, said a patron walked into her establishment, asked for an old newspaper, proceeded to carve up a cantaloupe he carried and after eating it wrapped the remains in the paper and dumped them in a cafe waste basket.

Only three presidents of the United States have come from west of the Mississippi River — Herbert Hoover, Harry Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Will Student Marriage Work Out?

By KATHERINE A. TOWLE
President, Women Deans, Councilors

A new phenomenon, at least in numbers, confronting co-educational institutions especially, is the increasing percentage of undergraduate married students.

Often both husband and wife are students. Pregnancy may cause the wife's temporary withdrawal from academic pursuits. If money runs short and financial difficulties persist, it is the wife who withdraws to take a job in order that her husband may complete his academic objective.

The awarding of the degree P. H.T. (Putting Hubby Through) to loyal and hard - working wives is one of the annual ceremonies of the Dames Club on my campus, composed of wives of students, when their husbands finally achieve their goals and presumably are then ready to assume the role of breadwinner.

DISCUSSION IS rampant on the pros and cons of these so called "early marriages." Are they sound? Do young people get the most out of life, especially college life, when they assume marital responsibilities so early? Does marriage interfere with academic progress?

Do these marriages work out happily and successfully in the long run? Should, or can, anything be done to discourage them?

The queries are endless. The answers are equally varied and debatable. I submit that there is no clear - cut answer to any of the questions raised.

Is it reasonable to assume, for instance, that one known failure of an early marriage is indicative of a general pattern; or that because one partner of a college marriage makes a poor academic record this is true of others?

Actually, the security of marriage often reacts favorably on scholastic achievement, but here again we must not jump to conclusions. There are too many imponderables in this whole question about which too many of us know too little.

I am not sure that even marriage counselors know the answers; I am certain that deans of women do not. Until adequate research has been done in this whole area, none of us can do more than guess.

The one certainty is that early marriages are part and parcel of young America today; they are here to stay.

ON MY OWN campus — a large coeducational one — a recent survey revealed that approximately 15 per cent of our undergraduates are married and that witnin this group, 48 per cent had one child or more.

The percentage of those married where both husband and wife attend college is approximately 17 per cent. A few years ago we would have found it hard to believe that this social phenomenon could happen.

Possibly the best way to approach these early marriages is with faith: a basic faith in young people, married or unmarried, to go their own ways and work out their own problems with that spirit of independence and adventure so characteristic of young America.

Those of us who have been around a lot longer can stand by, ready to give help and encouragement, providing the kind of wise counseling, understanding, and leadership that helps solve many a student problem.

One of my young assistants, who is herself married to a student, has given, possibly, the only sensible answer to the pros and cons of early marriages: "It all depends on the people."

Religion Assumes A Greater Role

By The Associated Press

Religion is assuming a larger place today in the American educational process.

When schools open this fall, millions of pupils will not only resume study of geography and math — but also of faith in God.

"There's been a growing trend to provide such courses by some means," said Mrs. Alice Goddard, an authority in the field.

"It has resulted from the strong feeling in the churches that religion is as much a part of knowledge as history or science."

At the grade school level, as well as in institutions of higher learning, the subject has become an increasing part of regular study.

Altogether, about nine million youths — almost a fourth of the school population — are expected to have such classes on their schedule when the new term opens.

The method and means of instruction takes various forms — depending on the circumstances.

BUT THE big modern development in this country for restoring religion to the educational realm — where it was firmly established until the mid-1800s—has been through weekday "released time" classes.

"It's the answer to a need that a vast majority of people have felt for a long time," said Mrs. Goddard, director of weekday religion education for the National Council of Churches.

"Public schools can't teach religion as such, but the weekday program can fill that niche. It's a way, at last, by which religion can be given the place it should have in any whole, rounded education."

An estimated 3,500 community school systems, with about 3½ million pupils, have launched such programs, and the number has been rising steadily.

Three years ago, the total was about a third what it is now.

Under the formula, local Protestant, Jewish and Roman Catholic organizations each provide teachers for separate classes, which are held in facilities off school premises.

Usually one hour a week is aloted from school time, during which children of all parents who authorize it are excused to go to their respective religion classes.

"This allows for diversity and respect for all," Mrs. Goddard said. "It is essential to safeguard these relationships."

DEVELOPMENT of the procedure has not been without friction, in and out of the courts, the opposition based on claims that the system encroaches on the traditional separation of church and state.

However, the U. S. Supreme Court has upheld the formula as legal, so long as school faciliites are not used for the religion classes. This decision came in 1952, after lengthy litigation and readjustments.

Much of the program's growth has come since then, with its greatest expansion in the New England states, New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia and Virginia.

It also is spreading through many other states, including the plains region and far West. But it has found little usage so far in the deep South.

The program, however, is only one part of the increasing attention to religion in academic circles. Hundreds of colleges and universities have added religion courses in the last decade.

"Colleges are taking more seriously the matter of the religious life of students and the religious program of the college," said Dr. S. Gould Wickery, of Washington, D. C., head of the United Lutheran Church's board of higher education.

In addition, parochial schools at the elementary and secondary school level have been growing rapidly, both among Roman Catholics and some Protestants.

Catholics now have 12,157 schools with an enrollment of about 4½ million. Protestant parochial schools, rising in number, now total an estimated 2,500, with perhaps a half million pupils.

There are about 250 Hebrew day schools, with more than 40,000 pupils, three times as many as 10 years ago.

Friction and debate over the proper setting for religious education, and proper government policy toward it, are likely to continue.

But few citizens — whatever their faith — deny religion's relevance to a realistic interpretation of civilization, past and present.

Says the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, administrator of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., and an ardent defender of the public school system:

"There are only three dynamics powerful enough to be in the 20th Century the controlling center of American education: God, American fascism or international communism."

Says the Most Rev. Edwin Vincent O'Hara, Catholic bishop of Kansas City: "Education that doesn't introduce children to God as their creator, their judge and their redeemer is no education."

GETTING READY. When this little girl goes to school for the first time she'll be on familiar ground—thanks to trips like this one when she only was on the outside looking in.

Should You Start Boys And Girls At The Same Time?

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Should boys and girls start to school at the same age?

Definitely not, says Dr. Frank R. Pauly, veteran Tulsa educator who has explored the question in years of research into the progress of the sexes in grades up to high school.

If Jack is to keep up with Jill in the classroom, Pauly maintains, he should be from five to six months older.

Pauly's studies show boys are outmatched by girls of the same age in learning capacity from the start of their schooling through the eighth grade. After that, he says the girls' supremacy declines and boys finally catch up at college level.

Pauly says his findings call for a more realistic approach to the matter of entrance ages for the nation's schools.

"The fact that ages 5 and 6 are traditional for entrance to kindergarten and the first grades does not make it correct," Pauly declares.

He contends the starting age for boys should be raised, or perhaps that for girls lowered.

"If the entering age for boys were raised six months throughout the country," he says, "it would almost certainly give the boys a better break with respect to school failures during all later years and particularly lessen 'drop outs' in high school."

Sounds are heard much easier in damp air than in dry air.

Good Grooming Standards Seen Easy To Establish

It's easy to maintain good grooming standards if a routine of cleanliness is developed. Here are some ideas:

Never let a button lie. Make sure it is put back on your jacket, trousers or shirt. You may become used to its absence, but other people will mark you as careless.

Be sure you wear fresh underwear, clean socks, a pressed handkerchief. There's no worse sight than a young adult with dirty linen showing, and that goes for slip straps, slips that hang below the hemline and shirt and blouse collars.

Young men and women should be aware of the importance of shined shoes. No girl wants to date a boy who wears scuffed shoes or dirty white oxfords, no matter what the fashion in studied carelessness may be. Worn down heels also may spoil a good impression.

There is an excuse for people who are color blind to adopt willy-nilly dress schemes. But others should take the trouble to get the feel of colors and patterns that go together.

To look presentable at all times you must take good care of your clothes. Learn to hang up your clothes when you come home from school. Put on your after - school duds, and store you school clothes neatly for the next day.

Brush your clothes regularly, removing stains as soon as they occur and cut down on cleaning costs and laundry chores.

Check your fingernails, skin and hair. Cleanliness is absolutely essential when it comes to these obvious first - impression points that stand out like beacon lights.

Clean teeth and good breath are other requirements of chick students.

The wren built the nest under the dashboard of Sam Dawson's car. And everday Dawson drives his car to work.

The wren is always waiting when the car returns. The nest has two baby wrens in it.

Stick To Ice Cream

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Beer and ice cream don't mix. That's the word from Director of Public Safety Meredith B. Kerstetter. Kerstetter told beach ice cream venders that they must maintain proper decorum if they wish to see their products. Consequently, he added, the custom of carrying beer with dry ice packs for the peddler's personal use, must cease.

They Get The Breaks This Year

School Girls Are Natural For Slim Chemise Styles

By DOROTHY ROE

Children get the breaks in this year's styles.

The chemise, the trapeze, the middy, the pleated skirt, the low belt, the high belt — all these are made to order for little girls. Mama may have trouble fitting her mature shape into these flapper silhouettes, but for daughter it's a breeze.

The back - to - school fashion picture is straight from the Paris haute couture, and on the youngsters it looks good.

The free, unfitted lines of the new fashions are what schoolgirls always have liked best anyway, since the days when the national school uniform was a middy and pleated skirt. Now that they're back in vogue on the adult front, they'll be around a long time in the blackboard set.

MANY NEW school dresses and coats are cut on the popular trapeze line, flaring down and out from the shoulders, swinging loose and free. Equally popular is the low - belted middy look, with pleated skirt.

Party dresses are likely to be cut on Empire lines, with high belt and skirt just gently full. The straight chemise shirt dress — just an elongated shirt, really — is a pet of the subteen crowd. And the silhouette bloused at the hipbones is another natural for childish figures.

As there is news in back-to-school silhouettes, so there is news in fabrics and finishes. Many school clothes this year are in automatic wash - and - wear fabrics, that can be tossed in the washing machine and worn without ironing.

Others are in the more familiar drip - dry materials, which must be removed from the washing machine while still wet and hung on hangers to dry, but still require little or no ironing. The accent is on easy - care fabrics of one kind or another, and many are the new synthetic blends which look like wool, cotton or silk, but are as easy to wash as a pair of nylons.

A blend of half - and - half orlon and rayon is new this fall, shown in many varieties of school dresses which are easily washable, keep their pleats and require little or no ironing. Blends of orlon and dacron are widely available, often in bold plaids, in girls' dresses, skirts, overblouses and jumpers. Drip-dry blouses often are a blend of dacron and cotton. And blends of orlon and wool are all over the place in coats, suits, dresses and shorts.

LITTLE GIRL'S party dresses go in for nylon in dress - up sheers which can be pleated and lace-trimmed within an inch of their lives, and still dunked in the washbowl after wearing, emerging with every frill in place.

Skirts are much shorter for little girls as well as big ones this fall. The new styles, whether for adults or children, don't look right unless they reveal a length of leg. Dresses for the pigtail set this fall often are worn several inches above the knee, over bright-colored leotards which give the legs a long, smooth, one - color look.

Leotards also will be popular with the college uniform of Bermuda shorts this fall, replacing the bulky knee - length socks in many instances. They make the legs look longer and slimmer — and they always stay up.

Color runs rampant through the new school clothes, with bold plaids of every variety the top favorite. Many outfits are carefully coordinated combinations of plaid and plain fabric. There's plenty of vivid red, bright green and royal blue in the fall lineup, to add variety to the Ivy League charcoal tones which have been so long with us.

Girls will go back to school this fall with a new look, and here, at least, there will be few critics.

SOMEBODY GOOFED! That's University of Michigan High School student Ricky Richard's explanation to science teacher James McClurg for what appears to be a slightly wayward rocket. The gag came after McClurg lectured on the hazards of unsupervised rocket experiments. Richard got the gory effect with a bent coathanger and a halved rocket model.

Kids Who Chewed Tobacco Proved Problem In 1857

TAUNTON, Mass. (AP) — Things may not have been so bad in the Taunton public schools a hundred years ago as they are in some schools today.

But it is a matter of record, sadly reported by the Taunton school committee in 1857, that small fry tobacco chewers were creating "deplorable conditions in the classrooms."

The report was turned up by District Court Clerk Charles H. Lincoln in a search of old papers.

"We regret to say," the committee reported, "that the habit of chewing tobacco is indulged in by the pupils of this school to an extent beyond anything ever before witnessed. Nearly all the older boys use it, and some as young as from 7 to 10 years. The consequences can be easily imagined.

"Little children are contracting the same foul practice — the floor is besmeared with filth in many places, and the atmosphere of the room is anything but agreeable to those who have any regard for purity.

"It is sorrowful as well as amusing, to see a little boy just escaped from his frock, poring over his spelling book, with his cheek full of tobacco and a dangerous pool collecting between his feet."

The committee gently suggested to parents that however fondly they "may be wedded to the use of this weed, we are sure they will agree with us that it is productive of no good to their children, and will cooperate with us in our endeavors to exclude it from our schools."

If Youngster Is In Seventh Grade, It's Time To Think About College

The time to start getting ready for college is in the seventh grade. The longer you wait after that, the harder it's going to be to get into the school of your choice.

That's the considered opinion of the folks at Mount Holyoke College in South Hadley, Mass. They've worked up a "Time Table for College Application" that calls primarily for long-range planning, hard work and lots of outside reading.

Mount Holyoke is a girls' school, with a total enrollment of less than 1,400.

But the problems Mount Holyoke faces — too many students and too little space — are common to most of the nation's colleges and universities. With college enrollment expected to jump from three million this year to six million in 1970, the problem is going to get much worse before it gets better.

—:—

THIS IS the program Mount Holyoke suggests students should follow from the seventh through the 12th grade to make sure they can get into the college they admire most when the time comes:

Seventh and eighth grades — Work hard. Read books out of school.

Ninth grade — Plan your high school courses carefully. Include all the English courses you can get. Sign up for foreign languages, and take Latin first, if possible. Plan on algebra, geometry and trigonometry and general science, biology, physics and chemistry. Include at least two years of history.

Avoid "snap" courses. (Many educators have changed their minds about typing as a "snap" course — they believe students do much better work, particularly at the college level, if they know how to type.) Get acquainted with the college guidance counselor. Work hard. Read as widely as possible and take up extra curricular activities.

Tenth grade — Send for college catalogs. Read the sections on college entrance requirements. Keep up outside reading.

Eleventh grade — Consult your guidance counselor about the colleges that appeal to you. Plan visits to the campuses and write ahead for appointments with the admittances offices. Before you go for an interview, read the college catalogue. Decide whether to take the College Board examinations in the spring, after consulting your guidance counselor and the admissions officers. Be sure to register in advance for the examinations, and pay the fees. Apply to the college of your first choice.

TWELFTH grade (fall) — Complete applications at first choice college. Take scholarship tests as directed by your guidance counselor. Continue reading all the books you can lay hands on.

Twelfth grade (January)—Take the Scholastic Aptitude Test. If you are seeking a scholarship, you should file your application early this month.

Even this admittedly rough program isn't going to insure a high school graduate that the college of his choice will open its doors for him.

The competition for admission to many colleges and universities, particularly the larger ones, is rough now and will get progressively rougher in the years ahead.

Unsuccessful applicants have several alternatives. They can start out in a two - year junior college and bring their grades up to the stiffer requirements of the school of their choice.

They will find more vacancies in the three upper grades of most universities and colleges, because of the large number of students who drop out during or after their freshman year.

They also may start out in one of the smaller colleges, where there are more openings and where the entrance examinations might not be so strict. And it's quite possible that they'll be completely satisfied in a small college —a lot of them have excellent educational programs and facilities.

Some will find that they can gain admission to the school of their choice by a program of summer school, night school or post-graduate high school study.

A minority of high school graduates have little or no chance of ever gaining admission to one of the larger or more select schools. Educators say about one student in five is a "slow learner," who—without special training and work—finds it almost impossible to qualify for college, or maintain a college - level pace once he gets there.

PERFECT FOR PEDALING. Here's a pair dressed to make an impression on the first day back. She has an accordion-pleated skirt in argyle pattern, with three-quarter sleeve over-blouse. He's up to date in three-button Ivy jacket, flannel slacks and striped corduroy cap.

SWEATER GIRL, 1958: She wears a loose, bulky - knit coat sweater, low - belted along chemise lines. This one is alpaca-and-wool blend.

It's Longer And Looser For Sweaters This Fall

Even sweaters make fashion news this fall. The schoolgirl's standby has a different look — big, bulky, loose and chemise - styled.

New for teens is the hip-length bulky pullover, so loose that it hardly touches the body, often with a wide, straight - across neckline.

Coat sweaters are likely to be styled with a long V-neckline, hip-length, fastened with three low-placed buttons below the waist. These are boyish - looking and often have contrast ribbed - knit bandings accenting the V-neckline and front closing.

The longer and the looser the better seems to be the rule for fall school sweaters, whether pullovers, cardigans or hooded styles. Hairy, bulky yarns are important, and many devices are employed to achieve the low - waisted chemise look.

Making a study of getting ahead

First lesson in successful living is to learn that systematic saving is usually indispensable to the achievement of any worthwhile purpose.

If higher education is your immediate aim (as in the case of this young man) stashing away savings from part-time earnings or allowance is the best way to make sure that you'll always have "what it takes" in the way of money.

If you are looking still further into the future . . . to a home or a business of your own . . . to financial independence for your later years . . . regular saving is still the secret of turning dreams into realities.

Tips On How To Make First Day A Happy One

Parents, as well as children, need preparation and advice for the day when a child enters school for the first time. It is a time of apprehension and adjustment for both.

Here are some valuable tips for parents, suggested by Columbia professors Ernest G. Osborne, Roma Gans, Emma D. Sheehy, Millie C. Almy and by Dr. Abel A. Hanson, general secretary of Teachers College and for many years a superintendent of schools:

The youngster should be prepared for his first days at school by permitting him to spend some time in the school building and in the classroom, if possible.

Parents should make sure that the youngsters have been protected against various diseases because they will be more exposed to contagion than ever before.

Parents should get to know the teacher and principal and should invite the teacher to their home socially, but they should avoid being a nuisance.

Parents might play games at home in which they pretend they are in school to familiarize the child with the school's routine. This will help children to know what to expect when they actually enter school.

In the beginning, parents should be less concerned about the "three R's" and more concerned about their child learning to live with other children.

Parents should help their children to get to know some of the children who will be in their class before they start school.

Parents should remember that most children like school and they should approach their children's entering school for the first time with enthusiasm.

Parents should join the Parent-Teacher Assn. or a school - sponsored child study group and be an active participant in the activities of these organizations.

Mothers should be aware that the time of their child's entering school may be more difficult for her than it is for the child.

Parents should never threaten a child with school by saying "You will be sorry you weren't good at home when you see how awful it is in school," or other similar warnings.

Don't expect the child to come home with a large store of knowledge, because the emphasis at first is on helping children to feel the school is friendly in many ways.

Children may come home from school fatigued and cranky and parents should be prepared for this.

Rural Painting

COLUMBUS, Ind. (AP) — A farmer near here finally agreed to let Mrs. William Menke paint his barn—but he has reservations about it. The 26-year-old housewife and amateur artist said she'll paint the barn with "an abstract, whimsical farm scene" and the owner isn't quite sure just what she means.

How Can I? ? ?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I boil clothes properly?

A. Five minutes of actual boiling is usually enough to give clothes a good color. If boiled too long, it has a tendency to turn the goods yellow. The juice of one lemon added to the boiler will help produce a real whiteness.

Q. How can I treat tiny wrinkles around the eyes?

A. Massage muscle oil gently into the skin with the finger tips every night before retiring.

Q. How can I remove grease spots from fabric?

A. This can often be done by placing a piece of brown paper over the material and applying a hot iron.

Tips On How To Make First Day A Happy One

Parents, as well as children, need preparation and advice for the day when a child enters school for the first time. It is a time of apprehension and adjustment for both.

Here are some valuable tips for parents, suggested by Columbia professors Ernest G. Osborne, Roma Gans, Emma D. Sheehy, Millie C. Almy and by Dr. Abel A. Hanson, general secretary of Teachers College and for many years a superintendent of schools:

The youngster should be prepared for his first days at school by permitting him to spend some time in the school building and in the classroom, if possible.

Parents should make sure that the youngsters have been protected against various diseases because they will be more exposed to contagion than ever before.

Parents should get to know the teacher and principal and should invite the teacher to their home socially, but they should avoid being a nuisance.

Parents might play games at home in which they pretend they are in school to familiarize the child with the school's routine. This will help children to know what to expect when they actually enter school.

In the beginning, parents should be less concerned about the "three R's" and more concerned about their child learning to live with other children.

Parents should help their children to get to know some of the children who will be in their class before they start school.

Parents should remember that most children like school and they should approach their children's entering school for the first time with enthusiasm.

Parents should join the Parent-Teacher Assn. or a school - sponsored child study group and be an active participant in the activities of these organizations.

Mothers should be aware that the time of their child's entering school may be more difficult for her than it is for the child.

Parents should never threaten a child with school by saying "You will be sorry you weren't good at home when you see how awful it is in school," or other similar warnings.

Don't expect the child to come home with a large store of knowledge, because the emphasis at first is on helping children to feel the school is friendly in many ways.

Children may come home from school fatigued and cranky and parents should be prepared for this.

Rural Painting

COLUMBUS, Ind. (AP) — A farmer near here finally agreed to let Mrs. William Menke paint his barn—but he has reservations about it. The 26-year-old housewife and amateur artist said she'll paint the barn with "an abstract, whimsical farm scene" and the owner isn't quite sure just what she means.

Truck 'Going Steady'

HOPEWELL, Ohio (AP) — Sign on a truck traveling U.S. 40 near here: "Don't hug me. I'm going steady."

How Can I? ? ?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I boil clothes properly?

A. Five minutes of actual boiling is usually enough to give clothes a good color. If boiled too long, it has a tendency to turn the goods yellow. The juice of one lemon added to the boiler will help produce a real whiteness.

Q. How can I treat tiny wrinkles around the eyes?

A. Massage muscle oil gently into the skin with the finger tips every night before retiring.

Q. How can I remove grease spots from fabric?

A. This can often be done by placing a piece of brown paper over the materiai and applying a hot iron.

Here's Family That Has Flair For Fashion

FROM BIG MAN ON the high school campus to the belle of the fourth grade, this family has the clothes that scholars with a desire for distinction will wear to classrooms this fall. Starting on the left, that's a single-breasted worsted shetland jacket with flap pockets worn over pleatless worsted flannel slacks; on the oldest girl a brown plaid chemise with long sleeves and pleated back skirt in easy-care orlon-rayon blend; a popular low button cardigan, pastel-striped Ivy shirt and wash-wear trousers on the middle boy (he's carrying a reversible jacket); a crew neck sweater, 'Ivy denim' slacks and iridescent hooded raincoat on the youngest boy; and a wash-wear chemise of dacron - cotton with dropped waistline and pleated skirt on the little girl.

U.S. Marines Are Determined Recruiters

CENTRAL CITY, Ky. (AP) — The U. S. Marines made a special effort to get Stephen Elsinger into the corps.

He passed the written examination but a physical checkup showed the 18-year-old had a serious lung disorder. He was sent home with advice that an operation was necessary.

The operation was arranged but Elsinger needed five pints of blood. Marine recruiters at Louisville, 200 miles away, soon had the situation well in hand. Five donated a pint each.

Elsinger will be sworn in soon.

Visiting Friend's Store Brings $1,200 Damage

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tony Hostetler brought his family here from Nashville, Tenn., and dropped into an appliance store to visit friends.

Five-year-old son Tony Jr. slipped to the rear of the store, saw an electric golf cart, boarded it and pressed a button.

It took off in reverse and banged against two electric stoves, two refrigerators and an air conditioner before a brick wall halted it.

Damage: about $1,200 to the appliances; none to Tony and very little to the cart.

A Turning Point

School And A Child Of 6

By FRANCES HAMILTON
Childhood Education International

Being 6 has a special significance for almost every child. This is a great turning point, because he steps into the larger world of the school and the community.

On the first school day in September each 6 - year - old brings with him factors which help determine the kind of first grade adjustment he will make. His own particular pattern of growth is an important consideration.

First - grade teachers can count on a great range in sizes and builds: short and plump or short and slight, sturdy, frail, awkward, dainty. All this indicates unevenness and sudden spurts of growth.

JUST AS such variations in physical growth are natural, so are variations in other kinds of maturity to be expected. Mental, emotional and social development will be irregular and uneven among children. Most of them, whatever their rate of maturity, will have the necessary potential for realizing successful adjustment.

Another actor which helps determine the type of school adjustment for a first grader is his home experience. If he has had a warm, friendly home with stable, affectionate parents, he brings with him an expectancy and readiness for a similar satisfying experience at school.

The organ's and framework of the 6-year-old's body are growing and changing. They may try hard to sit still but they are not able to do so for long, because it is difficult for them to control their motions voluntarily.

Intellectually, these children are ready for school. Eagerness to learn is one of the most endearing traits of 6-year-olds. Theirs is the age of "why?"

How the questions of these children are answered and how their curiosity is stimulated and encouraged determine their subsequent attitudes toward learning.

Emphasis on academic achievement can destroy a first grader's confidence. Grades or marks should not be mentioned, but each child should be helped to read, write and do numbers when he is ready — and not all first graders will be ready at the same time.

IF WE WAIT for the point of readiness, the child will pass on more smoothly and efficiently from the years of early childhood into the more demanding school age period.

Primarily, the sixth year is one of transition. The child is not a more integrated, better - adjusted 5-year-old. He is a different child, actually less well balanced, less robust, less decisive, and often less cooperative.

He wants to be a grownup, but at the very same time he feels very small and dependent upon the affection of adults about him. Rigid discipline or a severe atmosphere at school or home holds him back. He wilts under criticism and disapproval and becomes discouraged easily. His explosiveness and violent changeability are normal and must be expected.

Affection, warmth, friendliness and a sense of humor can all help teachers and parents live happily with 6 - year - olds. These children need praise, encouragement and understanding.

Being Handcuffed Not Funny To Her

HAZARD, Ky. (AP) — As a joke, a fellow employe put a pair of handcuffs on Miss Janet Stout, a secretary at the Hazard Credit Bureau.

Then it was discovered keys to the handcuffs were with the office manager in another county.

Hazard police tried to unlock cuffs — no luck. The State Police were called. They couldn't free Miss Stout's hands.

Then Detective Orlester Mahoney took a file to keys of his own handcuffs. Within minutes, Miss Stout was free.

Battlefield Sketches Discovered In Garage

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A Madison garage has yielded a collection of original battlefield sketches and field note books of a once widely - known Civil War artist Raymond Simplot, whose grandfather, Alexander Simplot, sketched war scenes for Harper's Weekly magazine, found the material and turned it over to the Wisconsin Historical Society.

The sketches were made between April, 1861, and Jan. 10, 1863, of events in the war along the Mississippi River.

The culture of the Republic of India is among the oldest in the world, having maintained a continuous tradition for nearly 5,000 years.

Missed Whole Thing

MAYSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Garrett McDowell reckons he's a sound sleeper. A car knocked down the fence in his yard, overturned, and crashed into his bedroom. McDowell slept through it all.

Steelmen See Output Boost

53% Jump Forecast In 1959 Production

CLEVELAND (AP) — An increase of about 53 per cent in steel production next year was predicted by Steel Magazine in its issue out today.

The metalworking weekly said the 1959 output will total 110 million tons, compared with the 82 million expected this year and 112.7 million tons in 1957.

Rock-bottom steel inventories, an anticipated upturn in customer spending, rising federal spending and world unrest will lead to the increased output, the publication said.

Leading producers forecast a gain of at least 20 per cent in steel shipments next month and Steel says that only a strike in the automobile industry will keep October from being a better month than September—probably the best of the year.

June's output of 7,130,000 tons of steel for ingots and castings has been the best of any month this year, with production during the first eight months amounting to 51 million tons, Steel said. To turn out the other 31 million tons expected this year the mills must average 7¾ million tons a month for the next four months.

The threat of a strike is holding up some orders for steel from the automobile manufacturers and delaying purchases of the metal and other material by those who supply the auto industry, the magazine said.

When contracts are signed with the United Auto Workers, steel producers can expect a rash of orders, it added.

The country's steel mills last week operated at 61 per cent of rated capacity, up half a point from the previous week, with production amounting to 1,647,000 tons.

Cleanliness Out

EL PASO, Tex. — Cleanliness may take a backseat to safety in the El Paso jail, at least for a time. A prisoner slugged a guard with a blackjack made from a bar of soap and a sock, and eight men took over one floor of the jail briefly before being subdued.

What's In A Name?

ANDERSON, Ind. (AP) — The Anderson police department's Badge and Gun Club failed to live up to its name when six off - duty patrolmen came across a snake while strolling on the grounds. One of the cops finally killed the reptile with a stick, after discovering none of them was carrying weapons.

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A Madison garage has yielded a collection of original battlefield sketches and field note books of a once widely - known Civil War artist Raymond Simplot, whose grandfather, Alexander Simplot, sketched war scenes for Harper's Weekly magazine, found the material and turned it over to the Wisconsin Historical Society.

The sketches were made between April, 1861, and Jan. 10, 1863, of events in the war along the Mississippi River.

The culture of the Republic of India is among the oldest in the world, having maintained a continuous tradition for nearly 5,000 years.

Steelmen See Output Boost

53% Jump Forecast In 1959 Production

CLEVELAND (AP) — An increase of about 53 per cent in steel production next year was predicted by Steel Magazine in its issue out today.

The metalworking weekly said the 1959 output will total 110 million tons, compared with the 82 million expected this year and 112.7 million tons in 1957.

Rock-bottom steel inventories, an anticipated upturn in customer spending, rising federal spending and world unrest will lead to the increased output, the publication said.

Leading producers forecast a gain of at least 20 per cent in steel shipments next month and Steel says that only a strike in the automobile industry will keep October from being a better month than September—probably the best of the year.

June's output of 7,130,000 tons of steel for ingots and castings has been the best of any month this year, with production during the first eight months amounting to 51 million tons, Steel said. To turn out the other 31 million tons expected this year the mills must average 7¾ million tons a month for the next four months.

The threat of a strike is holding up some orders for steel from the automobile manufacturers and delaying purchases of the metal and other material by those who supply the auto industry, the magazine said.

When contracts are signed with the United Auto Workers, steel producers can expect a rash of orders, it added.

The country's steel mills last week operated at 61 per cent of rated capacity, up half a point from the previous week, with production amounting to 1,647,000 tons.

Cleanliness Out

EL PASO, Tex. — Cleanliness may take a backseat to safety in the El Paso jail, at least for a time. A prisoner slugged a guard with a blackjack made from a bar of soap and a sock, and eight men took over one floor of the jail briefly before being subdued.

What's In A Name?

ANDERSON, Ind. (AP) — The Anderson police department's Badge and Gun Club failed to live up to its name when six off - duty patrolmen came across a snake while strolling on the grounds. One of the cops finally killed the reptile with a stick, after discovering none of them was carrying weapons.

It's All Matter Of Rigid Discipline

More than 100 years ago, a German schoolmaster named Hauberle sat down and added up a blow - by - blow summary of his achievements on the educational firing line.

He announced with some pride that in 51 years, 7 months of teaching he had administered 911,527 blows with cane, 124,010 with rod, 20,989 with ruler, 136,715 with hand, 22,763 with books, 12,235 on mouth, 7,905 on ear and 1,115,800 on head.

Hauberle's record, noted in an 1830 edition of the "American Journal of Education," might go a long way towards explaining why school discipline was scarcely thought of as a problem in his time.

It was a day when teachers could chortle with satisfied humor over a riddle that went:

Question: Why does the eye resemble a schoolmaster?

Answer: Because it has a pupil under the lash.

IT WAS A time when a woman who signed herself "a numerous mother" could write to an Ohio journal in complaint about a campaign to eliminate spanking in the classroom. Wrote she:

"I've got nine of 'em and they all need walloping every blessed day. If I tried to do justice by them, it would keep me busy doing that and nothing else.

"So I send 'em to school where I know, if the teacher does what a teacher ought to do, they'll get their desserts. It takes a heap of trouble off my hands. . . ."

It was also a day when teachers strode into the classroom with a firm step, secure in the knowledge that they were armed with the best of all possible weapons — the complete works of Hiram Orcutt.

Orcutt was principal of the North Granville (N. Y.) Ladies' Seminary and a prodigious authority on how to teach, particularly on how to make 'em sit still while you teach 'em.

A HAUNTING echo of today's school problems sounds through his writings. It's difficult to remember that it was the mid-19th, not 20th, Century when he observed:

"The present is an age of insubordination and can we doubt that this has resulted from the loss of authority in the family and school.

"Parents and teachers . . . no longer enforce obedience but attempt to purchase it by a promised reward . . .

"Now mark the effect of such discipline upon the child. Who conquers in this instance? The pupil, not the master. And soon he learns that disobedience is the best currency at his command to purchase the desired favor.

"Insubordination becomes a habit and he soon loses all respect for authority and those who exercise it over him and grows up in reckless disregard of the laws under which he lives."

Orcutt's studied solution? It can be summed up in two graphic sentences, published under the quasi-authority of the U. S. Bureau of Education:

"Moral suasion is not the remedy for bold and defiant violations of law . . . Rebellion should be met by stunning, crushing blows, such as will vindicate and reestablish authority and deter others from committing the same crime."

ORCUTT would have no truck with what he called "Utopian theories of school government . . . that either moral suasion or legal suasion alone will govern schools."

"Obedience is not a voluntary compliance with a request but a hearty response to acknowledged authority — an implicit yielding to a command. Such obedience, prompt and unreserved, is the duty of every pupils."

Orcutt was writing at a time when corporal punishment was losing favor in schools.

"It is a mistaken idea," he maintained, "that corporal punishment is in itself an evil . . . It is not 'violence and outrage' . . .

"Is the surgeon hard - hearted because he performs a painful operation to save the life of the patient? By no means.

"Is the teacher, then to be accused of cruelty who aims to prevent violence by teaching the necessity of subjection? He is not cruel but merciful.

"Many a child has been saved in school that was lost to the family and society; lost for the want of proper discipline and saved by the legal and moral power of the rod."

Passenger Wounded By Bus Driver's Gun

CLEVELAND (AP)—A Cleveland Transit System bus driver, carrying a gun despite a CTS rule against it, shot and wounded a passenger who he said attacked him with a knife Sunday. The driver was held for investigation.

John H. Redmond, 50, a 30-year-CTS veteran, said he fired a .32-caliber pistol at the passenger, James Edward Cook, 21, hitting him in the left chest with a single bullet.

Cook was in fair condition at St. Vincent Charity Hospital Redmond claimed he shot in self-defense.

Redmond told police he tried to rouse Cook from sleep when the bus run ended at Public Square. He said the passenger swung at him, missed and then came at him with a knife.

Parolee Admits Theft Man Killed, 3 Hurt

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP) — A 17-year-old parolee from Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster, Ohio, arrested here in connection with the Aug. 4 robbery of the McArthur Hotel in Ironton, Ohio, has admitted he stole $1,200 worth of watches from an Ashland jewelry store, police said. Detectives said the watches were found in Ironton.

AUBURN, Ind. (AP) — Gerald Crowl, 60, of Hicksville, Ohio, was killed and his wife, Clara, 62, injured critically Sunday in an auto collision on a county road near the state line. Michael Lucas, 18, also of Hicksville, driver of the other auto, and a passenger, Kevin Lucas, 4, were seriously injured.

Integration Movement Spurred In Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Oklahoma City Negro youths said they will resume their campaign today to gain food service at downtown stores.

Forty Negro teen-agers divided into groups of two Sunday and entered 20 white churches for morning services. In all but three, they said they were received cordially.

The integration movement began last week when 16 walked into Katz's Drugstore Tuesday night and asked to be served. They were denied. The management finally served them Thursday. Kress' department store served them Friday.

Man Will Face Court In Marietta Shooting

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP)—Lewis Niday, 29, of Marietta, will be arraigned in Municipal Court today on a charge of first-degree murder in the fatal shooting of Mrs. Frances Cowdery, 31, also of Marietta.

Police said Mrs. Cowdery and a companion, George Robinson Jr., 24, were shot as they emerged from a local tavern Saturday night.

Robinson is in satisfactory condition in Marietta Memorial Hospital. Police said Niday objected to Mrs. Cowdery seeing Robinson.

Death Claims Collins, Onetime Crucible Head

CLEVELAND (AP) — Edward Colwell Collins, 84, who was president of the Crucible Steel Company of America in the early 1920s, died at his home in Shaker Heights Sunday after an illness of several months.

He was traffic manager of the Pittsburgh Steamship Co. in 1922 when he moved to Rye, N. Y., to head the newly - formed Crucible Steel Co. Five years later he returned to Cleveland and entered the insurance business.

Fishermen Won't Talk

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — State fish experts here don't agree that fishermen brag too much. Quite the opposite, they said. Because fishermen are reluctant to talk about their exploits, they pose a serious handicap to scientific fish management. Fishermen probably keep things to themselves, they add, because big stories draw competition.

Portugal is a small country, but it has nine colonies in other parts of the globe.

Poultry Farmer Nabs Mule Deer With Rope

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — It may never catch on as a deer - hunting tactic but John Scott, poultry farmer near Lincoln, captured a full grown mule deer with a lariat.

After lassoing the animal which had wandered onto his farm, Scott and a companion threw the deer to the ground and tied it up in the manner of a calf ready for branding. In short order, the deer became the newest addition to a Lincoln zoo.

Juvenile Jurist

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — The name of Henry Mar Jr. was drawn for jury duty — but he didn't have to serve. When the court bailiff called, he found Henry was on a camping trip. Henry's father also told the bailiff the prospective juror is a Boy Scout, and only 8.

Here Are Tips To Help Child Awaiting School?

A note of warning and advice for parents whose children are starting school for the first time this fall:

If you haven't already done so, it's high time you started getting Jackie and Mary prepared for the biggest experience of their young lives.

The better prepared a child is for school — both physically and emotionally—the better his chances of a happy and worthwhile education. And the burden of that preparation is on the parents.

—:—

HERE ARE some guide lines for parents to follow, suggested by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers and the National Education Assn. They say that by the time your child starts school he or she should:

Be able to use a drinking fountain correctly.

Use the bathroom regularly and independently.

Wash his hands with soap and water after play, before and after eating and after toileting.

Use only his own towel, face cloth, toothbrush.

Take an over - all cleansing bath every day.

Cover his nose and mouth with a handkerchief when sneezing or coughing.

Carry a clean handkerchief or tissues to school every day.

Keep his hands away from his mouth, ears, nose, eyes.

Play out of doors regularly when the weather permits.

Go to bed at a regular hour (and that means 10-12 hours of sleep each night).

—:—

WELL AHEAD of the opening day of school set up a routine whereby the child is roused early enough so that he can:

Go to the toilet.

Wash himself.

Dress in clean clothing.

Brush and comb his hair.

Eat a warm, unhurried breakfast.

Brush his teeth.

Put on outer clothes suitable to the weather.

Set out early enough to arrive at the time suggested by your local school.

Give plenty of thought to your child's wardrobe. Remember it should be simple, washable, sturdy, not too tight, easy for him to manage, safe, and labelled for identification.

Help your child learn to think and speak. That means you should speak carefully and clearly so that he will hear words correctly pronounced. You should encourage him to talk slowly in a moderate voice, and not use baby talk. Supply the words when his tongue trips over an idea, answer all his questions, even the idle ones, and listen intelligently and appreciatively to his comments and stories.

TEACH HIM the things he will need to know in school: courtesy, the fun of sharing things and ideas, respect for the property of others.

Encourage him to face facts as they really are. Teach him that games are for fun, that he can't always win, and that the 'good loser,' is a person to be admired.

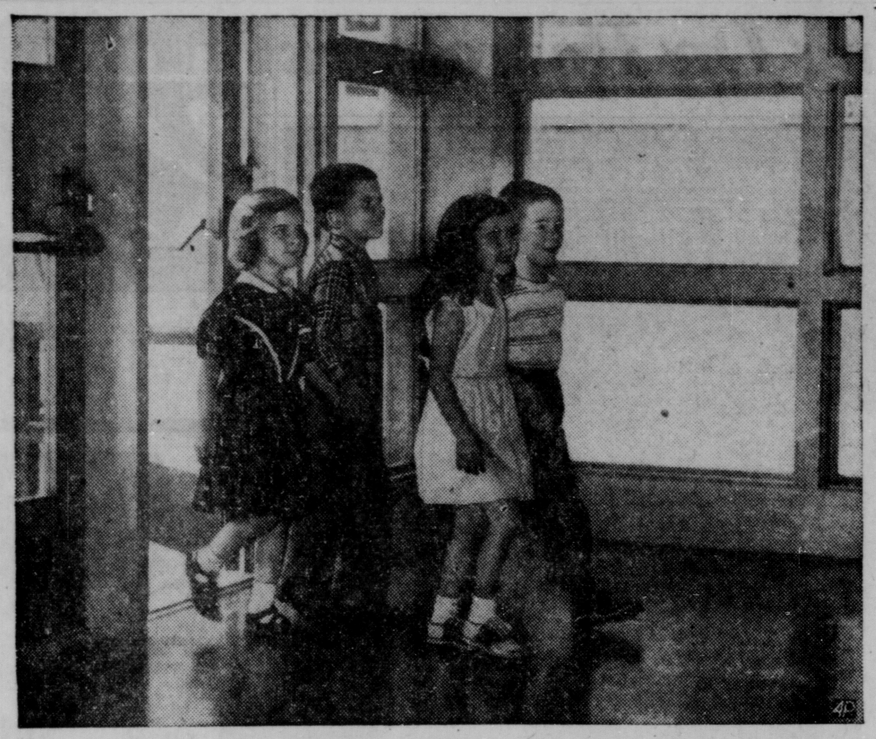
As opening day nears, walk to school with him several times, so that he'll know the route. After school starts, turn him loose — let him go alone on foot or by bus. If you have to go with him for his safety's sake, stop at the school steps, cheerfully tell him goodbye and leave him on his own.

And before he starts school he should have learned his own name, the name of his parents, address, phone number — and be willing to give them when asked.

Teach him all the traffic safety rules — and never to ride with strangers.

Give the teacher a few weeks to get acquanted with your child, then visit the school when it's convenient for both of you.

Tell the teacher about your child's special interests and aptitudes at home, fears and emotional troubles, any handicaps she should know about, and his general health habits.



HERE WE ARE! Bursting with anticipation, these youngsters arrive for the first day of school in Dayton, Ohio. Intelligent handling by adults can make every day just as much fun.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Consistent Discipline Teaches Child To Obey

When our youngest child was about 2½ years old, we taught him by a slap on his hand to avoid the telephone, which was on a low window ledge. We were consistent, and it took only three or four treatments to train him permanently to avoid the telephone. He avoided it not only while his parents were there, but also when he was in the care of another person.

By Garry Meyers

By the same procedure, another couple trained their children, while toddlers, to avoid the dangerous high bank of a stream near their home. The limit was marked by a rope laid flat on the ground.

I LEARNED that no child had been spanked for crossing this line. Each was merely told once he should not. They never did cross it. But they earlier had learned No in connection with some other boundaries and limitations.

After the family moved to another home, the parents taught the youngest, then about 3, new limitations. One was the curb in front of the house; another was the long back lot facing a partially fenced alley.

One day while many children were playing in this back lot, I saw this youngest child approaching the open place. I was about to dash to bring him back, but the mother calmly said, "Don't worry. He will stop at the boundary."

Sure enough, he did.

During the next several days I saw this lad approach that place many times, always stopping himself on the line.

I asked his mother to explain. She replied:

"It took only a few whacks." But they were consistent, and without exception, until the limitations were learned.

—:—

WHILE teaching university classes of preschool parents for a number of years, I had assurances from ever so many mothers that they effectively trained their tots to avoid the street by means of physical pain, consistently applied.

They did so even when their toddlers' playmates ran into the street unrestrained. But they spent ample time at the training.

A child who has learned such limitations respects them even when no older person is there to punish him if he doesn't. He doesn't think, "I'll get punished if I go there." He just keeps himself from going there.

If you always had to be right with the youngster to keep him from rushing into the street, or from doing again anything else he had been spanked for doing, how foolish it is ever to punish him at all or even to say No.

My bulletins, "How To Teach Tot Meaning of No" and "First Steps in Safety," may be had by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Mistaken Identity

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Reporters and photographers waited outside the courtroom for a strip tease dancer expected for a trial. When a shapely brunette came in and sat down, a reporter rushed up and asked if she were the stripper.

"No," replied the brunette, "I'm the policewoman who arrested her."

Here Are Tips To Help Child Awaiting School?

A note of warning and advice for parents whose children are starting school for the first time this fall:

If you haven't already done so, it's high time you started getting Jackie and Mary prepared for the biggest experience of their young lives.

The better prepared a child is for school — both physically and emotionally—the better his chances of a happy and worthwhile education. And the burden of that preparation is on the parents.

—:—

HERE ARE some guide lines for parents to follow, suggested by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers and the National Education Assn. They say that by the time your child starts school he or she should:

Be able to use a drinking fountain correctly.

Use the bathroom regularly and independently.

Wash his hands with soap and water after play, before and after eating and after toileting.

Use only his own towel, face cloth, toothbrush.

Take an over - all cleansing bath every day.

Cover his nose and mouth with a handkerchief when sneezing or coughing.

Carry a clean handkerchief or tissues to school every day.

Keep his hands away from his mouth, ears, nose, eyes.

Play out of doors regularly when the weather permits.

Go to bed at a regular hour (and that means 10-12 hours of sleep each night).

—:—

WELL AHEAD of the opening day of school set up a routine whereby the child is roused early enough so that he can:

Go to the toilet.

Wash himself.

Dress in clean clothing.

Brush and comb his hair.

Eat a warm, unhurried breakfast.

Brush his teeth.

Put on outer clothes suitable to the weather.

Set out early enough to arrive at the time suggested by your local school.

Give plenty of thought to your child's wardrobe. Remember it should be simple, washable, sturdy, not too tight, easy for him to manage, safe, and labelled for identification.

Help your child learn to think and speak. That means you should speak carefully and clearly so that he will hear words correctly pronounced. You should encourage him to talk slowly in a moderate voice, and not use baby talk. Supply the words when his tongue trips over an idea, answer all his questions, even the idle ones, and listen intelligently and appreciatively to his comments and stories.

TEACH HIM the things he will need to know in school: courtesy, the fun of sharing things and ideas, respect for the property of others.

Encourage him to face facts as they really are. Teach him that games are for fun, that he can't always win, and that the 'good loser,' is a person to be admired.

As opening day nears, walk to school with him several times, so that he'll know the route. After school starts, turn him loose — let him go alone on foot or by bus. If you have to go with him for his safety's sake, stop at the school steps, cheerfully tell him goodbye and leave him on his own.

And before he starts school he should have learned his own name, the name of his parents, address, phone number — and be willing to give them when asked.

Teach him all the traffic safety rules — and never to ride with strangers.

Give the teacher a few weeks to get acquanted with your child, then visit the school when it's convenient for both of you.

Tell the teacher about your child's special interests and aptitudes at home, fears and emotional troubles, any handicaps she should know about, and his general health habits.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Consistent Discipline Teaches Child To Obey

When our youngest child was about 2½ years old, we taught him by a slap on his hand to avoid the telephone, which was on a low window ledge. We were consistent, and it took only three or four treatments to train him permanently to avoid the telephone. He avoided it not only while his parents were there, but also when he was in the care of another person.

By Garry Meyers

By the same procedure, another couple trained their children, while toddlers, to avoid the dangerous high bank of a stream near their home. The limit was marked by a rope laid flat on the ground.

—:—

I LEARNED that no child had been spanked for crossing this line. Each was merely told once he should not. They never did cross it. But they earlier had learned No in connection with some other boundaries and limitations.

Firm Rules Lacking On Homework

At one time or another, every mother and father is faced with the problem of children's homework.

Tommy, lugging home books and papers, feels he's had enough study for one day. And, besides, there's a good Western or perhaps a ball game on TV. Mary has other interests, too.

Torn between a desire to have their children enjoy themselves and the feeling they should get the full benefit of schooling, the parents develop a mental conflict that is a problem in itself.

The problem often extends further. A child, for whatever reason — lagging interest or insufficient capacity to grasp studies — may want or need help on homework. How much help should the parents give?

THERE IS no unanimity of opinion on this question among leading educators.

Prof. Millie Almy of the department of psychological foundations and services of Teachers College Columbia University, says the question "is very complex and cannot be answered by a straight yes or no, since it depends on the kind of homework, the age of the child and the kind of child. If the parent can help constructively, the answer is yes; if the parent's help results only in a battle, then the answer is no."

Another faculty member at Teachers College, Prof. Emma D. Sheehy, says:

"I hope parents will show a lively interest in the youngster's work in school. Anything that makes a child feel that his parents have a genuine interest in his work is good. Parents can help their children with homework by showing interest in what children are doing and pointing out different approaches to problems.

Prof. Raymond A. Patouillet of the department of guidance and student personnel administration at Teachers College maintains:

"Parents should help their children with homework when its purpose is to supplement and enrich the school program. . . .

"The parent should not actually do the child's homework for him and should not help at all if he acts as a policeman for the school to see that the child does his homework.

"The presence or absence of homework produces no significant difference in achievement — and homework in itself cannot overcome lack o mental ability."

HOMEWORK is an excellent opportunity for the parent and the child to do things together, Dr. Patouillet explains, and it is "good for parents to share in their child's experiences."

Still another viewpoint was expressed by Prof. Roma Gans of the department of curriculum and teaching:

"A good home is interested in the child's experiences at school. It sometimes happens that the parent helps the child with homework which brings the parent and child closer together.

"It is important that the child should feel free to seek help if he needs it. If a child is unable to do his homework, the parent can help. But the parent should also let the school know that it is putting too much pressure on the child, and see what can be done to lighten the homework load so that the child has time for other things."

TV Can Help Or Harm Your Child

Breathes there a man with soul so dead, who to his family has never said: "If you kids don't turn off that darn TV I'm gonna take an ax to it"?

But television is here to stay. Like your mother - in - law, there's little to do but learn to live with it.

Is it good? Dr. Harold G. Shane of Northwestern University thinks so — with reservations.

"Television has brought the world right into the living room, and it's actually changing children's ability to learn. Time and space have been telescoped for the kids. In one evening they can watch the adventures of Robin Hood, and take a trip to the moon with Disney. The Wild West is as familiar to them as the corner grocery store."

—:—

IS IT BAD? Dr. William C. Kvaraceus of Boston University thinks so — with reservations.

"Television," he said, "is a prime example of the new American culture of worklessness. It's the easiest form of entertainment ever devised. You just sit — and absorb sights and sounds.

"Our kids watch television, and it has to have an affect on them. For instance, we know that, even in the so - called adult Westerns, the good guy always wins — but only after he has broken up all the furniture, shot up the joint, and given the bad guys a working over with his fists.

"What this does is show our kids that you can solve your problems with violence."

So what do we do?

The National Congress of Parents and Teachers has been keeping a sharp eye on television for quite a few years. It has come up with some suggested guides for evaluating TV programs, and some ideas on what to do about morally objectionalbe programs.

But the PTA says that the apprasisal of a TV program should be done on a local level — by parents, children and organizations such as the local PTA's.

Fifty people complaining about a program will exert more pressure on a television station than a committee representing several hundred people.

If you have a complaint, the PTA says, let it be known to the local station and the network, if any. And it adds "be sure to state the station and network over which the program was telecast, the sponsor, and the hour and date on which the program was received."

—:—

HERE SOME of the guide lines the PTA suggests might be followed in determining whether a television program is all right for your children:

Does it appeal to his age level?

It's good if it gives information or entertainment related to real-life interests and situations. It's bad if it's dull, boring, or not related to the child's real life.

Does it meet the needs for entertainment and action?

It's good if it deals with wholesome adventure, humor, fantasy or suspense. It's bad if it is emotionally disturbing and overstimulating, if it places unnecessary emphasis on cruelty and violence, or is loud, crude and vulgar.

Does it encourage worthwhile ideals, values and beliefs?

It's good if it upholds proper standards of behavior, promotes democratic and spiritual values, respect for law, decency and service. It's bad if it glamorizes crime, indecency, intolerance.

No Letup In Sight For Baby Boom

The first wave of the wartime baby boom hit the high schools last fall. An even bigger wave is now in the grade schools and will hit the ninth grade in about three years.

And no ebbing of this floodtide of children is in sight, to the complete astonishment of the experts.

People who figure such things can draw you stacks of charts and graphs to prove why the birthrate in this country should — must — go down. Then they run head - on into the statistics which shows the birthrate keeps right on climbing.

In 1940 there were 2½ million children born in this country. In 1943 the number exceeded three million. The experts can explain that jump — the United States was at war and young people were hurrying to get married before they were separated.

In 1944 and 1945 the number of live births tapered off just a bit, and fell below three million. Then, in 1946, when most of the boys had come marching home again, it spurted to nearly 3½ million.

The next year the figure went to more than 3 million. Right about here, say the experts, there should have been a sharp decline.

But there wasn't. The number of births held fairly steady for three years and then started climbing again. In 1951, 1952 and 1953 it nudged the four million mark, in 1954 it passed four million and continued to climb.

Last year there were more than 4,300,00 births in this country. Six years hence there will be the greatest first grade school enrollment this country has ever known.

Those babies born in 1943 — the wartime boom which pushed births over three million the first time — presumably entered school in the fall of 1949. For the most part, the crop of 1943, is now in the ninth grade.

The tidal wave of babies born in 1946 hit elementary schools in 1952 and is now in the sixth grade. In three years those children will be entering high schools all across the nation.

The school year ending in 1961 is expected to see 28,876,000 in the first eight grades and 8,276,000 in grades 9 through 12. By 1965 the figures are expected to be 29,206,000 and 10,817.000.

But, the experts say, don't take these estimates too seriously. Practically every advance estimate they made in recent years has had to be revised upward.

A Look At The 85th Congress:

Moderately Progressive

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 85th Congress was born in crisis and ended uneasy. History will probably say this Congress, like President Eisenhower, was moderately progressive.

The 85th, run by Democrats, had a good record of performance. It worked well with republican Eisenhower. But it had shocks: the realization the Soviet Union was ahead in missiles; a Mideast crisis; a recession.

By the time Congress ended its second session Sunday some Democrats had become uneasy about the wisdom and direction of American foreign policy, Eisenhower's leadership, and the state of American defenses.

But the Democrats as a party provided no leadership basically different from Eisenhower's on foreign or domestic matters. They gave him pretty much what he asked and backed him up when he got in trouble, as in the Mideast.

This Congress was elected in November 1956, during one of the most precarious weeks since World War II.

The British and French, breaking with the United States, had invaded Egypt. The Soviets threatened war if they didn't get out, which they did. And the Soviets bloodily crushed the Hungarian revolt.

In those two years, Soviet influence in the Middle East has risen but American influence hit rock bottom.

Just before Congress quit this year Iraq pulled away from the West and Eisenhower sent troops into Lebanon to save it, an action which angered Arab, neutrals and some American friends.

At the time this Congress took office in January 1957 economists were fearing inflation, not recession. Inflation continued but recession hit. Neither Eisenhower nor the Democrats took any stringent action against it.

They followed a cautious road of small repairs here and there, in the hope it would go away. The recession seems to be receding. Once more the economists are concerned about inflation, for living costs continue up.

When this Congress first moved into the Capitol in January 1957, there was still the old complacency that we had always been ahead of the Soviets and would continue that way.

This myth was shattered in the fall of 1957 when the Soviets let loose their first Sputnik. Congress returned for its final session in 1958 excited, disturbed, chastened.

It voted quickly for missile development. But somehow concern about Soviet strides in this field seemed to melt a bit as Congress later in the year began worrying about recession.

As it heads home, the 85th Congress is much less cocky about the Soviet Union, has its fingers crossed about the economy, and has no reason to believe American foreign policy will do better than it's done in the past.

Rain Slashes Fair Crowds

Attendance Lags By 30,000 At Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Fair officials hoped for clear skies today to help bolster sagging attendance and revenue.

Totals for the first three days of the eight-day fair were not encouraging. Attendance was lagging about 30,000 behind last year's three-day total of 147,406, primarily because of rain Sunday.

Revenues at the Grandstand and Coliseum shows also were falling short of last year's figures.

Revenue from the Grandstand show for the first two days, with singer Tommy Sands the featured attraction,, was $22,379 as compared with $30,462 for the first two fair days last year.

Sunday the Grandstand show was really hit hard. It had to move into the 3,000-seat Youth Center when the portable stage became mired in the mud of the Grandstand infield.

A steady rain during the morning hours cut attendance Sunday —traditionally the biggest day of the fair—to less than 50,000.

Despite the rain, 15,365 fans saw the Chicago Bears defeat the Philadelphia Eagles 3-0 in a professional football exhibition game.

Harness racing features today's fair program with an 11-race card starting at 12:30 p.m.

Racing will continue through Thursday with the top race—the Buckeye State Pace—slated for Tuesday. The pace will carry a $23,850 purse, richest in the fair's history.

In Sunday's baton twirling contests, Mary Strome 15, of Fairborn, won the grand championship and the governor's trophy. A six-girl team from Brush High School in South Euclid won the team title.

Kay Pfeiffer, 20, of Rt. 1, Kenton, was crowned wool queen by State Agriculture Director James R. Hay after an all wool style show at the Youth Center.

Big Bear Stores set a new record high price for market lambs by bidding $3.50 a pound for a 91-pound Southdown lamb owned by Glenn Hoffsis of Bucyrus.

Bob Evans Farms bought the grand champion barrow, a Hampshire, owned by Ohio State University for a record $451.50.

TV Can Help Or Harm Your Child

Breathes there a man with soul so dead, who to his family has never said: "If you kids don't turn off that darn TV I'm gonna take an ax to it"?

But television is here to stay. Like your mother - in - law, there's little to do but learn to live with it.

Is it good? Dr. Harold G. Shane of Northwestern University thinks so — with reservations.

"Television has brought the world right into the living room, and it's actually changing children's ability to learn. Time and space have been telescoped for the kids. In one evening they can watch the adventures of Robin Hood, and take a trip to the moon with Disney. The Wild West is as familiar to them as the corner grocery store."

—:—

IS IT BAD? Dr. William C. Kvaraceus of Boston University thinks so — with reservations.

"Television," he said, "is a prime example of the new American culture of worklessness. It's the easiest form of entertainment ever devised. You just sit — and absorb sights and sounds.

"Our kids watch television, and it has to have an affect on them. For instance, we know that, even in the so - called adult Westerns, the good guy always wins — but only after he has broken up all the furniture, shot up the joint, and given the bad guys a working over with his fists.

"What this does is show our kids that you can solve your problems with violence."

So what do we do?

The National Congress of Parents and Teachers has been keeping a sharp eye on television for quite a few years. It has come up with some suggested guides for evaluating TV programs, and some ideas on what to do about morally objectionalbe programs.

How To Smooth The Way For A New Kid In School

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Are your kids going to a new school this year?

If you're one of the many American families moving to a new job or business assignment for Dad, you'll be thinking — or should be— of how you can help your child get along in his new school.

The impact on children of moving varies widely according to age.

Adjustment is easiest in the primary and elementary grades. Young children probably are the most completely democratic of humans. Unless he proves himself a complete stinker, they'll be interested in a new child and will welcome him.

BUT IF your boy or girl is of junior high school age, you should realize that children in early teens can be heartlessly exclusive. In their social awkwardness, many children at this age just aren't sure of how to go about making a new friend, even if inwardly wanting to. A newcomer can suffer painful emotional hurt.

High school students are growing or have grown out of the early teeners' lack of social confidence. A new boy or girl probably will find it easier to be accepted than in junior high.

Don't be alarmed by these tribal traits of youth.

School men agree that children, generally, are pretty flexible as social creatures. They likely will adjust more quickly and better in a new community than parents. But Vice Principal Ralph Mason of Palo Alto High School, Vice Principal Dan Stone of Jordan Junior High School, and Principal William P. Johnson of Walter Hays Elementary School say there are steps parents can take to smooth the way.

The essential first step for the parent is to make sure the old school provides a transfer report on your boy or girl to the new school. The transfer report will guide the new principal and teachers in fitting your child in with classmates of matching achievement levels.

A GIRL ONCE came to Jordan Junior High from her family's overseas assignment in Tokyo without a classifying report on her previous school achievement. She had studied under American teachers there in a school maintaining higher grade achievement levels than a normal public school.

She found herself repeating work she'd already had. She was bored. Her classmates resented her attitude of superiority and rejected her as an unwelcome "brain."

The reverse mistake of a child being assigned to a grade or group beyond his achievement level can cause greater trouble. Students in high school should arrange, if at all possible, to complete their school year or semester before shifting to the family's new town.

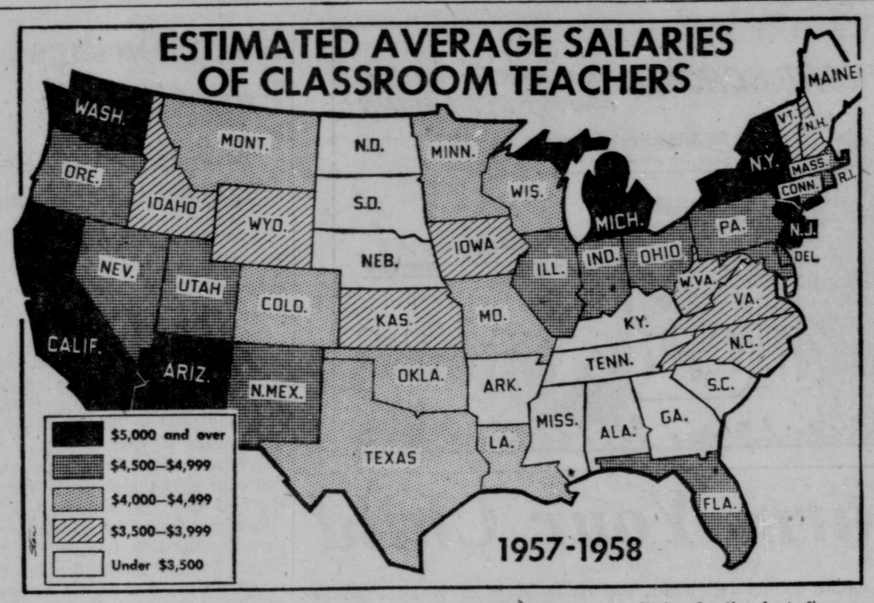
Mid - term moves can break up a student's progress in high school subjects, particularly in mathematics or the sciences. Finishing a school term before a move is less important in elementary and junior high school.

Other tips:

The mother, or both parents if possible, should make an advance visit with the child to the new school and meet the principal and teacher.

A mother should check with the teacher or neighbor children on the school's clothes fashions.

If a child shows unhappiness with a new school, try quickly to find out the reason, if you can. Consult the teacher for help in working out a problem while it's still small.



The average salary paid to public school teachers in the 1957-58 school year was about $4,520, according to the National Education Assn. From state to state it ranged from $2,525 in Mississippi to $5,750 in California.

New York was just behind California, paying an average of $5,687. In 1956-57, New York led with $5,500 to $5,150 in California. Seven states are now paying an average of more than $5,000 annually, compared with only two states in 1956-57.

Mississippi's $2,525 makes it the only state paying an average of less than $3,100 a year. Arkansas was low in 1956-57 with $2,380, but this past school year jumped to $3,180.

The NEA says that five years ago 20 per cent of the classroom teachers in public schools were paid less than $2,500 a year; today only 3.7 per cent are paid so little. In the last five years the proportion of classroom teachers paid as much as $4,500 rose from 13 to 41 per cent.

Secondary school teachers this past school year were paid an average of $4,840, about 12 per cent higher than the $4,325 average in elementary schools. Five years ago the difference was 18 per cent. The difference, NEA said, was primarily due to the higher levels of preparation required of high school teachers.

Most Of Your Car Crests Have Historic Background

The influence of the age of rockets on American auto design may be getting stronger every year, but there is one area where the industry still pays homage to the past—the very distant past.

When a Detroit designer gets around to putting his company's signature on a new car, he does it with a crest often dating back hundreds of years.

One company's emblem can be traced to the 11th century, before man had given much thought to carriages, much less those that could move without horses.

Not all of the automakers are able to point to such ancient lineage, of course.

Some of them can't trace their trademarks beyond their own design department, where the stylists simply put together a fancy emblem. One was laid out from an early automaker's recollection of a wallpaper pattern he saw in a French hotel.

ALTHOUGH they are commonly referred to as "crests," the word is a misnomer.

In the specialty of heraldry, the distinguishing emblem of an aristocrat is called a coat of arms. The coat of arms consists of a "shield," the central section containing symbols designating family accomplishments or honors from a grateful monarch; a "crest," the ornament or decoration atop the helmet which usually rests on the shield; and "mantling," the decorations providing a background for the shield.

Seven of the emblems employed by car manufacturers today are based on coats of arms which have historic validity.

The coat of arms on the Cadillac Division of General Motors is the authentic heraldic device of le Sieur de la Mothe Cadillac, the man largely responsible for the founding of Detroit in 1701.

His family represented an aristocracy four centuries older than the discoveries of Columbus. The coronet crest showed the Cadillacs' affiliation with the king of France. The three little birds on the shield are symbolic of the Holy Trinity; the horizontal bars are military girdles of honor.

If you look closely at the birds, you will see they have no legs. One ancient historian says this is because — besides their religious symbolism — they represent one group in the family who "having little land to set their feet on, must look to the wings of virtue and merit for their prosperity."

THE DODGE coat of arms is one of the oldest in English heraldry, possibly granted about 1066. Tradition says a Dodge was able to furnish the provisions for the army of William the Conqueror and thus helped substantially to win the victory. In gratitude, on the family's shield of gold and black bars, a vertical bar of red was added with "a woman's breast distilling drops of milk" as a symbol of nourishment.

Walter Chrysler, an ardent student of American history, adopted the name DeSoto for one of his cars and appropiately this car boasts an adaptation of the arms of Hernando de Soto, the Spanish explorer.

The gold fleurs-de-lis, the black eagle and the gold chalices in one quarter of the shield are all symbols used by people of consequence. The padlocks on the second and third quarterings may indicate a guardianship of treasure during the family's history.

The emblem on the Packard car is the registered arms of the Packer family, the name from which Packard is derived.

The four silver roses could signify family participation in the War of the Roses. The crest is a pelican, "in her piety," a heraldic term meaning caring for her young. It long has been a religious symbol for motherly solicitude.

THE HERALDIC device on the Ford cars was first displayed on the 1950 models and has been adapted from a much simpler coat of arms of a 17th Century Ford family.

There are about 20 Ford families of English and Irish origin mentioned in Burke's General Armory as qualified to bear arms. The arms of Ford of Sussex were three crowned lions rampant (standing upright) and apparently is the basis for the design produced by Ford stylists.

The Lincoln car was named in honor of President Lincoln and its emblem is registered for an ancient English family of that name, apparently thought to be ancestors of the Great Emancipator. Actually, of course, Lincoln came of sturdy, simple people with no aristocrats anywhere in the line.

The Scottish engineer, David Dunbar Buick, placed his family coat of arms on the first cars he built and today's Buicks still carry a good replica of the same device.

The diagonal bar is easily visualized as the scarf worn over a Scottish warrior's shoulder. The buck's head and cross also seem symbolic of gallant people in their wild highlands. Unfortunately, although Buick made a fortune with his discovery of a way to apply porcelain to iron in the making of bathtubs, he lost his riches as an auto pioneer.

A New Handy Gadget

WESTFIELD, N. J. (AP) — Peter Lanza has patented a bite-proof hand he hopes will earn enough to feed him. Tired of being nipped while training his pet parakeets, he invented a plastic imitation hand, which can be placed in the bird's cage to accustom it to handling.

A Luring Smile

BALTIMORE (AP) — The little girl of 5 was irresistibly cute to two baseball patrons in a car as she waved a flashlight and directed them to a parking space near Memorial Stadium. The child's charm faded, though, when a woman appeared and said the parking fee would be $1.

For stick proof pie crusts, use a pastry cloth and a stockinette cover for your rolling pin. They can be washed in your washing machine, and they will help you turn out professional-looking pies and cookies.

How To Smooth The Way For A New Kid In School

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Are your kids going to a new school this year?

If you're one of the many American families moving to a new job or business assignment for Dad, you'll be thinking — or should be— of how you can help your child get along in his new school.

The impact on children of moving varies widely according to age.

Adjustment is easiest in the primary and elementary grades. Young children probably are the most completely democratic of humans. Unless he proves himself a complete stinker, they'll be interested in a new child and will welcome him.

BUT IF your boy or girl is of junior high school age, you should realize that children in early teens can be heartlessly exclusive. In their social awkwardness, many children at this age just aren't sure of how to go about making a new friend, even if inwardly wanting to. A newcomer can suffer painful emotional hurt.

High school students are growing or have grown out of the early teeners' lack of social confidence. A new boy or girl probably will find it easier to be accepted than in junior high.

Don't be alarmed by these tribal traits of youth.

School men agree that children, generally, are pretty flexible as social creatures. They likely will adjust more quickly and better in a new community than parents. But Vice Principal Ralph Mason of Palo Alto High School, Vice Principal Dan Stone of Jordan Junior High School, and Principal William P. Johnson of Walter Hays Elementary School say there are steps parents can take to smooth the way.

The essential first step for the parent is to make sure the old school provides a transfer report on your boy or girl to the new school. The transfer report will guide the new principal and teachers in fitting your child in with classmates of matching achievement levels.

A GIRL ONCE came to Jordan Junior High from her family's overseas assignment in Tokyo without a classifying report on her previous school achievement. She had studied under American teachers there in a school maintaining higher grade achievement levels than a normal public school.

She found herself repeating work she'd already had. She was bored. Her classmates resented her attitude of superiority and rejected her as an unwelcome "brain."

The reverse mistake of a child being assigned to a grade or group beyond his achievement level can cause greater trouble. Students in high school should arrange, if at all possible, to complete their school year or semester before shifting to the family's new town.

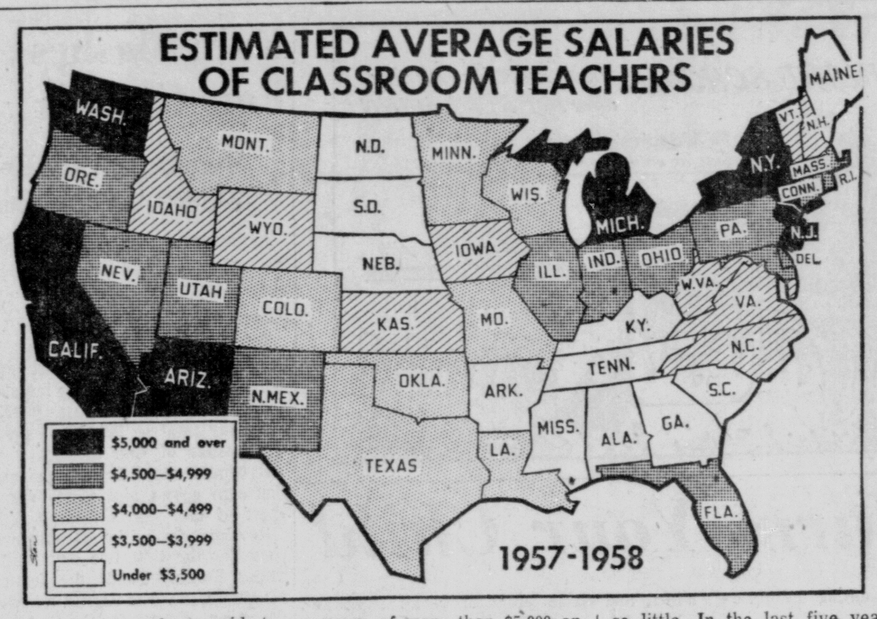
Mid-term moves can break up a student's progress in high school subjects, particularly in mathematics or the sciences. Finishing a school term before a move is less important in elementary and junior high school.

Other tips:

The mother, or both parents if possible, should make an advance visit with the child to the new school and meet the principal and teacher.

A mother should check with the teacher or neighbor children on the school's clothes fashions.

If a child shows unhappiness with a new school, try quickly to find out the reason, if you can. Consult the teacher for help in working out a problem while it's still small.



The average salary paid to public school teachers in the 1957-58 school year was about $4,520, according to the National Education Assn. From state to state it ranged from $2,525 in Mississippi to $5,750 in California.

New York was just behind California, paying an average of $5,687. In 1956-57, New York led with $5,500 to $5,150 in California. Seven states are now paying an average of more than $5,000 annually, compared with only two states in 1956-57.

Mississippi's $2,525 makes it the only state paying an average of less than $3,100 a year. Arkansas was low in 1956-57 with $2,380, but this past school year jumped to $3,180.

The NEA says that five years ago 20 per cent of the classroom teachers in public schools were paid less than $2,500 a year; today only 3.7 per cent are paid so little. In the last five years the proportion of classroom teachers paid as much as $4,500 rose from 13 to 41 per cent.

Secondary school teachers this past school year were paid an average of $4,840, about 12 per cent higher than the $4,325 average in elementary schools. Five years ago the difference was 18 per cent. The difference, NEA said, was primarily due to the higher levels of preparation required of high school teachers.

Most Of Your Car Crests Have Historic Background

The influence of the age of rockets on American auto design may be getting stronger every year, but there is one area where the industry still pays homage to the past—the very distant past.

When a Detroit designer gets around to putting his company's signature on a new car, he does it with a crest often dating back hundreds of years.

One company's emblem can be traced to the 11th century, before man had given much thought to carriages, much less those that could move without horses.

Not all of the automakers are able to point to such ancient lineage, of course.

Some of them can't trace their trademarks beyond their own design department, where the stylists simply put together a fancy emblem. One was laid out from an early automaker's recollection of a wallpaper pattern he saw in a French hotel.

ALTHOUGH they are commonly referred to as "crests," the word is a misnomer.

In the specialty of heraldry, the distinguishing emblem of an aristocrat is called a coat of arms. The coat of arms consists of a "shield," the central section containing symbols designating family accomplishments or honors from a grateful monarch; a "crest," the ornament or decoration atop the helmet which usually rests on the shield; and "mantling," the decorations providing a background for the shield.

Seven of the emblems employed by car manufacturers today are based on coats of arms which have historic validity.

The coat of arms on the Cadillac Division of General Motors is the authentic heraldic device of le Sieur de la Mothe Cadillac, the man largely responsible for the founding of Detroit in 1701.

Dated Texts Given Major Overhauling

Scientists 'Blow Dust Off Physics'

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)— The study of high school physics, shunned by many pupils and feared by most, is getting a fascinating facelifting that soon may make it the most popular subject in the wonderful world of science.

For almost two years the Physical Science Study Committee, composed of high school and college teachers of physics, has been engaged in producing a new high school physics curriculum.

During this time it has developed a new text, laboratory and demonstration materials, films, supplementary booklets for students, and teacher's guides. The new curriculum was introduced last year in eight schools with gratifying results.

The committee's headquarters are at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The program is directed by Dr. Jerrold R. Zacharias, MIT professor of physics and director of the institute's Laboratory for Nuclear Science.

ZACHARIAS, an alert, jovial, 53-year-old scientist, began the program because: "I got fed up hearing professional physicists complain about high school students not being taught even the fundamentals of physics."

"Zack," decided the dust should be blown off the subject. "Physics should be a pleasant dish, not a harsh medicine," is his theory.

MIT backed his beliefs and in 1956 he called a giant meeting of professional physicists and teachers from all over the nation to discuss theories on how the subject could be made more inviting and interesting to high school students.

Out of that meeting came a plan to modernize textbooks and teaching practices which had remained largely unchanged since the turn of the century.

The first requirement was money. The National Science Foundation got the ball rolling with a large grant in 1956. Then came gifts from the Ford Foundation, the Fund for the Advancement of Science and from retired industrialist Alfred P. Sloan. In its first year the committee received $1,695,000. Since then grants have been received as needed.

—:—

THE NEXT step was to enlist the aid of the men and women intimate with this difficult subject. A 17 - member steering committee was set up that included top rank scientists such as Vannevar Bush, Elpert P. Little, Edwin H. Land and James R. Killian Jr.

A blueprint was drawn and work began. First came a new textbook. It concentrated not on a whole menu of physics, but on the "meat and potato" portions.

The book's layout is attractive and interesting — pictures and diagrams highlight the text. Written with the student in mind, it makes the teacher's task easier.

Laboratory devices then were devised. Not expensive apparatus, but those within the reach of even the most modest school budget.

Coat hangers, curtain rings and ping pong balls can be used for such equipment. For example, scales can be made with two soda straws and a piece of cardboard that will be precise enough to weigh the wing of a fly.

REGARDING the laboratory phase Zacharias says: "We are convinced that the basic principles of physics can be demonstrated with apparatus which the student himself can make. Any student, whether he is good with his hands or not, can make something that will convince him that what the book says is true.

"Most students are interested in fixing, measuring, mixing or manufacturing. The laboratory aids this urge and we have proved that materials to make simple scientific devices are available no matter where he lives."

The third part of the program involves the use of films.

A Watertown (Mass.) theater was purchased and converted into a studio where 70 scientific films are being produced.

The films, all in color, will serve as supplementary classroom aids which will be coordinated with the text.

Last year the Zacharias technique was ued in high schools and prep schools in Illinois, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New York and Pennsylvania.

This summer 250 science teachers took a two - month course in the new approach. Instructions were given at Bowdoin College in Maine, the University of Connecticut, University of Minnesota, the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies and at Reed College in Oregon.

Next year it is hoped that more than 2,000 teachers will be trained for the new syllabus.

The project is meeting with such success that the committee soon hopes to tackle new ways of teaching chemistry, biology and mathematics.

Eventually it is hoped that the study of physics will become just as popular with the teen - agers as popcorn, pizza and parties.

'FBI Story' Offered Test To Script Men

By BOB THOMAS
AP Motion Picture Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—How they could get a movie out of Don Whitehead's best seller, "The FBI Story", seemed a puzzle.

The book had a wealth of fascinating data, but no central story line. So when I learned that Warner Brothers was off and running with the film version, I went out to Burbank to investigate.

I sought out director Mervyn LeRoy, the Rooney-sized movie maker and race track tycoon.

"How on earth did you get a script out of 'The FBI Story'?" I asked him.

"Toughest job I ever tackled," said LeRoy, brandishing his omnipresent cigar.

I dutifully followed him to a nearby set that depicted Oklahoma in the oil rush days. It was realistic as all get-out, even to the mud on my shoes.

"This is where Stewart goes on his first case," LeRoy said. "The banker is killing off the rich Indians to get their oil rights. It's a tough case, but the FBI solves it. I've got 160 sets on this picture, more than I've ever had on a picture before."

Did J. Edgar Hoover see the script?

"Did he! Of course, he read it. So did the attorney general. They have given us terrific cooperation in preparing the story. We'll shoot part of it in Washington. Also at the FBI training grounds at Camp Quantico, in New York, St. Louis and the Bronx."

How does the picture end?

"Think I'm going to tell you?" he snorted.

Obviously not, I concuded as he stalked off to toss some directions at the crew. Still not having solved my case, I sought out James Stewart for an explanation of how the story was licked.

"I think the problem was solved in a very ingenious way," he explained. "The Whitehead book was largely a straight history of the FBI. "The picture script tries to tell the story of the FBI through the eyes of one man and his family.

"It begins in 1924, when the bureau of investigation is pretty badly hit with corruption. I get married and decide to quit. But I go to Washington and meet the new chief, J. Edgar Hoover (who isn't portrayed in the picture). I come away so impressed with him that I decide to stay on."

The film will then show many of the famous cases the FBI licked, such as Baby Face Nelson, Machinegun Kelly, John Dillinger, the Colorado plane bombing, Nazi subversives in Latin America and a Communist surveillance in New York.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Stew Stewart had 2,000 snowballs made at an ice plant to give away in a Christmas - in - July sales promotion. But most of the snowballs melted before they could be given away.

Jolting Meeting

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. (AP) — Grandfather and grandson met recently in a jolting way. Andrew Wysocki was about to make a right turn in his automobile when his car was struck by another. Inside this one was his 9 - year - old grandson, Michael Wysocki. Mike's father said the boy probably had accidentally released the brakes on the parked car.

A Midget Motorist

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — Timothy Lee Bunn, 3½ years old, decided to go for a drive in the family car. He climbed in the vehicle, released the brakes, shifted the gears to neutral and it started rolling down hill. The car struck a telephone pole, causing $25 damage.

Postage Still Is Due

MORRISTOWN, N. J (AP)—Paul Richelle was a bit surprised the other day when a post card was returned for a penny additional postage. He'd mailed it 31 years ago—when postage was a penny—to a seed company for a free 25-pound trial bag of fertilizer.

Enjoyed Trip, Only Male On Tour Says

"I really enjoyed the trip."

Can't Stop? Smile

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Motorists traveling behind a certain semi-trailer exercised a little more caution after reading this sign affixed to the rear: "If you can't stop, smile as you go under."

Injured Kadis Continues His Recovery Bid

CLEVELAND (AP) — Dick Kadis' 23rd birthday Friday will be pretty much like the other days at Highland View Hospital, where Kadis was brought a year and a half ago paralyzed as the result of a football injury.

So completely paralyzed he seems almost in a coma, the Geneva College (Pa.) football player will be fed through a tube by one of the three nurses who provide a continual watch 24 hours a day.

If the weather is good, a nurse may take him to the sun porch in a wheelchair. He will take some physical therapy, moving his arms and legs a few inches and raising himself to an upright position.

He cannot talk, and no one is sure how much he understands of what he sees and hears.

His mother will visit him, as she has visited him every day, along with his father, Cleveland restaurant operator Charles Kadis.

The youth was injured Sept. 29, 1956, and underwent brain surgery at a Pittsburgh Hospital before being brought to Cleveland.

The elder Kadis says Dick looks good, physically. He has gained 60 pounds at Highland View and now weighs close to 190. He had completely lost his hair earlier, but his hair now is growing out.

"He smiles at times," Kadis said. "He recognizes a little bit. We believe he understands."

Medical expenses for Dick reportedly are running more than $22,000 a year. However, three fund drives last year collected more than $60,000. These funds, since consolidated, have $33,666 left—estimated to be enough for 17 more months.

Doctors expect no sudden developments, although a nurse is on duty continually in the event of an adverse development. As time goes on there is less and less danger of that.

One hospital official remarked that it is a matter now of Dick slowly regaining use of powers.

"It's a long pull," he said.

Serious Oversight

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP) — President J. Lawrence Walkup of Arizona State College at Flagstaff told the State Board of Regents something was missing from specifications for a new teacher education building. "What," the regents asked. "Toilets for the kindergarten department," he answered.

New York City occupies 6-100,000ths of the earth's land surface.

The Pile Lighthouse in Ireland was built by Alexander Mitchell 113 years ago. He was an engineer but blind at the time.

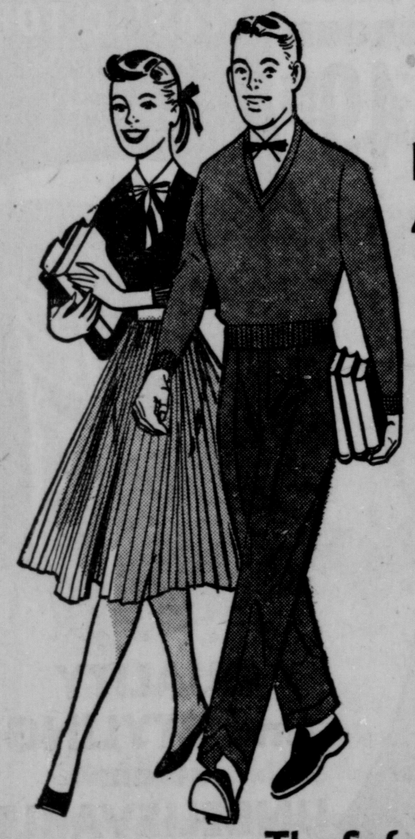
School bells will soon be ringing, and our streets and roads will be filled with children heading back to school! This means that you as a driver must be extra-careful, extra-alert! Drive slowly for the sake of the children—YOUR CHILDREN! Remember, they're young, eager, sometimes unpredictable . . . they MAY see you . . . BE SURE you see them! Is a child's life worth five minutes? . . . then remember now to always drive slowly! Is a child's life worth a little attention? . . . then remember now to always drive carefully! From here on in watch out for school busses and give them every courtesy. Watch out for children walking to and from school, children waiting for the bus at corners, children at play . . . for they may dart into the street after a ball! It's your responsibility to drive slowly, carefully and be alert to every possible emergency! SAVE A CHILD'S LIFE!



FOLLOW THESE SAFETY RULES AND SAVE A LIFE!

DON'T drive a mechanically unsafe car. Make sure brakes, steering wheel, tires are perfect!

DON'T ever exceed the legal speed limit; drive even slower if traffic conditions warrant it!

DON'T let your attention wander to your companions, the scenery! An alert driver is an alive driver!

DON'T forget to check yourself as well as your car! Don't drive if you're overtired or sleepy!

DON'T leave your courtesy at home! Obey road rules, drive so as to protect pedestrians and drivers!

DO obey all traffic regulations, markings and signals! Always be courteous, alert, cautions!

Scientists 'Blow Dust Off Physics'

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)— The study of high school physics, shunned by many pupils and feared by most, is getting a fascinating facelifting that soon may make it the most popular subject in the wonderful world of science.

For almost two years the Physical Science Study Committee, composed of high school and college teachers of physics, has been engaged in producing a new high school physics curriculum.

During this time it has developed a new text, laboratory and demonstration materials, films, supplementary booklets for students, and teacher's guides. The new curriculum was introduced last year in eight schools with gratifying results.

The committee's headquarters are at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The program is directed by Dr. Jerrold R. Zacharias, MIT professor of physics and director of the institute's Laboratory for Nuclear Science.

ZACHARIAS, an alert, jovial, 53-year-old scientist, began the program because: "I got fed up hearing professional physicists complain about high school students not being taught even the fundamentals of physics."

"Zack," decided the dust should be blown off the subject. "Physics should be a pleasant dish, not a harsh medicine," is his theory.

MIT backed his beliefs and in 1956 he called a giant meeting of professional physicists and teachers from all over the nation to discuss theories on how the subject could be made more inviting and interesting to high school students.

Out of that meeting came a plan to modernize textbooks and teaching practices which had remained largely unchanged since the turn of the century.

The first requirement was money. The National Science Foundation got the ball rolling with a large grant in 1956. Then came gifts from the Ford Foundation, the Fund for the Advancement of Science and from retired industrialist Alfred P. Sloan. In its first year the committee received $1,695,000. Since then grants have been received as needed.

—:—

THE NEXT step was to enlist the aid of the men and women intimate with this difficult subject. A 17 - member steering committee was set up that included top rank scientists such as Vannevar Bush, Elpert P. Little, Edwin H. Land and James R. Killian Jr.

A blueprint was drawn and work began. First came a new textbook. It concentrated not on a whole menu of physics, but on the "meat and potato" portions.

The book's layout is attractive and interesting — pictures and diagrams highlight the text. Written with the student in mind, it makes the teacher's task easier.

Laboratory devices then were devised. Not expensive apparatus, but those within the reach of even the most modest school budget.

Coat hangers, curtain rings and ping pong balls can be used for such equipment. For example, scales can be made with two soda straws and a piece of cardboard that will be precise enough to weigh the wing of a fly.

REGARDING the laboratory phase Zacharias says: "We are convinced that the basic principles of physics can be demonstrated with apparatus which the student himself can make. Any student, whether he is good with his hands or not, can make something that will convince him that what the book says is true.

"Most students are interested in fixing, measuring, mixing or manufacturing. The laboratory aids this urge and we have proved that materials to make simple scientific devices are available no matter where he lives."

The third part of the program involves the use of films.

A Watertown (Mass.) theater was purchased and converted into a studio where 70 scientific films are being produced.

The films, all in color, will serve as supplementary classroom aids which will be coordinated with the text.

Last year the Zacharias technique was ued in high schools and prep schools in Illinois, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New York and Pennsylvania.

This summer 250 science teachers took a two - month course in the new approach. Instructions were given at Bowdoin College in Maine, the University of Connecticut, University of Minnesota, the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies and at Reed College in Oregon.

Next year it is hoped that more than 2,000 teachers will be trained for the new syllabus.

The project is meeting with such success that the committee soon hopes to tackle new ways of teaching chemistry, biology and mathematics.

Eventually it is hoped that the study of physics will become just as popular with the teen - agers as popcorn, pizza and parties.

'FBI Story' Offered Test To Script Men

By BOB THOMAS
AP Motion Picture Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—How they could get a movie out of Don Whitehead's best seller, "The FBI Story", seemed a puzzle.

The book had a wealth of fascinating data, but no central story line. So when I learned that Warner Brothers was off and running with the film version, I went out to Burbank to investigate.

I sought out director Mervyn LeRoy, the Rooney-sized movie maker and race track tycoon.

"How on earth did you get a script out of 'The FBI Story'?" I asked him.

"Toughest job I ever tackled," said LeRoy, brandishing his omnipresent cigar.

I dutifully followed him to a nearby set that depicted Oklahoma in the oil rush days. It was realistic as all get-out, even to the mud on my shoes.

"This is where Stewart goes on his first case," LeRoy said. "The banker is killing off the rich Indians to get their oil rights. It's a tough case, but the FBI solves it. I've got 160 sets on this picture, more than I've ever had on a picture before."

Did J. Edgar Hoover see the script?

"Did he! Of course, he read it. So did the attorney general. They have given us terrific cooperation in preparing the story. We'll shoot part of it in Washington. Also at the FBI training grounds at Camp Quantico, in New York, St. Louis and the Bronx."

How does the picture end?

"Think I'm going to tell you?" he snorted.

Obviously not, I concuded as he stalked off to toss some directions at the crew. Still not having solved my case, I sought out James Stewart for an explanation of how the story was licked.

"I think the problem was solved in a very ingenious way," he explained. "The Whitehead book was largely a straight history of the FBI. "The picture script tries to tell the story of the FBI through the eyes of one man and his family.

"It begins in 1924, when the bureau of investigation is pretty badly hit with corruption. I get married and decide to quit. But I go to Washington and meet the new chief, J. Edgar Hoover (who isn't portrayed in the picture). I come away so impressed with him that I decide to stay on."

The film will then show many of the famous cases the FBI licked, such as Baby Face Nelson, Machinegun Kelly, John Dillinger, the Colorado plane bombing, Nazi subversives in Latin America and a Communist surveillance in New York.

Jolting Meeting

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. (AP) — Grandfather and grandson met recently in a jolting way. Andrew Wysocki was about to make a right turn in his automobile when his car was struck by another. Inside this one was his 9 - year - old grandson, Michael Wysocki. Mike's father said the boy probably had accidentally released the brakes on the parked car.

Injured Kadis Continues His Recovery Bid

CLEVELAND (AP) — Dick Kadis' 23rd birthday Friday will be pretty much like the other days at Highland View Hospital, where Kadis was brought a year and a half ago paralyzed as the result of a football injury.

So completely paralyzed he seems almost in a coma, the Geneva College (Pa.) football player will be fed through a tube by one of the three nurses who provide a continual watch 24 hours a day.

If the weather is good, a nurse may take him to the sun porch in a wheelchair. He will take some physical therapy, moving his arms and legs a few inches and raising himself to an upright position.

He cannot talk, and no one is sure how much he understands of what he sees and hears.

His mother will visit him, as she has visited him every day, along with his father, Cleveland restaurant operator Charles Kadis.

The youth was injured Sept. 29, 1956, and underwent brain surgery at a Pittsburgh Hospital before being brought to Cleveland.

The elder Kadis says Dick looks good, physically. He has gained 60 pounds at Highland View and now weighs close to 190. He had completely lost his hair earlier, but his hair now is growing out.

"He smiles at times," Kadis said. "He recognizes a little bit. We believe he understands."

Medical expenses for Dick reportedly are running more than $22,000 a year. However, three fund drives last year collected more than $60,000. These funds, since consolidated, have $33,666 left—estimated to be enough for 17 more months.

Doctors expect no sudden developments, although a nurse is on duty continually in the event of an adverse development. As time goes on there is less and less danger of that.

One hospital official remarked that it is a matter now of Dick slowly regaining use of powers.

"It's a long pull," he said.

The Pile Lighthouse in Ireland was built by Alexander Mitchell 113 years ago. He was an engineer but blind at the time.

Serious Oversight

Scientists 'Blow Dust Off Physics'

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)— The study of high school physics, shunned by many pupils and feared by most, is getting a fascinating facelifting that soon may make it the most popular subject in the wonderful world of science.

For almost two years the Physical Science Study Committee, composed of high school and college teachers of physics, has been engaged in producing a new high school physics curriculum.

During this time it has developed a new text, laboratory and demonstration materials, films, supplementary booklets for students, and teacher's guides. The new curriculum was introduced last year in eight schools with gratifying results.

The committee's headquarters are at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The program is directed by Dr. Jerrold R. Zacharias, MIT professor of physics and director of the institute's Laboratory for Nuclear Science.

ZACHARIAS, an alert, jovial, 53-year-old scientist, began the program because: "I got fed up hearing professional physicists complain about high school students not being taught even the fundamentals of physics."

"Zack," decided the dust should be blown off the subject. "Physics should be a pleasant dish, not a harsh medicine," is his theory.

MIT backed his beliefs and in 1956 he called a giant meeting of professional physicists and teachers from all over the nation to discuss theories on how the subject could be made more inviting and interesting to high school students.

Out of that meeting came a plan to modernize textbooks and teaching practices which had remained largely unchanged since the turn of the century.

The first requirement was money. The National Science Foundation got the ball rolling with a large grant in 1956. Then came gifts from the Ford Foundation, the Fund for the Advancement of Science and from retired industrialist Alfred P. Sloan. In its first year the committee received $1,695,000. Since then grants have been received as needed.

—:—

THE NEXT step was to enlist the aid of the men and women intimate with this difficult subject. A 17 - member steering committee was set up that included top rank scientists such as Vannevar Bush, Elpert P. Little, Edwin H. Land and James R. Killian Jr.

A blueprint was drawn and work began. First came a new textbook. It concentrated not on a whole menu of physics, but on the "meat and potato" portions.

The book's layout is attractive and interesting — pictures and diagrams highlight the text. Written with the student in mind, it makes the teacher's task easier.

Laboratory devices then were devised. Not expensive apparatus, but those within the reach of even the most modest school budget.

Coat hangers, curtain rings and ping pong balls can be used for such equipment. For example, scales can be made with two soda straws and a piece of cardboard that will be precise enough to weigh the wing of a fly.

REGARDING the laboratory phase Zacharias says: "We are convinced that the basic principles of physics can be demonstrated with apparatus which the student himself can make. Any student, whether he is good with his hands or not, can make something that will convince him that what the book says is true.

"Most students are interested in fixing, measuring, mixing or manufacturing. The laboratory aids this urge and we have proved that materials to make simple scientific devices are available no matter where he lives."

The third part of the program involves the use of films.

A Watertown (Mass.) theater was purchased and converted into a studio where 70 scientific films are being produced.

The films, all in color, will serve as supplementary classroom aids which will be coordinated with the text.

Last year the Zacharias technique was ued in high schools and prep schools in Illinois, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New York and Pennsylvania.

This summer 250 science teachers took a two - month course in the new approach. Instructions were given at Bowdoin College in Maine, the University of Connecticut, University of Minnesota, the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies and at Reed College in Oregon.

Next year it is hoped that more than 2,000 teachers will be trained for the new syllabus.

The project is meeting with such success that the committee soon hopes to tackle new ways of teaching chemistry, biology and mathematics.

Eventually it is hoped that the study of physics will become just as popular with the teen - agers as popcorn, pizza and parties.

'FBI Story' Offered Test To Script Men

By BOB THOMAS
AP Motion Picture Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—How they could get a movie out of Don Whitehead's best seller, "The FBI Story", seemed a puzzle.

The book had a wealth of fascinating data, but no central story line. So when I learned that Warner Brothers was off and running with the film version, I went out to Burbank to investigate.

I sought out director Mervyn LeRoy, the Rooney-sized movie maker and race track tycoon.

"How on earth did you get a script out of 'The FBI Story'?" I asked him.

"Toughest job I ever tackled," said LeRoy, brandishing his omnipresent cigar.

I dutifully followed him to a nearby set that depicted Oklahoma in the oil rush days. It was realistic as all get-out, even to the mud on my shoes.

"This is where Stewart goes on his first case," LeRoy said. "The banker is killing off the rich Indians to get their oil rights. It's a tough case, but the FBI solves it. I've got 160 sets on this picture, more than I've ever had on a picture before."

Did J. Edgar Hoover see the script?

"Did he! Of course, he read it. So did the attorney general. They have given us terrific cooperation in preparing the story. We'll shoot part of it in Washington. Also at the FBI training grounds at Camp Quantico, in New York, St. Louis and the Bronx."

How does the picture end?

"Think I'm going to tell you?" he snorted.

Obviously not, I concuded as he stalked off to toss some directions at the crew. Still not having solved my case, I sought out James Stewart for an explanation of how the story was licked.

"I think the problem was solved in a very ingenious way," he explained. "The Whitehead book was largely a straight history of the FBI. "The picture script tries to tell the story of the FBI through the eyes of one man and his family.

"It begins in 1924, when the bureau of investigation is pretty badly hit with corruption. I get married and decide to quit. But I go to Washington and meet the new chief, J. Edgar Hoover (who isn't portrayed in the picture). I come away so impressed with him that I decide to stay on."

The film will then show many of the famous cases the FBI licked, such as Baby Face Nelson, Machinegun Kelly, John Dillinger, the Colorado plane bombing, Nazi subversives in Latin America and a Communist surveillance in New York.

Frozen Assets Melt

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Stew Stewart had 2,000 snowballs made at an ice plant to give away in a Christmas - in - July sales promotion. But most of the snowballs melted before they could be given away.

Jolting Meeting

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. (AP) — Grandfather and grandson met recently in a jolting way. Andrew Wysocki was about to make a right turn in his automobile when his car was struck by another. Inside this one was his 9 - year - old grandson, Michael Wysocki. Mike's father said the boy probably had accidentally released the brakes on the parked car.

A Midget Motorist

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — Timothy Lee Bunn, 3½ years old, decided to go for a drive in the family car. He climbed in the vehicle, released the brakes, shifted the gears to neutral and it started rolling down hill. The car struck a telephone pole, causing $25 damage.

Postage Still Is Due

MORRISTOWN, N. J (AP)—Paul Richelle was a bit surprised the other day when a post card was returned for a penny additional postage. He'd mailed it 31 years ago—when postage was a penny—to a seed company for a free 25-pound trial bag of fertilizer.

Enjoyed Trip, Only Male On Tour Says

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Moley Stuart was the only male among 21 females — 19 students and 2 chaperones — who toured Mexico with the Spanish class of Thomas Jefferson High School. His comment:

"I really enjoyed the trip."

How Now Brown Cow

PONCA CITY, Okla. (AP)—"Check on a cow going down Hillcrest," said the police radio. "What color is it?" came the reply. "I haven't any idea," said the dispatcher, who waited a moment then added: "Cow: c-o-w."

Can't Stop? Smile

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Motorists traveling behind a certain semi-trailer exercised a little more caution after reading this sign affixed to the rear: "If you can't stop, smile as you go under."

The Pile Lighthouse in Ireland was built by Alexander Mitchell 113 years ago. He was an engineer but blind at the time.

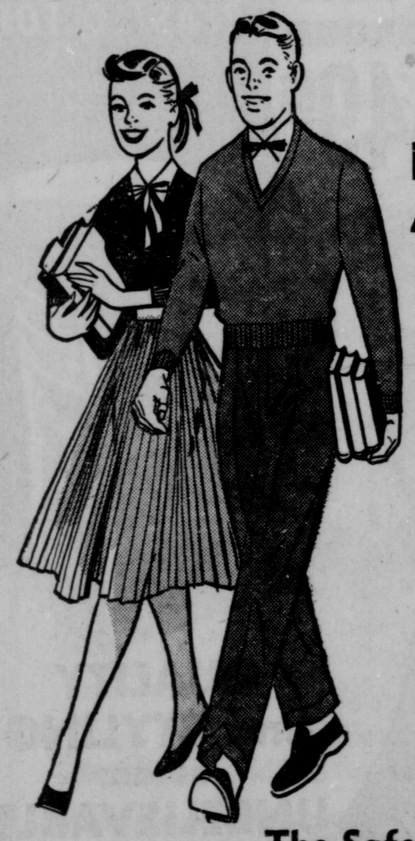
IT'S BACK TO SCHOOL TIME AGAIN
DRIVE WITH CAUTION

SLOW DOWN AND LIVE!
THE LIFE YOU SAVE MAY BE A CHILDS!

School bells will soon be ringing, and our streets and roads will be filled with children heading back to school! This means that you as a driver must be extra-careful, extra-alert! Drive slowly for the sake of the children—YOUR CHILDREN! Remember, they're young, eager, sometimes unpredictable . . . they MAY see you . . . BE SURE you see them! Is a child's life worth five minutes? . . . then remember now to always drive slowly! Is a child's life worth a little attention? . . . then remember now to always drive carefully! From here on in watch out for school busses and give them every courtesy. Watch out for children walking to and from school, children waiting for the bus at corners, children at play . . . for they may dart into the street after a ball! It's your responsibility to drive slowly, carefully and be alert to every possible emergency! SAVE A CHILD'S LIFE!



FOLLOW THESE SAFETY RULES AND SAVE A LIFE!

DON'T drive a mechanically unsafe car. Make sure brakes, steering wheel, tires are perfect!

DON'T ever exceed the legal speed limit; drive even slower if traffic conditions warrant it!

DON'T let your attention wander to your companions, the scenery! An alert driver is an alive driver!

DON'T forget to check yourself as well as your car! Don't drive if you're overtired or sleepy!

DON'T leave your courtesy at home! Obey road rules, drive so as to protect pedestrians and drivers!

Accessories Are Important

Male Fashions Offer Boy Chance For Individuality

They're not given to making the uproar about it their sisters do, but boys find that fashions in clothes are as important in their social life as they are in a girl's.

And although the instinct to conform is nowhere stronger than in youth, a boy still wants to express his individuality in the clothes he wears: he wants to dress in the styles popular with his classmates, yet he also wants to be just a little bit different. It sounds strange, but what he really wants is to be "uniformly different."

According to the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear, this is not nearly as frustrating or difficult as it sounds. The reason is that today's fashions give each teen - ager more opportunity than ever to play up his own personality while wearing the right outfit for each occasion.

TAKE SLACKS, for instance. The look this year is slim and trim. Pleatless models that set comparatively low on the hips are steady favorites, but there are many "optionals": stripes, novel trims or pocket treatments, new shades. All are acceptable, all different.

The standard combination with slacks of this type in deep color is a light three - button single-breasted center - vent sports jacket. But there's a world of choice in pattern and color for the jacket, and as much to the button-down oxford shirt worn under it.

The budding personality can clearly shine through in the accessories. A neat, bright - patterned narrow tie in one of the soft or silky fabrics currently favored combines nicely with a solid color, argyle or stripe-top sock that picks up the flavor of the neckwear.

OCCASIONS more formal that attending classes call for a suit and business - like shirt. The suit should show that same slim, neat look, but the wearer has a wide choice in color and can go in for patterns, possibly a small herringbone.

Again accessories are important. French cuffs make possible an extra bit of brightness — cuff links worn with a tie bar on pin in matching metal.

Clothes for around the house or the corner drugstore, although in the "everyday" class, offer an excellent opportunity for a young man to look like someone special.

Striped and fancy patterned sports shirts, big bulky sweaters, reversible zipper jackets, cardigans — all in a thousand colors and trims — are just what the teen - ager needs to choose from to keep in step with the crowd, yet be himself.

'Day Of Reckoning' Arrives After Shock Of Holiday Toll

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The returning vacationer mixing with the millions taking to the roads for the long Labor Day weekend is sending anticipatory shivers today down the spines of the companies that write auto and personal injury insurance.

Because after the shock and grief at the death and injury toll that mars every holiday, comes the day of reckoning.

Americans spent three billion dollars last year for auto liability insurance. But the insurance companies say the settlements are mounting so high that many no longer are breaking even. The clamor is on for even higher insurance rates — just another phase of the inflation story.

Part of the rise in settlement claims comes from the increased cost of patching up injured bodies and repairing damaged property.

These reflect increases in medical, hospital and rehabilitation care, and higher compensation to make up for lost earnings under current wage scales.

Property damage mounts because of such features as wrap around windshields, elaborate fender sections with multiple lighting units, more ornamental and expensive bumpers, and dashboard gadgets galore.

The auto liability companies charge that on top of these rising costs there is a growing tendency to demand higher settlements. They contend that juries grow more liberal each year, if the matter goes to court instead of being settled by direct negotiation. Higher court awards encourage higher out-of-court settlements.

Insurance firms dislike going to court, not only because of the liberality with insurance company money they charge to today's juries, but also because drawn out court actions tie up their reserves.

A spokesman for the 287-member National Assn. of Independent Insurers notes that auto insurance is now so common its existence is taken for granted. Some insurance men suspect this could be a subconscious factor in making drivers a little more careless and in making complainants a little more demanding.

The Assn. of Casualty and Surety Companies complains that "Even exemplary citizens are under continuous heavy pressure by their friends to exaggerate claims in auto accident cases."

The National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters says its 114 members collectively lost 147 million dollars last year on auto accident settlements. This boiled down to $116.70 in liability claim costs for each $100 of premiums earned.

The pressure on the states to allow higher insurance rates is strong.
